J. Shrum,2003-10-03 The Psychology of Entertainment Media provides a cutting edge look at how entertainment media affects its viewers both in intended and unintended ways and the psychological processes that underlie these effects The collection represents an international multidisciplinary investigation of an age old process persuasion in a relatively new guise which includes product placements brand films television programs and sponsorships The collection covers three broad areas the potential effects of embedding promotions within entertainment media content the persuasive power of the entertainment media content itself and individual differences in the interplay between media usage and media effects Contributions focus on a variety of topics including product placement subliminal perception narrative impact cultivation effects on consumers and individual differences in media use Virtually all the chapters speak to the issue of how entertainment media are processed with the conclusion that media consumers do tend to process entertainment and promotional information differently Providing a broad perspective on how entertainment media may have an effect that goes largely unnoticed or unattended by consumers this volume makes a substantial contribution toward creating a more knowledgeable field as well as a more knowledgeable consumer With its origins in the 21st Annual Advertising and Consumer Psychology Conference the volume represents scholarship from prominent and emerging scholars in psychology marketing and communications It is appropriate for advanced students and scholars in marketing advertising psychology and mass communication for research focused practitioners working in marketing advertising and public policy and for individuals interested in entertainment studies consumer behavior attitudes persuasion media studies and consumer psychology

Common Knowledge W. Russell Neuman, Marion R. Just, Ann N. Crigler, 2018-12-14 Photo opportunities ten second sound bites talking heads and celebrity anchors so the world is explained daily to millions of Americans The result according to the experts is an ignorant public helpless targets of a one way flow of carefully filtered and orchestrated communication Common Knowledge shatters this pervasive myth Reporting on a ground breaking study the authors reveal that our shared knowledge and evolving political beliefs are determined largely by how we actively reinterpret the images fragments and signals we find in the mass media For their study the authors analyzed coverage of 150 television and newspaper stories on five prominent issues drugs AIDS South African apartheid the Strategic Defense Initiative and the stock market crash of October 1987 They tested audience responses of more than 1 600 people and conducted in depth interviews with a select sample What emerges is a surprisingly complex picture of people actively and critically interpreting the news making sense of even the most abstract issues in terms of their own lives and finding political meaning in a sophisticated interplay of message medium and firsthand experience At every turn Common Knowledge refutes conventional wisdom It shows that television is far more effective at raising the saliency of issues and promoting learning than is generally assumed it also undermines the assumed causal connection between newspaper reading and higher levels of political knowledge Finally this book gives a deeply responsible and thoroughly fascinating account of how the news is conveyed to us and how we in turn convey it to others making meaning of at once so much and so little For anyone who makes the news or tries to make anything of it Common Knowledge promises uncommon wisdom
