Restorative Justice And Responsive Regulation:

Restorative Justice & Responsive Regulation John Braithwaite, 2001-11-15 Braithwaite's argument against punitive justice systems and for restorative justice systems establishes that there are good theoretical and empirical grounds for anticipating that well designed restorative justice processes will restore victims offenders and communities better than existing criminal justice practices. Counterintuitively he also shows that a restorative justice system may deter incapacitate and rehabilitate more effectively than a punitive system. This is particularly true when the restorative justice system is embedded in a responsive regulatory framework that opts for deterrence only after restoration repeatedly fails and incapacitation only after escalated deterrence fails. Braithwaite's empirical research demonstrates that active deterrence under the dynamic regulatory pyramid that is a hallmark of the restorative justice system he supports is far more effective than the passive deterrence that is notable in the stricter sentencing grid of current criminal justice systems. Restorative Justice and Responsive Regulation John Braithwaite, 2002 Restorative justice has become an important new way of thinking about crime responsive regulation an influential way of thinking about business regulation. In this volume John Braithwaite brings together his important work on restorative justice with his work on business regulation to form a sweepingly novel picture of the way society regulates itself. Braithwaite internationally renowned for his work on restorative justice has argued that restoring victims offenders and communities is more effective than punitive practices for deterring incapacitating and rehabilitating offenders. In this fascinating book he reconceives responsive regulation as an approach to regulating any phenomenon. Offering an original and incisive argument he establishes the relevance of the business regulation literature on responsive regulation to the problem of crime and the relevance of the restorative justice literature on crime not only to business regulation but also to many of our biggest social and economic problems. These include the problems of war and peace education poverty and sustainable development. Braithwaite's theories offer radically different ways of thinking about policies to confront these problems. They also propose a complete transformation of the legal system from tort to tax in accordance with the principles of restorative justice and responsive regulation. Braithwaite summarises a great deal of research evidence from criminal justice in the case of restorative practices from business in the case of responsive regulation on how and why restorative justice and responsive regulation works in healing our biggest social problems. This book offers compelling arguments for a problem solving approach to social ills and challenges us to develop a legal system that works more efficiently and fairly with a morally decent approach to social problems of all stripes. Restorative and Responsive Human Services Gale Burford, John Braithwaite, Valerie Braithwaite, 2019-03-04 In Restorative and Responsive Human Services Gale Burford John Braithwaite and Valerie Braithwaite bring together a distinguished collection providing rich lessons on how regulation in human services can proceed in empowering ways that heal and are respectful of human relationships and legal obligations. The human services are in trouble combining restorative justice with responsive regulation might redeem them renewing their well intended principles Families provide glue that connects complex systems What are the challenges in scaling up relational practices that put families and primary groups at the core of health education and other social services This collection has a distinctive focus on the relational complexity of restorative practices How do they enable more responsive ways of grappling with complexity than hierarchical and prescriptive human services Lessons from responsive business regulation inform a re imagining of the human services to advance wellbeing and reduce domination Readers are challenged to re examine the perverse incentives and contradictions buried in policies and practices How do they undermine the capacities of families and communities to solve problems on their own terms This book will interest those who harbor concerns about the creep of domination into the lives of vulnerable citizens It will help policymakers and researchers to re focus human services to fundamental outcomes at the foundation of sustainable democracies This book is available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Rethinking Justice Richard H. Bell, 2007-01-01 In Rethinking Justice Richard H Bell lifts up and restores an idea of justice found in classical writers such as Socrates and Seneca as well as in more recent thinkers Justice classically has dealt with righting wrongs and restoring peace to individuals and human communities We have lost sight of this in our modern political and legal dealings and must find a way to return it to mind and to practice Each chapter looks at ways to restore such reconciliatory practices to the idea of justice that can be found in our contemporary life and literature and focuses on numerous recent cases of abuse of justice among individuals groups and nations Bell approaches justice as a concept that goes hand in hand with compassion mercy and trust Rethinking Justice reminds us that we have an obligation to foster peace be merciful and promote reconciliation with our brothers and sisters in humanity

Regulatory Capitalism John Braithwaite, 2008 In this sprawling and ambitious book John Braithwaite successfully manages to link the contemporary dynamics of macro political economy to the dynamics of citizen engagement and organisational activism at the micro instabilities of governance practices This is no mean feat and the logic works Stephen Bell The Australian Journal of Public Administration Everyone who is puzzled by modern regulocracy should read this book Short and incisive it represents the culmination of over twenty years work on the subject It offers us a perceptive and wide ranging perspective on the global development of regulatory capitalism and an important analysis of points of leverage for democrats and reformers Christopher Hood All Souls College Oxford UK It takes a great mind to produce a book that is indispensable for beginners and experts theorists and policymakers alike With characteristic clarity admirable brevity and his inimitable mix of description and prescription John Braithwaite explains how corporations and states regulate each other in the complex global system dubbed regulatory capitalism For Braithwaite aficionados Regulatory Capitalism brings into focus the big picture created from years of meticulous research For Braithwaite novices it is a reading guide that cannot fail to inspire them to

Restoring Respect for Justice Martin Wright, 2008-01-20 Challenges many sacred cows of crime and punishment by focusing on the effect on the people who suffer directly the victims This book points to the dangers of a punitive mindset and reflects on the arguments and data in favour of an effective inclusionary community based response to crime

Socializing Care Maurice Hamington, Dorothy C. Miller, 2006-01-10 Criticism is often levied that care ethics is too narrow in scope and fails to extend to issues of social justice Socializing Care attempts to dispel that criticism Contributors to the volume demonstrate how the ethics of care factors into a variety of social policies and institutions and can indeed be useful in thinking about a number of different social problems Divided into two sections the first looks at care as a model for an evaluative framework that rethinks social institutions liberal society and citizenship at a basic conceptual level The second explores care values in the context of specific social practices like live kidney donations or settings like long term care as a framework that should guide thinking Ultimately this collection demonstrates how society would benefit from a more serious engagement with care ethics

The Evolving Governance of EU Competition Law in a Time of Disruptions Carlo Maria Colombo, Kathryn Wright, Mariolina Elia Antonio, 2024-02-08 This book develops a timely analysis of the complex trends and transformations emerging in EU competition law in the current turbulent times Repeated economic crises the climate emergency digitalisation and geopolitical and democratic threats are all having profound societal and economic effects on the EU In light of its fundamental role in the Treaties EU competition law has been called upon to play an important role in responding to this state of turbulence This brings about significant governance and constitutional challenges firstly by questioning how the governance of EU competition law is being transformed to respond and adapt Secondly these crisis induced transformations probe the logic and constitutional limits of EU competition law within the framework of EU law This collection brings together EU institutional and competition lawyers to reflect on the governance and constitutional challenges emerging from the post modernisation evolution of EU competition law against the backdrop of the recent multiple crises in the EU The essays focus on the substantive and procedural developments across the three main policy areas of EU competition law antitrust merger control and State aid EU constitutional and competition lawyers will be interested in this important new collection Routledge International Handbook of Restorative Justice Theo Gavrielides, 2018-07-27 This up to date resource on restorative justice theory and practice is the literature's most comprehensive and authoritative review of original research in new and contested areas Bringing together contributors from across a range of jurisdictions disciplines and legal traditions this edited collection provides a concise but critical review of existing theory and practice in restorative justice Authors identify key developments theoretical arguments and new empirical evidence evaluating their merits and demerits before turning the reader's attention to further concerns informing and improving the future of restorative justice Divided into four parts the Handbook includes papers written by leading scholars on new theory empirical evidence of implementation critiques and the future of restorative justice This companion is essential reading for scholars of restorative justice criminology social theory psychology law human rights and criminal justice as well as researchers policymakers practitioners and campaigners from around the world Law and Administration Carol Harlow, Richard Rawlings, 2009-08-20 A contextualised study setting out the foundations of administrative law with discussion of case law and legislation to show practical application Law after Modernity Sionaidh Douglas-Scott, 2013-04-30 How can we characterise law and legal theory in the twenty first century Law After Modernity argues that we live in an age after Modernity and that legal theory must take account of this fact The book presents a dynamic analysis of law which focusses on the richness and pluralism of law on its historical embeddedness its cultural contingencies as well as acknowledging contemporary law's global and transnational dimensions However Law After Modernity also warns that the complexity fragmentation pluralism and globalisation of contemporary law may all too easily perpetuate injustice In this respect the book departs from many postmodern and pluralist accounts of law Indeed it asserts that the quest for justice becomes a crucial issue for law in the era of legal pluralism and it investigates how it may be achieved The approach is fresh contextual and interdisciplinary and unusually for a legal theory work is illustrated throughout with works of art and visual representations which serve to re-enforce the messages of the book Restoring Safe School Communities Brenda Morrison, 2007 Restoring Safe School Communities a whole school response to bullying violence and alienation introduces a whole school approach to addressing the problems of bullying and violence in schools Author Brenda Morrison proposes a continuum of responsive and restorative practices for building safe school communities The first most proactive level of practices aims to develop all students social and emotional competencies to enable students to resolve their differences in caring and respectful ways The second level of practices widens the circle of care around the participants Typically this level of response occurs when the problem has become more protracted or has involved and affected a larger number of people and involves other members of the school community stepping in to assist in the resolution of the conflict or concern The third and final level of practices involves the participation of an even wider cross section of the school community including parents guardians social workers and others who have been affected This tertiary level of intervention is normally only used for serious incidents within the school Morrison explains the thinking behind the suggested responses and shows how they can be implemented by practices such as a responsible citizen program and restorative justice circles and conferences
