Venus in the Afternoon Tehila Lieberman, 2012 Winner of the Katherine Anne Porter Prize in Short Fiction 2012 The short stories in this rich debut collection embody in their complexity Alice Munro s description of the short story as a world seen in a quick glancing light In chiseled and elegant prose Lieberman conjures wildly disparate worlds A middle aged window washer mourning his wife and an estranged daughter begins to grow attached to a young woman he sees through the glass a writer against his better judgment pursues a new relationship with a femme fatale who years ago broke his heart and the daughter of a Holocaust survivor struggles with the delicate decision of whether to finally ask her aging mother how it was that she survived It is all here the exigencies of love of lust the raw unlit terrain of grief Whether plumbing the darker depths or casting a humorous eye on a doomed relationship these stories never force a choice between tragedy and redemption but rather invite us into the private moments and crucibles of lives as hungry and flawed as our own

Re-Inventing the Postcolonial (in the) Metropolis Cecile Sandten,Annika Bauer,2016-09-27 The notion of the postcolonial metropolis has gained prominence in the last two decades both within and beyond postcolonial studies Disciplines such as sociology and urban studies however have tended to focus on the economic inequalities class disparities and other structural and formative aspects of the postcolonial metropolises that are specific to Western conceptions of the city at large It is only recently that the depiction of postcolonial metropolises has been addressed in the writings of Suketu Mehta Chris Abani Amit Chaudhuri Salman Rushdie Aravind Adiga Helon Habila Sefi Atta and Zakes Mda among others Most of these works probe the urban specifics and physical and cultural topographies of postcolonial cities while highlighting their agential capacity to defy appropriate and abrogate the superimposition of theories of Western modernity and urbanism These ASNEL Papers are all concerned with the idea of the postcolonial in the metropolis from various disciplinary viewpoints as drawn from a great range of cityscapes spread out over five continents The essays explore on the one hand ideas of spatial subdivision and inequality political repression social discrimination economic exploitation and cultural alienation and on the other the possibility of transforming reinventing and reconfiguring the postcolonial condition in and through literary texts and visual narratives In this context the volume covers a broad spectrum of theoretical and thematic approaches to postcolonial and metropolitan topographies and their depictions in writings from Australia and New Zealand South Africa South Asia and greater Asia as well as the UK addressing issues such as modernity and market economies but also caste class and social and linguistic aspects At the same time they reflect on the postcolonial metropolis and postcolonialism in the metropolis by concentrating on an urban imaginary which turns on notions of spatial subdivision and inequality political repression social discrimination economic exploitation and cultural alienation as the continuing postcolonial condition

Resilience and Reinvention John Quinlan, 2025-06-17 Resilience and Reinvention The Stoneface Journey is a 2025 autobiographical work by American actor model and former professional wrestler John Stoneface Quinlan The book chronicles Quinlan's life from his childhood in Boston through his careers in junior bodybuilding wrestling modeling and acting highlighting themes of perseverance adaptability and personal growth Structured in a series of reflective chapters the memoir details Quinlan's early struggles with self-confidence, his experiences in competitive sports and fitness, modeling, his brief tenure in professional wrestling, and his eventual transition into acting, culminating in his award-winning performance in A Sense of Purpose: Fighting for Our Lives (2019). The narrative also addresses significant personal challenges, including living with spina bifida, health issues such as sleep apnea, and the loss of close friends and family members. A recurring theme is the influence of Quinlan's grandfather, William Arthur Hafner, a World War II Navy veteran whose values of kindness, humility, and dedication shaped Quinlan's outlook. The book also explores his late-life religious awakening as a born-again Christian following the sudden death of his younger brother in 2025. Resilience and Reinvention serves as both a personal testament and an inspirational guide, offering insights on goal setting, learning from failure, and the importance of emotional as well as physical resilience.

About the author: John Stoneface Quinlan is an American actor, model, and former professional wrestler whose journey spans the worlds of competitive athletics, fashion, and film. Born in Winchester, Massachusetts, Quinlan earned a Bachelor of Science in Movement and Sports Studies from Springfield College before embarking on a career that showcased his resilience and versatility. He began as a junior bodybuilder, earning recognition in numerous competitions, and went on to train under legendary mentors at the original Killer Kowalski Professional Wrestling School. After several years in the ring, Quinlan transitioned into modeling, becoming an internationally published fitness, fashion, art, and romance cover model for brands including Nutrabolics, Athletic Xtreme, Alpha Male Underwear, and No Limits Underwear. In acting, Quinlan is best known for his award-winning lead performance in A Sense of Purpose: Fighting for Our Lives (2019), along with appearances in television and independent film productions. His heavily tattooed image and disciplined work ethic have made him a distinctive presence in both modeling and acting circles. Beyond his professional achievements, Quinlan's story is one of perseverance through personal and health challenges, including living with spina bifida, navigating injuries, and enduring the loss of close family members. A born-again Christian, he credits his faith, the influence of his late grandfather, and the memory of his younger brother for shaping his outlook. Through his writing and public appearances, Quinlan inspires others to embrace change, learn from setbacks, and pursue their goals with consistency, courage, and heart.

Congratulations to Khadir, Olivia, Amere, Valencia, and all the other students of Spade Valley High School! You have received your diploma, and what the world has deemed the minimum education required to live in human society. You have earned the right to pat yourself on the back because you memorized how to count, read, write, and problem solve. I'm probably not the first to tell you congratulations; I believe it would be safe to assume I'm not the first to bring up the favorite question everyone likes to ask after the ceremony: either "What's Next? More school or straight into the work force?" either/or. I can be sure that you will enter your next steps unprepared. I'm sure that this is the case because there has never been a school that has taught why humans do what they do and how they got that way. The minimum 12 years to receive the ability of memorization but never to memorize all actions have a cause deeper than genetics; it is the norm. Never to
