Russell Bernard, 2013 Bernard does an excellent job of not only showing how to practice research but also provides a detailed discussion of broader historical and philosophical contexts that are important for understanding research Beina Reflexive in Critical Educational and Social Research Geoffrey Shacklock, John Smyth, 1998 This book brings together a collection of case studies and readings on the subject of doing research in education It differs from other texts in taking a personal view of the experience of doing research Each author presents a reflexive account of the issues and dilemmas as they have lived through them during the undertaking of educational research The collection fills the space often referred to in critical research as the phenomenon of the missing researcher Coming from the researcher's own perspectives their positions are revealed within a wider space that can be personal political social and reflexive With this approach many issues such as ethics gender race validity reciprocity sexuality class voice empowerment authorship and readership are given a much needed airing Taking Sides in Social Research Martyn Hammersley,2005-08-12 In the past it was generally taken for granted that the goal of social research was the production of objective knowledge and that this required a commitment to value neutrality In more recent times however both these ideals have come to be challenged and it is often argued that all research is inevitably political in its assumptions and effects In this major contribution to the debate Martyn Hammersley assesses the arguments from the classic and still influential contributions of C Wright Mills Howard Becker and Alvin Gouldner to the present day He concludes that the case for partisanship is not convincing and that an intelligent and sceptical commitment to the principles of objectivity and value neutrality must remain an essential feature of research
