Jewish-Christian Dialogues on Scripture in Late Antiquity Michal Bar-Asher Siegal, 2019-05-16

Marshalling previously untapped Christian materials, Bar Asher Siegal offers radically new insights into Talmudic stories about Scriptural debates with Christian heretics.

Exegetical Crossroads Georges Tamer, Regina Grundmann, Assaad Elias Kattan, Karl Pinggéra, 2017-12-18

The art of interpreting Holy Scriptures flourished throughout the culturally heterogeneous pre-modern Orient among Jews, Christians, and Muslims. Different ways of interpretation developed within each religion, not without considering the others. How were the interactions, and how productive were they for the further development of these traditions? Have there been blurred spaces of scholarly activity that transcended sectarian borders? What was the role played by mutual influences in profiling the own tradition against the others? These and other related questions are critically treated in the present volume.

Palestine in Late Antiquity Hagith Sivan, 2008-02-14

An original study of Palestine in late antiquity, a time when the fortunes of the east and the west were intimately linked. Thousands of westerners flocked to what became a Christian holy land, while Jerusalem grew from a sleepy Roman town into an international centre of Christianity and ultimately into a centre of Islamic worship.

Faithful Renderings Naomi Seidman, 2010-02-15

Faithful Renderings reads translation history through the lens of Jewish-Christian difference and conversely views Jewish-Christian difference as an effect of translation. Subjecting translation to a theological-political analysis, Seidman asks how the charged Jewish-Christian relationship and more particularly the dependence of Christianity on the texts and translations of a rival religion has haunted the theory and practice of translation in the West. Bringing together central issues in translation studies with episodes in Jewish-Christian history, Naomi Seidman considers a range of texts from the Bible to Elie Wiesel's Night, delving into such controversies as the accuracy of various Bible translations, the medieval use of converts from Judaism to Christianity as translators, the censorship of anti-Christian references in Jewish texts, and the translation of Holocaust testimony. Faithful Renderings ultimately reveals that translation is not a marginal phenomenon but rather a crucial issue for understanding the relations between Jews and Christians and indeed the development of each religious community.

Surviving Lamentations Tod Linfelt, 2000-07

Most contemporary interpretations of the biblical book

of Lamentations focus on the figure of the suffering man as a role model for submission in the face of God's punishment for sin. Yet such a model offers small consolation to survivors of the Holocaust or other mass atrocities and also ignores chapters 1 and 2 of Lamentations in which the personification of Zion laments her sufferings and demands a response on behalf of her dying children. In Surviving Lamentations Tod Linafelt offers an alternative reading of Lamentations in light of the literature of survival works written by survivors of catastrophe as well as literary and philosophical reflections on the survival of literature. He refocuses attention on the figure of Zion as a manifestation of a basic need to give voice to suffering and traces the afterlife of Lamentations in Jewish literature in which text after text attempts to provide the response to Zion's lament that is lacking in Lamentations itself. Seen through Linafelt's eyes Lamentations emerges as uncannily relevant to contemporary discourse on survival.

Matthew's Parable of the Royal Wedding Feast Ruth Christa Mathieson, 2023-06-02 Ruth Christa Mathieson's unique reading of Matthew's parable of the royal wedding feast Matt 22:1-14 which concludes with the king's demand that one of the guests be bound and cast out into the outer darkness focuses on the means of the underdressed guest's expulsion. Using sociorhetorical interpretation Mathieson draws the parable into conversation with early Jewish narratives of the angel Raphael binding hands and feet (1 Enoch Tobit) and the protocol for expelling individuals from the community in Matt 18. She asserts that readers are invited to consider if the person who is bound and cast out is a danger to the little ones of the community of faith unless removed and restrained.

Shared Stories, Rival Tellings Robert C. Gregg, 2015-08-05 Judaism, Christianity and Islam are considered kindred religions holding ancestral heritages and monotheistic belief in common but there are definitive distinctions between these Abrahamic peoples. Shared Stories, Rival Tellings explores the early exchanges of Jews, Christians and Muslims and argues that their interactions were dominated by debates over the meanings of certain stories sacred to all three communities. Robert C. Gregg shows how Jewish, Christian and Muslim interpreters, artists as well as authors developed their unique and particular understandings of narratives present in the two Bibles and the Qur'an. Gregg focuses on five stories: Cain and Abel, Sarah and Hagar, Joseph and Potiphar's Wife, Jonah and the Whale, and Mary the Mother of Jesus. As he guides us through the often intentional variations introduced into these shared stories, Gregg exposes major issues under contention and the social intellectual forces that contributed to spirited and sometimes combative exchanges among Jews, Christians and Muslims. Offering deeper insight into these historical moments and their implications for contemporary relations among the three religions, Shared Stories, Rival Tellings will inspire readers to consider and reconsider the dynamics of traditional and current social religious competition.

Publisher Description Religion of the Gods Kimberley Christine Patton, 2009-02-09 In many of the world s religions both polytheistic and monotheistic a seemingly enigmatic and paradoxical image is found that of the god who worships Various interpretations of this seeming paradox have been advanced Some suggest that it represents sacrifice to a higher deity Proponents of anthropomorphic projection say that the gods are just big people and that images of human religious action are simply projected onto the deities However such explanations do not do justice to the complexity and diversity of this phenomenon In Religion of the Gods Kimberley C Patton uses a comparative approach to take up anew a longstanding challenge in ancient Greek religious iconography why are the Olympian gods depicted on classical pottery making libations The sacrificing gods in ancient Greece are compared to gods who perform rituals in six other religious traditions the Vedic gods the heterodox god Zurvan of early Zoroastrianism the Old Norse god Odin the Christian God and Christ the God of Judaism and Islam s Allah Patton examines the comparative evidence from a cultural and historical perspective uncovering deep structural resonances while also revealing crucial differences Instead of looking for invisible recipients or lost myths Patton proposes the new category of divine reflexivity Divinely performed ritual is a self reflexive self expressive action that signals the origin of ritual in the divine and not the human realm Above all divine ritual is generative both instigating and inspiring human religious activity The religion practiced by the gods is both like and unlike human religious action Seen from within the religious tradition gods are not big people but other than human Human ritual is directed outward to a divine being but the gods practice ritual on their own behalf Cultic time the symbiotic performance of ritual both in heaven and on earth collapses the distinction between cult and theology each time ritual is performed Offering the first comprehensive study and a new theory of this fascinating phenomenon Religion of the Gods is a significant contribution to the fields of classics and comparative religion Patton shows that the god who performs religious action is not an anomaly but holds a meaningful place in the category of ritual and points to a phenomenologically universal structure within religion itself

The Messiah and the Jews Elaine Rose Glickman, 2013 A comprehensive inspiring and fascinating discovery of what Jews believe about the Messiah and why you might believe in the Messiah too The conviction that the Messiah is coming is a promise of meaning It is a source of consolation It is a wellspring of creativity It is a reconciliation between what is and what should be And it is perhaps our most powerful statement of faith in God in humanity and in ourselves from Chapter 1 The Messiah Is Coming The coming of the Messiah the promise of redemption is among Judaism's gifts to the world But it is a gift about which the world knows so little It has been overshadowed by Christian belief and teaching and as a result its Jewish significance has been all but lost To further complicate matters Jewish messianic teaching is enthralling compelling challenging exhilarating yet up until now woefully inaccessible This book will change that Rabbi Elaine Rose Glickman brings together and to life this three thousand year old tradition as never before Rather than simply reviewing the vast body of Jewish messianic literature she explores an astonishing range of primary and secondary sources explaining in an informative yet inspirational way these teachings significance for Jews of the past and infuses them with new meaning for the modern reader both Jewish and non Jewish
