Das, 2004-01-01 This comprehensive book addresses one of the most important aspects of international trade namely regional trade and regional integration agreements RIAs The focus of intense global interest and debate over the last decade RIAs have become an integr The Pacific Alliance in a World of Preferential Trade Agreements Pierre Sauvé, Rodrigo Polanco Lazo, José Manuel Álvarez Zárate, 2018-06-29 This volume focuses on one of the most innovative deep integration constructs The Pacific Alliance which aims at expanding the frontiers of trade and investment governance in Latin America It draws on a conference held at Externado University in Bogota Colombia in November 2015 bringing together leading scholars practitioners and officers of public regional and international organisations interested in a critical analysis of the Alliance its distinctiveness and likely future directions The volume features contributions from the multi disciplinary lens of law political science and economics The Pacific Alliance comprising Chile Colombia Mexico and Peru aims through a participatory and consensual manner to promote the free circulation of goods services capital and persons among its members and to secure deep economic integration through collaboration across a broader set of policy areas than typically obtains in more traditional preferential trade agreements This volume is of interest to policy makers and staff of international organizations involved in trade and investment negotiations international economic governance in general as well as faculty researchers and graduate students of these topics and of international political economy and comparative regionalism Rules of Thumb for Evaluating Preferential Trading Arrangements Glenn W. Harrison, 2016 Most interesting results on the welfare effects of regional arrangements are ambiguous at a theoretical level Many questions only have quantitative answers that are specific to the particular structural features of the economy and the policy considered So to determine the impact of prospective regional arrangements governments often rely on a quantitative evaluation Usually at the request of client governments of the World Bank the authors have implemented many computable general equilibrium CGE models to inform policymakers The authors summarize the main conclusions drawn from these studies The principal conclusions are Countries excluded from a preferential trade arrangement almost always lose Market access is a key determinant of the net benefits of a preferential trade arrangement With a free trade agreement FTA the external tariff can be lowered such that a poor FTA becomes attractive For Southern countries North South agreements offer a beneficial increase in competition in their home markets and involve little increase in the supply price of Northern country sales in Southern countries Multilateral trade liberalization results in significantly larger gains to the world than the network of regional arrangements For individual countries without high protection quot additive regionalismquot will likely result in substantially larger gains than unilateral trade liberalization Tax replacement requirements reduce the set of desirable regional arrangements Trade taxes are often an inefficient source of tax revenue Trade liberalization should be expected to be pro poor in developing countries but results will be diverse at the household level so safety nets are important Dynamic effects to reverse conclusions regarding regionalism are not expected This paper a product of Trade Development Research Group is part of a larger effort in the group to assess the impact of regional trade integration on growth and poverty Regionalism and the World Trading System World Trade Organization. Chand, Institute of Economic Growth (India), 2004 The New Regionalism and Policy Interdependence Leonardo Baccini, Andreas Dür, 2012 Since 1990 the number of preferential trade agreements has increased rapidly Our argument explains this phenomenon known as the new regionalism as a result of competition for market access Exporters that face trade diversion because of their exclusion from a preferential trade agreement concluded by foreign countries push their governments into signing an agreement with the country in which their exports are threatened We test our argument in a quantitative analysis of the proliferation of preferential trade agreements among 167 countries between 1990 and 2007 The finding that competition for market access is a major driving force of the new regionalism is a contribution to the literature on regionalism and to broader debates about global economic regulation Open Regionalism C. Fred Bergsten, 1997

Rules of Origin for Preferential Trading Arrangements Olivier Cadot, Jaime De Melo, Alberto Portugal-Pérez, 2006 With free trade areas FTAs under negotiation between Japan and the ASEAN Free Trade Area AFTA members and between the Republic of Korea and AFTA members preferential market access will become more important in Asian regionalism Protectionist pressures will likely increase through rules of origin the natural outlet for these pressures Based on the experience of the European Union and the United States with rules of origin the authors argue that should these FTAs follow in the footsteps of the EU and the U S and adopt similar rules of origin trading partners in the region would incur unnecessary costs Using EU trade under the Generalized System of Preferences with Africa Caribbean and Pacific partners the authors estimate how the use of preferences would likely change if AFTA were to veer away from its current uniform rules of origin requiring a 40 percent local content rate Depending on the sample used a 10 percentage point reduction in the local value content requirement is estimated to increase the utilization rate of preferences by between 2.5 and 8.2 percentage points
