Veak, 2012-02-01

Largely because of the Internet and the new economy technology has become the buzzword of our culture But what is it and how does it affect our lives More importantly can we control and shape it or does it control us In short can we make technology more democratic Using the work of Andrew Feenberg one of the most important and original figures in the field of philosophy of technology as a foundation the contributors to this volume explore these important questions and Feenberg responds In the 1990s Feenberg authored three books that established him as one of the leading scholars in a rapidly developing field and he is one of the few to delineate a theory for democratizing technological design He has demonstrated the shortcomings of traditional theories of technology and argued for what he calls democratic rationalization where actors intervene in the technological design process to shape it toward their own ends In this book the contributors analyze foundational issues in Feenberg's work including questions of human nature biotechnology gender and his readings of Heidegger and they also examine practical issues including democratizing technology moral evaluation and environmentalism Theology and Technology, Volume 1 Carl Mitcham, Jim Grote, Levi Checketts, 2022-07-21 Originally published nearly forty years ago as a spiritual successor to Carl Mitcham and Robert Mackey's Philosophy and Technology

the essays collected in the two volumes of Theology and Technology span an array of theological attitudes and perspectives providing sufficient material for careful reflection and engagement The first volume offers five general attitudes toward technology based off of H Richard Niebuhr s five ideal types in Christ and Culture The second volume includes biblical historical and modern theological engagements with the place of technology in the Christian life This ecumenical collection ranges from authors who enthusiastically support technological development to those cynical of technique and engages the Christian tradition from the church fathers to recent theologians like Bernard Lonergan and Jacques Ellul Taken together these essays some reproductions of earlier work and others original for this project provide any student of theology a fitting entrance into considering the place of technology in the realm of the sacred

Philosophy, Technology, and the Environment David M. Kaplan, 2017-03-03 Contributions by prominent scholars examining the intersections of environmental philosophy and philosophy of technology Environmental philosophy and philosophy of technology have taken divergent paths despite their common interest in examining human modification of the natural world Yet philosophers from each field have a lot to contribute to the other Environmental issues inevitably involve technologies and technologies inevitably have environmental impacts In this book prominent scholars from both fields illuminate the intersections of environmental philosophy and philosophy of technology offering the beginnings of a rich new hybrid discourse All the contributors share the intuition that technology and the environment overlap in ways that are relevant in both philosophical and practical terms They consider such issues as the limits of technological interventions in the natural world whether a concern for the environment can be designed into things how consumerism relates us to artifacts and environments and how food and animal agriculture raise questions about both culture and nature They discuss among other topics the pessimism and dystopianism shared by environmentalists environmental philosophers and philosophers of technology the ethics of geoengineering and climate change the biological analogy at the heart of industrial ecology green products and sustainable design and agriculture as a bridge between technology and the environment Contributors Braden Allenby Raymond Anthony Philip Brey J Baird Callicott Brett Clark Wyatt Galusky Ryan Gunderson Benjamin Hale Clare Heyward Don Idhe Mark Sagoff Julian Savulescu Paul B Thompson Ibo van de Poel Zhang Wei Kyle Powys Whyte
