Developing the Mekong Evelyn Goh, 2013-01-11 In Southeast Asia China's growing economic and political strength has been accompanied by adept diplomacy and active promotion of regional cooperation institutions and integration Southeast Asian states and China engage in strategic regionalism they seek regional membership for regime legitimation and collective bargaining and regional integration to enhance economic development regarded as essential for ensuring national and regime security Sino Southeast Asian regionalism is exemplified by the development plans for the Mekong River basin where ambitious projects for building regional infrastructural linkages and trade contribute to mediating the security concerns of the Mekong countries However Mekong regionalism also generates new insecurities Developing the resources of the Mekong has led to serious challenges in terms of governance distribution and economic externalities Resource allocation and exploitation conflicts occur most obviously within the realm of water projects especially hydropower development programmes While such disputes are not likely to erupt into armed conflict because of the power asymmetry between China and the lower Mekong states they exacerbate Southeast Asian concerns about China's rise and undermine Chinese rhetoric about peaceful development But the negative security consequences of developing the Mekong are also due to the shared economic imperative and the Southeast Asian states own difficulties with collective action due to existing intramural conflicts

Multilateral Approach In China's Foreign Policy Joseph Yu-shek Cheng, 2017-12-21 Since the mid 1990s the Chinese authorities have gradually come to embrace multilateralism to realize their basic foreign policy objectives in maintaining a peaceful international environment and enhancing China's international status and influence This embrace is largely based on pragmatic considerations There is no denial however that elements of liberalism and constructivism gradually enter into the considerations of Chinese leaders They accept for example that non traditional security issues can only be tackled through genuine multilateralism This volume carefully examines China's increased participation in multilateral organizations and mechanisms and its efforts to initiate and develop its own discourses on global affairs straddling Asia the Middle East Africa and the Latin American continents China's presence in international multilateral organizations has been providing developing countries a better chance to maintain a balance of power Since China has no ambitious plan to transform the existing international order its increasing enthusiastic engagement of multilateralism is likely to be accepted by the international community

Southeast Asia between China and Japan Lam Peng Er, Victor Teo, 2011-11-15 Triangular relations which frame China and Japan as two sides of an isosceles triangle usually focus on the United States as the significant third side This edited book examines another relatively underexplored set of triangular relations those between China Japan and Southeast Asia The region comprised of eleven small and medium size states is often considered inconsequential in the tempestuous world of international politics where political clout economic prowess military strength and soft power matter most Often seen as easily dominated by extra regional great powers this volume reconsiders the region's relationship with China and Japan their two Asian neighbours to the northeast which also happen to be the world's second and third largest economies While China and Japan do compete for turf in Southeast Asia states in the region do not perceive themselves as strategic pawns of these two great Asian powers but instead as proactively engaging China and Japan in the region The country specific case studies of this book collectively support the thesis that the Southeast Asian states actively seek to manoeuvre between China and Japan for their own advantage and at the same time grapple with developments in Northeast Asia through regional integration efforts Through the establishment of benchmark norms and values Southeast Asia attempts to socialise China and Japan and other external powers to the ASEAN way Indeed Southeast Asia as a region is now the driver of East Asian multilateralism and regionalism and the East Asian reality is that Southeast Asia is a major political economic and cultural player in its own right vis vis the great powers China Aoyama cooperation within the region but have also caused various unexpected events to disrupt existing cooperation Throughout this book economic data and analysis is provided which gives an insight into the trade and financial links that bind this region together Written by experts in China it gives a fascinating view of China's approach to its neighbours China is assuming a more important role on the world stage but it is important not to forget the key role it plays in its own neighbourhood

Russia and China Michal Lubina, 2017-10-23 This book depicts the sophisticated relationship between Russia and China as a pragmatic one a political marriage of convenience Yet at the same time the relationship is stable and will remain so After all bilateral relations are usually based on pragmatic interests and the pursuit of these interests is the very essence of foreign policy And as often happens in life the most long lasting marriages are those based on convenience The highly complex complicated ambiguous and yet indeed successful relationship between Russia and China throughout the past 25 years is difficult to grasp theoretically Russian and Chinese elites are hard core realists in their foreign policies and the neorealist school in international relations seems to be the most adequate one to research Sino Russian relations Realistically throughout this period China achieved a multidimensional advantage over Russia Yet simultaneously Russia China relations do not follow the patterns of power politics Beijing knows its limits and does not go into extremes Rather China successfully seeks to build a longterm stable relationship based on Chinese terms where both sides gain albeit China gains a little more Russia in this agenda does not necessary lose just gains a little less out of this asymmetric deal Thus a new model of bilateral relations emerges which may be called by paraphrasing the slogan of Chinese diplomacy as asymmetric win win formula This model is a kind of back to the past a contemporary equivalent of the first model of Russia China relations the modus vivendi from the 17th century achieved after the Nerchinsk treaty

China's International Behavior Evan S. Medeiros, 2009-08-07 China is now a global actor of significant and growing importance It is involved in regions and on issues that were once only peripheral to its interests and it is effectively using tools previously unavailable China's international behavior is clearly altering the dynamics of the current international system but it is not transforming its structure China's global activism is continually changing and has so many dimensions that it immediately raises questions about China's current and future intentions This study provides a conceptual and empirical framework to assess these important trends It examines how China views its security environment how it defines its international objectives how it is pursuing them and the consequences for U S economic and security interests

China and the Developing World Joshua Eisemann, Eric Heginbotham, Derek Mitchell, 2015-08-20 China's relationship with the developing world is a fundamental part of its larger foreign policy strategy Sweeping changes both within and outside of China and the transformation of geopolitics since the end of the cold war have prompted Beijing to reevaluate its strategies and objectives in regard to emerging nations Featuring contributions by recognized experts this is the first full length treatment of China's relationship with the developing world in nearly two decades Section one provides a general overview and framework of analysis for this important aspect of Chinese policy The chapters in the second part of the book systematically examine China's relationships with Africa the Middle East Central Asia Latin America South Asia and Southeast Asia The book concludes with a look into the future of Chinese foreign policy

Regional Co-operation and Its Enemies in Northeast Asia Edward Friedman, Sung Chull Kim, 2007-01-24 Examining the prospects for building a regional community in Northeast Asia this book considers the foreign policies of the individual states as well as the impact of domestic politics on the regionalist agenda It outlines the emerging Northeast Asian community and the domestic requisites for its evolution and realization and puts it in context by comparing the emerging community with Southeast Asia The book investigates the attitudes of the key powers including China Japan South Korea North Korea Russia and the US towards the ideal of greater regional cooperation with particular emphasis on the implications of domestic factors in each country for regional dynamics It explores the North Korean nuclear crisis the continuing tensions over the Taiwan Straits the impact of Sino Japanese rivalry the shift in stance of South Korea towards North Korea since 2001 and its implications for its relationship with the US and Putin s attempts to strengthen Russian influence in the region It concludes by identifying the foremost dangers that risk obstructing greater regional cooperation particularly the China Japan rivalry nationalist sentiments territorial disputes and energy competition China Stands Up ,
