Trinity Playhouse, Judicial Cases Concerning American Slavery and the Negro Helen Tunnicliff Catterall, James John Hayden, 1929 Covers cases up through 1875 Reflective Parenting Sheila Redfern, Alistair Cooper, Alistair

Cooper, 2015-09-07 Have you ever wondered what's going on in your child's mind This engaging book shows how reflective parenting can help you understand your children manage their behaviour and build your relationship and connection with them It is filled with practical advice showing how recent developments in mentalization attachment and neuroscience have transformed our understanding of the parent child relationship and can bring meaningful change to your own family relationships Alistair Cooper and Sheila Redfern show you how to make a positive impact on your relationship with your child starting from the development of the baby's first relationship with you as parents to how you can be more reflective in relationships with toddlers children and young people Using everyday examples the authors provide you with practical strategies to develop a more reflective style of parenting and how to use this approach in everyday interactions to help your child achieve their full potential in their development cognitively emotionally and behaviourally Reflective Parenting is an informative and enriching read for parents written to help parents form a better relationship with their children It is also an essential resource for clinicians working with children young people and families to support them in managing the dynamics of the child parent relationship This is a book that every parent needs to read The Southern Hospitality Myth Anthony Szczesiul, 2017-06 Hospitality as a cultural trait has been associated with the South for well over two centuries but the origins of this association and the reasons for its perseverance often seem unclear Anthony Szczesiul looks at how and why we have taken something so particular as the social habit of hospitality which is exercised among diverse individuals and is widely varied in its particular practices and so generalized it as to make it a cultural trait of an entire region of the country

Historians have offered a variety of explanations of the origins and cultural practices of hospitality in the antebellum South Economic historians have at times portrayed southern hospitality as evidence of conspicuous consumption and competition among wealthy planters while cultural historians have treated it peripherally as a symptomatic expression of the southern code of honor Although historians have offered different theories they generally agree that the mythic dimensions of southern hospitality eventually outstripped its actual practices Szczesiul examines why we have chosen to remember and valorize this particular aspect of the South and he raises fundamental ethical questions that underlie both the concept of hospitality and the cultural work of American memory particularly in light of the region s historical legacy of slavery and segregation

Children of Coercive Control Evan Stark,2023 In accessible prose illustrated by dramatic cases from his forensic practice Evan Stark shows that the vast majority of children killed or seriously injured in families are victims of coercive control by their father Coercive control has been adapted by many countries and US States as the overarching definition of violence against women Children are secondary victims of this process Stark describes why he would abolish the child welfare system and replace the ameliorative approach to child abuse and child protection with criminal laws against coercive control and support independence for women and children Harper's New Monthly Magazine ,1898

Mothering the Self Stephanie Lawler,2002-01-04 The mother daughter relationship has preoccupied feminist writers for decades but typically it has been the daughter s story at centre stage Mothering the Self brings together these maternal and daughterly stories by drawing on in depth interviews with women who speak both as mothers and as daughters This study examines the ways in which these mothers and daughters participate in their understanding of class gender and race locations both using and resisting them The result is a fresh start from which to consider the far reaching implications of this relationship not simply for mothers and daughters but in terms of how we understand the shaping of the self and its place within the social world
