The Role and Importance of Managing Information for Competitive Positioning in Economic Development Keith Harman, 1990 This volume presents a perspective on programs and policies designed to enhance the development of local and regional economics The primary purpose is to provide an overview to assist economic development organizations in implementing competitive positioning programs and utilize IRM information resources management techniques The first three chapters build the case for an information resources management IRM perspective on economic development Chapter Four rounds out the discussion by proposing broad based academic and governmental endeavors based on a perspective on economic development that is consonant with a rapidly changing highly interdependent global economy in today's Information Age

Statistics for Library Decision Making Peter Hernon, 1989 This handbook assists students in understanding statistics and the types of decisions that the selection of a test entails At the same time the volume will assist a broad audience by reviewing the research process by presenting fundamental statistical concepts and methods by identifying writings on library management using statistical analyses by discussing statistical applications to library management decision making and problem solving and by familiarizing library managers with statistical tables and analysis and graphics software The purpose of this volume is to supplement statistical textbooks and to inform library managers and library school students about the application of selected statistical tests and the interpretation of statistical findings This volume presents basic statistical and research concepts clearly It is not intended as a textbook that identifies numerous statistical tests and merely details their computations Rather the book complements the pool of existing textbooks by placing selected statistical applications in the context of the research process and library decision

Evaluation and Library Decision Making Peter Hernon, Charles R. McClure, 1990 Evaluation which is a critical component of the planning process assesses the effectiveness and efficiency of library programs and services in the context of stated goals and objectives This book views evaluation as a type of research study in which evaluators collect either research or management data Chapters discuss steps of the evaluation process and provide practical examples of the application of these steps to specific library problems The overall objectives of the volume are to introduce readers to the relationship between planning and evaluation to discuss the components of an evaluation study in clear prose so that readers can easily understand the different steps to foster an attitude that recognizes the importance of evaluation for the development of library programs and services to offer examples of each component of the evaluation process to identify writings on evaluation in libraries and information centers and to encourage organizational change and underscore the importance of evaluation to library decision making United States Government Information Policies Charles R. McClure, Peter Hernon, Harold C. Relyea, 1989 The editors believe that information professionals must move beyond mere description of government information sources and activities and assess the policy system that provides a framework for them Beginning with the need for research and analytical studies in the field the authors trace the historical development of Federal information policy review the role of the Office of Management and Budget in the development of policy and present private sector and citizens perspectives Other topics include rights and restrictions of access to government information electronic collection and dissemination of information by Federal agencies the National Technical Information Service and efforts to privatize its operations and the complexities in dealing with protected information ISBN 0 89391 563 7 49 50
