Noir Fiction:

Noir Fiction and Film Lee Clark Mitchell, 2021 The argument of Noir Fiction and Film is curiously counterintuitive that in a century of hard boiled fiction and detective films characteristics that at first seemed trivial swelled in importance flourishing into crucial aspects of the genre Among these are aimless descriptions of people and places irrelevant to plot along with detectives consisting of little more than sparkling dialogue and flippant attitudes What weaves together such features however seems to be a paradox that a genre rooted in solving a mystery structured around the gathering of clues must do so by misdirecting our attention even withholding information we think we need to generate the suspense we also desire Yet successful noir stories and films enhance that suspense through passing diversions descriptive details and eccentric perspectives rather than depending on the center pieces of plot alone suspected motives or incriminating traces As the greatest practitioners of the genre have realized the how of detective fiction its stylistic detours draws us in more insistently than the what or the who its linear advance And the achievement of recent film noir is to make that how become the tantalizing object of our entire attention shorn of any pretense of reading for the plot immersing us in the diversionary delight that has animated the genre from the beginning omnipresent marketplace Films like Double Indemnity, Ace in the Hole and Kiss Me Deadly alongside novels by Dashiell Hammett and Raymond Chandler provide rich examples for the first half of the study The second is largely devoted to works less commonly understood in relation to the hard-boiled and noir canon Examinations of the conspiracy films from the Seventies and Eighties like Klute and The Parallax View novels by Thomas Pynchon, Chester Himes and William Gibson reveal the persistence and evolution of these authenticity effects across the second half of the American twentieth century

The Foreign in International Crime Fiction Jean Anderson, Carolina Miranda, Barbara Pezzotti, 2012-06-14 The foreigner is a familiar character in popular crime fiction from the foreign detective whose outsider status provides a unique perspective on a familiar or exotic location to the xenophobic portrayal of the criminal other Exploring popular crime fiction from across the world The Foreign in International Crime Fiction examines these popular works as transcultural contact zones in which writers can tackle such issues as national identity, immigration, globalization and diaspora communities Offering readings of 20th and 21st century crime writing from Norway, the UK, India, China, Europe and Australasia, the essays in this book open up new directions for scholarship on crime writing and transnational literatures

The Ecology of American Noir Katrina Younes, 2025-04-07 This volume investigates the relationship between the conventions of noir fiction and film and its subtypes in relation to environmental crises Dr Younes addresses questions that not only allow readers to re-read early hard-boiled literature and neo-noir films but also help identify a new subgenre of noir and develop an ecocritical methodology eco-noir This text traces the development of strategies of mapping urban blight and environmental deterioration in classic hard-boiled fiction of the 1940s, neo-noir films of the 1970s and eco-noir texts of the post-millennial period Introducing the concept of eco-noir as both a subgenre and fictional form as well as a methodology, the volume develops a new way of understanding the relationship between noir and climate fiction texts Through a close reading of hard-boiled, neo-noir and eco-noir texts including those by Dashiell Hammett, Raymond Chandler, Robert Towne, Kim Stanley Robinson and Jeff VanderMeer, it asks and addresses the question: how does each subgenre of noir map the noir atmosphere of the private investigator's natural setting in terms of environmental toxicity The Ecology of American Noir contributes to critical conversations in both noir and ecocritical scholarship, making clear how a new understanding of noir as defined through environmental and atmospheric conditions invites readers, viewers and scholars of the genre to generate meaningful dialogues about our decaying and deteriorating environment

Crime Fiction in the Caribbean Lucy Evans, 2024-09-18 Crime Fiction in the Caribbean: Reframing Crime and Justice is the first academic book to focus on crime fiction by Anglophone Caribbean writers It explores how contemporary writers experiment with the crime genre in order to convey, contextualize and comment on crime and justice in Caribbean countries Lucy Evans reads crime fiction as a versatile mode of writing that can be politically engaged and that in a Caribbean context can expose power structures embedded in the region's multi-layered history of colonial conquest, genocide of Indigenous populations, plantation agriculture, transatlantic slavery and indentured labour This book covers fiction set in Trinidad and Tobago Jamaica Guyana Barbados Grenada and Haiti discussing novels by Elizabeth Nunez Jacob Ross Marlon James Harischandra Khemraj Esther Figueroa Edwidge Danticat Cherie Jones and several others Evans considers how fiction by anglophone Caribbean writers not only reflects upon the social realities of crime and crime control in the Caribbean but also at times contests or complicates scholarly popular and legal perspectives She argues that through their engagement with the crime genre these writers raise pressing questions about what constitutes crime and justice in a Caribbean context and about accountability Looking beyond the traditional focus of crime fiction and criminology on individual acts of wrongdoing their fiction highlights systemic social harms rooted in the region s colonial past Reading crime fiction through the lens of criminological research Crime Fiction in the Caribbean brings the study of literary writing into scholarly debate on crime in the Caribbean At the same time it extends the global turn in crime fiction studies focusing on a region that has been sidelined even in studies which examine the genre s international dimensions

Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress,2009 New Orleans Noir Julie Smith,2007 New Orleans is a third world country in itself a Latin African European and often amoral culture trapped in a Puritan nation New Orleans Noir is a sparkling collection of tales exploring the city s wasted gutted neighbourhoods its outwardly gleaming sliver by the river its still raunchy French Quarter and other hoods so far from the Quarter they might as well be on another continent It also looks back into the past from that recent innocent time known as pre K to the mid 19th century the other time the city was mostly swampland Orange County Noir (Akashic Noir) Gary Phillips,2010-04-01 You may be disturbed or possibly titillated to discover what can happen once you cross the Orange Curtain There s a dark side to most places even California s sunny Orange County Edgar winner T Jefferson

Parker observes in his foreword to this outstanding entry in Akashic's noir series one of the stronger of the all original anthologies. The crisp, often seductive prose of the 14 contributors, most of them relatively unknown, is a tribute to the critical judgment of the editor. Publishers Weekly Starred Review. Akashic Books continues its groundbreaking series of original noir anthologies launched in 2004 with Brooklyn Noir. Each story is set in a distinct neighborhood or location within the city of the book. Brand new stories by Susan Straight, Robert S. Levinson, Rob Roberge, Nathan Walpow, Barbara DeMarco, Barrett Dan Duling, Mary Castillo, Lawrence Maddox, Dick Lochte, Robert Ward, Gary Phillips, Gordon McAlpine, Martin J. Smith, and Patricia McFall, with a foreword by T. Jefferson Parker. From the introduction by Gary Phillips, Orange County brings to mind McMansion housing tracts, massive shopping centers with their own zip codes, where Pilates classes are run like boot camp and real estate values are discussed at your weekly colonic and ice cream parlors on Main Street, U.S.A. side by side with pho shops and taquerias as Los Angeles has been and continues to be explored as the place where noir, if it wasn't spawned there, sure as hell flowered. But what about its neighbor to the south? What secrets do Orange County's denizens have to tell or hide? This volume, like coming in from a sudden storm and then being gripped by a heavy riff from Bird's Horn, takes you on a hard-boiled tour behind the Orange Curtain. Among those you'll meet are a reclusive rock star who has lived way too long in his twisted head, a crooked judge who uses the court for illicit means, a cab driver prowling the streets with more than the ticking meter on his mind. In Orange County Noir, cultures clash, housewives want more than the perfect grout cleaner, and nobody is exactly who they seem to be.

Noir Christopher Moore, 2018. Madcap zany noir set on the mean streets of post-World War II San Francisco. Sammy Two Toes Tiffin is the bartender in a scruffy gin joint with street connections that make him the go-to guy for just about everything. When one of his schemes goes south and his lady vanishes, Sammy follows a tortuous trail from Chinatown to Telegraph Hill to a hidden forest enclave in a desperate search to find his girl. Meanwhile, a suspicious flying object has been spotted by the Pacific Coast near Mount Ranier, followed by a mysterious plane crash in Roswell, New Mexico, but the real weirdness is happening in the City by the Bay.

Hard-boiled Masculinities Christopher Breu, 2005. The persona of the American male in the period between the two world wars was characterized by physical strength, emotional detachment, aggressive behavior, and an amoral worldview. This ideal of a hard-boiled masculinity can be seen in the pages and even more vividly on the covers of magazines such as Black Mask, which shifted from Victorian-influenced depictions of men in top hats and mustaches in the early 1920s to the portrayal of much more overtly violent and muscular men. Looking closely at this transformation, Christopher Breu offers a complex account of how and why hard-boiled masculinity emerged during an unsettled time of increased urbanization and tenuous peace and traces the changes in its cultural conception as it moved back and forth across the divide between high and low culture, as well as the color line that bifurcated American society. Examining the work of Ernest Hemingway, Dashiell Hammett, Chester Himes, and William Faulkner, as well as many lesser known writers for the hypermasculine pulp magazines of the 1920s and 1930s Breu illustrates how the tough male was a product of cultural fantasy one that shored up gender and racial stereotypes as a way of lashing out at the destabilizing effects of capitalism and social transformation Christopher Breu is assistant professor of English at Illinois State University

Horizons of Difference Ruthanne Crapo Kim, Yvette Russell, Brenda Sharp, 2022-07-01 Horizons of Difference offers twelve original essays inspired by Luce Irigaray's complex nuanced critique of Western philosophy culture and metaphysics and her call to rethink our relationship to ourselves and the world through sexuate difference Contributors engage urgent topics in a range of fields including trans feminist theory feminist legal theory film studies critical race theory social political theory philosophy of religion environmental ethics philosophical aesthetics and critical pedagogy In so doing they aim to push the scope of Irigaray's work beyond its horizon Horizons of Difference seeks conversations that Irigaray herself has yet to fully consider and explores areas that stretch the limits of the notion of sexuate difference itself Sexuate difference is a unifying mode of thought bringing disparate disciplines and groups together Yet it also resists unification in demanding that we continually rethink the basic coordinates of space place and identity Ultimately Horizons of Difference insists that the fragmented wounded subjectivities within the dominant regime of masculine sameness can inform how we negotiate space find place and transform identity

Addiction, Representation and the Experimental Novel, 1985 2015 Heath A. Diehl, 2020-12-15 Since the nineteenth century the Western realistic novel has persistently represented the addict as a morally toxic force bent on destroying the institutions practices and ideologies that historically have connoted reason order civilization Addiction Representation undertakes an investigation into an alternative literary tradition that unsettles this limited portrayal of the addict The book analyzes the practices and politics of reading the experimental addiction novel and outlines both a practice and an ethics of reading that advocates for a more compassionate response to both diegetic and extra diegetic addicts an approach that at its core is focused on understanding
