Hoggart,2016-03-16 Despite the fact that the rural commuter belts of cities are major loci of population change economic growth and dynamic social change within city regions most research tends to ignore this area while focusing on the built up city core However with the current emphasis on the role of rural areas in policy debates it is vital to recognize the importance of the commuter belt By comparing four major European cities in England France Germany and Spain this book offers the first comparative investigation of the dynamism of city rural hinterlands It assesses whether rural areas will become effectively integrated into quality of life improvements as a result of their inter dependencies with cities focusing on the critical arenas of employment change housing and service provision In doing so it investigates how change in these three fields impact on the quality of life and physical environment of rural hinterlands The Trajectories of Rural Life

University of Regina. Canadian Plains Research Center,Saskatchewan Institute of Public Policy,2003 Rural communities have been profoundly affected by recent political economic demographic and cultural change In Canada the impacts of these changes are all about us in the absolute population declines in Saskatchewan and Newfoundland in the crises of the east and west coast fisheries in the farm crisis in serious ecological problems and in the reorientation of rural social services There is a tendency to view these problems in stark terms as part of a qualitatively new era in Canadian history triggered perhaps by the forces of globalization or urbanization or the rise of the service sector economy In important ways however the problems of rural Canada are not particularly new Rural migration pollution wildlife conservation and other matters have been long standing persistent concerns of rural Canadians This book attempts to both resist the seemingly persistent urge to romanticize and prognosticate about rural Canada and the people who live geographically outside the urban environment and suggest different ways of looking at rural life In this sense its goal is to build upon an increasingly strong base of research and writing on rural Canada to suggest different perspectives on the countryside the small town the environment and the landscape

The Rural Richard Munton, 2017-05-15 The rural has long been regarded as an important site of geographical inquiry even if our understanding of it has not always been treated as conceptually different from the urban That said rural research has pursued a number of distinct empirical agendas ranging from the operation and impacts of agribusiness to local resistance to global food supply chains to differing representations of the rural In doing so rural geographers have critically examined the relevance and significance of ideas drawn from numerous traditions including political economy ecological modernization and cultural theory amending them as appropriate in their search to understand the nature and trajectory of rural areas Up until the 1980s attention remained largely focused upon agriculture as the primary land use but increasingly new forms of rural consumption housing recreation nature conservation have taken centre stage as the primacy of local agricultures has been undermined by reduced state protection and new rural populations which have migrated out from the city More recently research has been dominated by the cultural turn with particular emphases upon society nature relations interpretations of landscape marginalised others and analyses of the relations between representation and practice In the last decade a more holistic view of the rural bringing together different aspects of the two previous themes has emerged through more politically oriented studies of rural governance concerned with the functioning of interest groups participation protest and the allocation and management of resources The volume is thus structured into three sections concerned with agriculture and food the rural and rural governance The great majority of the selected papers combine both empirical material often highly informative case studies and important conceptual arguments about change in the rural condition that can be linked to ideas being employed elsewhere in Geography and the Social Sciences more generally These critical reflections have been drawn very largely from research conducted in advanced economies which at least provide some commonality of experience allowing the transfer of ideas between what otherwise might be seen as very differing geographical contexts

Rural Revitalization Through State-led Programs Mingrui Shen, 2020-02-06 This book seeks to unravel the changes in rural governance sparked by state led programs evaluate the programs implementation and refine the interpretation of governance theory with new empirical material from rural China When it comes to rural issues in contemporary China there is no shortage of national strategies from Coordinating Urban Rural Development in 2003 to Rural Revitalization in 2017 the rejuvenation of the countryside has attracted unprecedented policy interest At the same time rural governance has been subject to significant political social and economic changes However comparatively little research has been conducted on the phenomenal reconnection between the state and rural society and our previous understanding of rural governance is no longer adequate As a result of the programs a new model of governance is now emerging in rural China The programs have accelerated the formation of state private farmer partnerships while also promoting the participation of grassroots society in rural reconstruction In the initial stage the state s role is important to securing non governmental sectors engagement However this does not mean that the model guarantees sustainable governance in terms of land tenure reform infrastructure investment and subsidies the programs merely empower farmers and other stakeholders to engage in rural reconstruction The success of these reconstruction efforts ultimately depends on a suitable pricing mechanism for public goods provision as well as the self organization of grassroots society
