Planning For Sustainability Creating Livable Equitable And Ecological Communities:

Planning for Sustainability Stephen M. Wheeler, 2004-08-19 Existing patterns of urbanization are unsustainable in the long run Current development practices consume enormous amounts of land and resources damage local ecosystems produce pollutants create huge inequalities between groups of people and undermine local community and quality of life Unfortunately planning has itself led to many unsustainable development practices Planning for Sustainability presents a straightforward systematic analysis of how more sustainable cities and towns can be brought about It does so in a highly readable manner that considers in turn each scale of planning international national regional municipal neighbourhood site and building In the process it illustrates how sustainability initiatives at these different scales interrelate and how an overall framework can be developed for more livable communities

Planning for Urban Sustainability Malene Freudendal-Pedersen, Daniel Galland, Jens Iuel-Stissing, 2025-06-09 This insightful book examines the role of an urban contingencies approach in understanding contemporary urban sustainability planning emphasising the importance of context and place sensitivity and offering a crucial alternative to existing best practice planning ideas

Enabling Eco-Cities Dominique Hes, Judy Bush, 2018-02-27 Cities are striving to become more resilient adaptive and sustainable this requires new ways of governing and developing the city This book features chapters by researchers using regenerative development and transitions theories to envisage how Eco Cities could be planned designed and created and concludes with practical tools and an outline of how this evolution could be facilitated It examines two major questions How can we use understandings of Eco Cities to address the legacy of urban built form and existing practices which often make it difficult to create the systemic changes needed And what are the elements of complex urban places and spaces that will enable the planning creation and evolution of thriving cities The book will appeal to planners city makers urban researchers students and practitioners including planners designers architects and sustainability managers and all those seeking to envisage the steps along the path to thriving cities of the future

The Oxford Handbook of Urban Planning Randall Crane, Rachel Weber, 2015 Why plan How and what do we plan Who plans for whom These three questions are then applied across three major topics in planning States Markets and the Provision of Social Goods The Methods and Substance of Planning and Agency Implementation and Decision Making

Making Better Places Patsy Healey, 2017-08-24 A major new introduction to planning by one of the leading figures in the field This text goes beyond description of planning s central ideas and practices to stress the importance of its potential to improve the quality of life in the 21st century

A Manifesto for the Just City Roberto Rocco, Caroline Newton, 2022-06-01 The Manifesto for the Just City comes in the wake of the realisation that socio spatial justice is a crucial dimension for sustainability transitions Growing inequality and the erosion of the public sphere undermine the social and political structures required to fight climate change pandemics and other systemic shocks At the same time profound cynicism and scepticism have gripped our minds This is paralysing us Following the words of Professor Faranak

Miraftab we need to decolonise our minds and try to imagine a different world and new kinds of relationships among ourselves and between us and the planet This book aims to encourage students to formulate their own visions for the Just City and for a just transition The second volume of A Manifesto for the Just City published by TU Delft OPEN Publishing and funded by the Delft Design for Values Institute gathers texts from scholars discussing aspects of the just city Professors Faranak Miraftab Mona Fawaz Mariana Fix Romola Sanyal Roberto Rocco and Caroline Newton and showcases 63 manifestos written by 256 students from 48 universities all over the world

Prioritizing the Environment in Urban Sustainability Planning Natasha Tang Kai, Larry Swatuk, 2023-12-01 This book examines the extent to which the environment is addressed in the sustainability plans of Canadian cities It assesses if and to what extent select leading environmental priorities are addressed in the sustainability plans of sixteen Canadian cities followed by analysis of efforts towards each priority It scores and ranks cities against each environmental priority and highlights what makes some cities lead and others lag in environmental sustainability The book unravels the complexity similarities and differences in environmental sustainability planning across major cities in Canada The project reflects what's working who's leading and which environmental priorities support the sustainable city model Climate change has exacerbated the impacts of flood droughts wildfire and storms urban centers must account for sustainability to mitigate and adapt to a changing and uncertain landscape It begins with robust and integrative sustainability plans that prioritize the environment This book will make a timely contribution to the on going debate regarding the ways and means to become a sustainable city It reflects the on going sustainable development discourse and deliberations to meet the Sustainable Development Goals It cut across many SDGs in particular SDG 11 Sustainable Cities and Communities What makes this study unique is its special attention to environmental priorities within urban sustainability planning This subject is topical and would appeal to both scholars and practitioners at local regional national and global scales

Ontology and Closeness in Human-Nature Relationships Neil H. Kessler, 2018-10-10 In Ontology and Closeness in Human Nature Relationships Neil H Kessler identifies the preconceptions which can keep the modern human mind in the dark about what is happening relationally between humans and the more than human world He has written an accessible work of environmental philosophy with a focus on the ontology of human nature relationships In it he contends that large scale environmental problems are intimate and relational in origin He also challenges the deeply embedded modernist assumptions about the relational limitations of more than human beings ones which place erroneous limitations on the possibilities for human more than human closeness Diverging from the posthumanist literature and its frequent reliance on new materialist ontology the arguments in the book attempt to sweep away what ecofeminists call human nature dualisms In doing so conceptual avenues open up that have the power to radically alter how we engage in our daily interactions with the more than human world all around us Given the diversity of fields and disciplines focused on the human nature relationship the topics of this book vary quite broadly but always converge at the nexus of what is possible between humans and more than human beings The discussion interweaves the influence of human nature dualisms with the limitations of Deleuzian becoming and posthumanism s new materialism and agential realism It leverages interhuman interdependence theory Charles Peirce s synechism of feeling and various treatments of Theory of Mind while exploring the influence of human nature dualisms on sustainability place attachment common worlds pedagogy emergence and critical animal studies It also explores the implications of plant electrical activity plant intelligence and plant neurobiology for possibilities of relational capacities in plants while even grappling with theories of animism to challenge the animate inanimate divide The result is an engaging novel treatment of human nature relational ontology that will encourage the reader to look at the world in a whole new way
