Sexual Woman In Latin American Literature Dangerous Desires:

The Sexual Woman in Latin American Literature Diane E. Marting, 2001 A major and important addition to the field of Latin American studies and the work of a mature scholar I recommend it fully and enthusiastically Sara Castro Klaren Johns Hopkins University Latin American fiction achieved a turning point in its representation of sexual women sometime in the 1960s Diane E Marting offers a richly detailed analysis of this development Her central idea is that in Latin American narrative women s desires were portrayed as dangerous throughout the 20th century despite the heroic character of the newly sexed woman of the sixties She argues that woman s sexuality in fiction was transformed because it symbolized the many other changes occurring in women s lives regarding their families workplaces societies and nations Female sexual desire offered an ever present threat to male privilege Marting scrutinizes novels by three of the most famous and most popular novelists of the period Guatemalan Miguel Angel Asturias Brazilian Clarice Lispector and Peruvian Mario Vargas Llosa She argues that their novels from the 1960s 1970s and 1980s represent the beginning middle and end respectively of what has come to be seen as an indulgent radical period that produced world acclaimed sexual fiction of world stature Marting s book surveys the topic of women s sexuality in the work of both men and women writers and engages two current controversies feminist and moral issues related to the female body and the nature of literary history It will stand as an important addition to the fields of Latin American studies and women s studies Diane E Marting assistant professor of Romance languages and literatures at the University of Florida is the editor of three books including Clarice Lispector A Bio Bibliography and the author of many articles in journals such as Modern Language Notes Chasqui and World Literature Today

Selected Poetry of Delmira Agustini Alejandro Caceres, 2008-07-21 This graceful translation and bilingual edition now in paperback is the first to bring English readers a representative sampling of the poetry Delmira Agustini published before her untimely death on July 6 1914 at the age of twenty seven Translated by native Uruguayan Alejandro Caceres and including work from each of Agustini's four published books Selected Poetry of Delmira Agustini Poetics of Eros is a response to a resurgent interest not just in the poems but in the passionate and daring woman behind them and the social and political world she inhabited Delmira Agustini was born in Montevideo Uruguay on October 24 1886 to wealthy parents of German and Italian descent She published her first volume of poetry when she was twenty one and followed with two more in the next six years the fourth volume was a posthumous publication Her life was cut short in 1914 when Enrique Job Reyes her ex husband shot her to death and then turned the gun on himself Carefully selected for this bilingual en face edition the poems collected here track and highlight Agustini's development and strengths as an artist including her methods of experimentation first relying on modernista forms and later abandoning them and her focus on the figure of the male which she portrays as the crux of devotion and attention but deems ultimately unreachable Caceres's introduction presents biographical information and situates Agustini's work and life in a larger political historical and literary context particularly the modernismo movement whose followers broke linguistic and political ties with the pathos and excesses of romanticism

Oshun's Daughters Vanessa K. Valdés, 2014-01-01 Examines the ways in which the inclusion of African diasporic religious practices serves as a transgressive tool in narrative discourses in the Americas Oshun's Daughters examines representations of African diasporic religions from novels and poems written by women in the United States the Spanish Caribbean and Brazil In spite of differences in age language and nationality these women writers all turn to variations of traditional Yoruba religion Santería a Regla de Ocha and Candomblé as a source of inspiration for creating portraits of womanhood. Within these religious systems binaries that dominate European thought: man/woman, mind/body, light/dark, good/evil do not function in the same way as the emphasis is not on extremes but on balancing or reconciling these radical differences. Involvement with these African diasporic religions thus provides alternative models of womanhood that differ substantially from those found in dominant Western patriarchal culture: namely that of virgin/asexual wife/mother and whore. Instead we find images of the sexual woman who enjoys her body without any sense of shame, the mother who nurtures her children without sacrificing herself, and the warrior woman who actively resists demands that she conform to one-dimensional stereotypes of womanhood.

Contested Identities in Costa Rica Liz Harvey-Kattou, 2019. Contested Identities in Costa Rica explores the concept of national identity within the paradigm of the dominant image of the traditional and idealised tico. Considering literature from the 1970s and cinema from the twenty-first century, it analyses how this identity has been challenged through the soft power of creative protest.

Gendered Self-consciousness in Mexican and Chicana Women Writers Traci Roberts-Camps, Traci Roberts-Camps, 2008. Isabel Allende Mary Ellen Snodgrass, 2013-02-23. Isabel Allende la Famosa to her fellow Chileans is the world's most widely read Spanish language author. Her career coincides with the emergence of multiculturalism and global feminism, and her powerfully honest revelatory works touch the pulse points of humankind. Her bravura study of the interwoven roles of women in family history opens the minds of outsiders to the sufferings of women and their children during years of social and political nightmare. This reference work provides an introduction to Allende's life as well as a guided overview of her body of work. Designed for the fan and scholar alike, this text features an alphabetized, fully annotated listing of major terms in the Allende canon, including fictional characters, motifs, historical events, and themes. A comprehensive index is included.

Ordinary Enchantments Wendy B. Faris, 2004. Ordinary Enchantments investigates magical realism as the most important trend in contemporary international fiction, defines its characteristics and narrative techniques, and proposes a new theory to explain its significance. In the most comprehensive critical treatment of this literary mode to date, Wendy B. Faris discusses a rich array of examples from magical realist novels around the world, including the work not only of Latin American writers like Gabriel García Márquez but also of authors like Salman Rushdie, Günter Grass, Toni Morrison, and Ben Okri. Faris argues that by combining realistic representation with fantastic elements so that the marvelous seems to grow organically out of the ordinary, magical realism destabilizes the dominant form of realism based on empirical definitions of reality, gives it visionary power, and thus constitutes what might be called a remystification of narrative in the West. Noting the radical narrative heterogeneity of magical realism, the author compares its cultural role to that of traditional shamanic performance, which joins the worlds of daily life and that of the spirits. Because of that capacity to bridge different worlds, magical realism has served as an effective decolonizing agent, providing the ground for marginal voices, submerged traditions, and emergent literatures to develop and create masterpieces. At the same time, this process is not limited to postcolonial situations but constitutes a global trend that replenishes realism from within In addition to describing what many consider to be the progressive cultural work of magical realism Faris also confronts the recent accusation that magical realism and its study as a global phenomenon can be seen as a form of commodification and an imposition of cultural homogeneity And finally drawing on the narrative innovations and cultural scenarios that magical realism enacts she extends those principles toward issues of gender and the possibility of a female element within magical realism

The “Femme” Fatale in Brazilian Cinema Antônio Márcio da Silva,2014-05-01 In film the femme fatale has long been constructed as a beautiful heterosexual Caucasian woman Da Silva shows the need to incorporate diverse ethnic groups and male homosexuals into the range of femmes fatales and examines how the Brazilian representations cross gender race and class and offer alternatives to the dominant Hollywood model
