Jorgensen, 2008-03-19 The Art of Teaching Music takes up important aspects of the art of music teaching ranging from organization to serving as conductor to dealing with the disconnect between the ideal of university teaching and the reality in the classroom Writing for both established teachers and instructors on the rise Estelle R Jorgensen opens a conversation about the life and work of the music teacher The author regards music teaching as interrelated with the rest of lived life and her themes encompass pedagogical skills as well as matters of character disposition value personality and musicality She reflects on musicianship and practical aspects of teaching while drawing on a broad base of theory research and personal experience Although grounded in the practical realities of music teaching Jorgensen urges music teachers to think and act artfully imaginatively hopefully and courageously toward creating a better world Learning to Teach Geography in the Secondary School David Balderstone, 2004-08-02 Learning to Teach Geography in the Secondary School provides intending and practising teachers of geography with the practical skills to design teach and evaluate varied and exciting lessons It also helps them to acquire a deeper understanding of geography s role purpose and potential in secondary education The book explores how teachers may use geography as a vehicle for preparing pupils for uncertain environmental cultural social and economic futures Philosophy of Music R.A. Sharpe, 2015-01-30 This lively and lucid introduction to the philosophy of music concentrates on the issues that illuminate musical listening and practice It examines the conceptual debates relevant to the understanding and performing of music and grounds the philosophy to practical matters throughout Ideal for a beginning readership with little philosophical background the author provides an overview of the central debates enlivened by a real sense of enthusiasm for the subject and why it matters The book begins by filling in the historical background and offers readers a succinct summary of philosophical thinking on music from the Ancient Greeks to Eduard Hanslick and Edmund Gurney Chapter 2 explores two central questions what is it that makes music or to be precise some pieces of music works of art And what is the work of music per se Is it just what we hear the performance or is it something over and above that something we invent or discover Chapter 3 discusses a problem peculiar to music and one at the heart of philosophical discussion of it can music have a meaning And if so what can it be Chapter 4 considers whether music can have value Are there features about music that make it good features which can be specified in criteria Is a work good if and only if it meets with the approval of an ideally qualified listener How do we explain differences of opinion Indeed why do we need to make judgements of the relative value of pieces of music at all This engaging and stimulating book will be of interest to students of aesthetics musical practitioners and the general reader looking for a non technical treatment of the subject The Ethnomusicology of Western Art Music Laudan Nooshin, 2013-10-23 Since the late 1980s the boundaries between the musicologies have become increasingly blurred Most notably a growing number of musicologists have become interested in the ideas and methodologies of ethnomusicology and in particular in applying one of the central methodological tools of ethnomusicology ethnography to the study of Western art music a tradition which had previously been studied primarily through scores recordings and other historical sources Alongside this since the 1970s a small number of ethnomusicologists have also written about Western art music thus complicating the idea of ethnomusicology as the study of other music Indeed there has been a growth in this area of scholarship in recent years Approaching western art music through the perspectives of ethnomusicology can offer new and enriching insights to the study of this musical tradition as shown in the writings presented in this book The current volume is the first collection of essays on this topic and includes work by authors from a range of musicological and ethnomusicological backgrounds exploring a variety of issues including music in orchestral outreach programmes new audiences for classical music concerts music and conflict transformation ethnographic study of the rehearsal process and the politics of a high profile music festival This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnomusicology Forum
