'Race', Education and Work David Drew, 1995 Proceedings of the Annual Symposium on Race Education/Training, 1976

Race, Education, and Citizenship Sin Yee Koh, 2017-01-04 Transnational skilled migrants are often thought of as privileged migrants with flexible citizenship. This book challenges this assumption by examining the diverse migration trajectories, experiences, and dilemmas faced by tertiary educated mobile Malaysian migrants through a postcolonial lens. It argues that mobile Malaysians' culture of migration can be understood as an outcome and consequence of British colonial legacies of race, education, and citizenship inherited and exacerbated by the postcolonial Malaysian state. Drawing from archival research and interviews with respondents in Singapore, United Kingdom, and Malaysia, this book examines how mobile Malaysians make sense of their migration lives and contextualizes their stories to the broader socio-political structures in colonial Malaya and postcolonial Malaysia. Showing how legacies of colonialism initiate, facilitate, and propagate migration in a multi-ethnic postcolonial migrant-sending country beyond the end of colonial rule, this text is a key read for scholars of migration, citizenship, ethnicity, nationalism, and postcolonialism.

Faculty Work in Schools of Education William G. Tierney, 2001-01-01 A full-bodied, robust discussion of issues of concern to faculty in schools of education.

Race, Education, and Reintegrating Formerly Incarcerated Citizens John R. Chaney, Joni Schwartz, 2017-07-18 This timely, readable text offers an authoritative and balanced analysis of how racially driven policies in America impact post-release education as a leading pathway to social reintegration. Compelling research findings from an assemblage of college faculty, seasoned administrators, and criminal justice professionals are interwoven with first-person narratives from formerly incarcerated individuals. This book takes full advantage of its interdisciplinary mixture of voices and positionality to build its argument upon a three-part framework from Critical Race Theory (CRT). It convincingly utilizes the tools of academic research, counterstories, and counterspaces to make a persuasive case that the intersection of race, the criminal justice system, and education represent one of the greatest civil rights issues of our time.

Part 1: Context: Critical Race Theory and College Re-Entry explores the historical and current dynamics of these uniquely American intersections while linking Critical Race Theory with the field of re-entry and offering serious analysis of post-incarceration and education initiatives. Interest, convergence, white privilege, and writing from returning citizens as a way of coming to voice are also explored in this section.

Part 2: Counterstories offers case, comparative case, and phenomenological studies that include embedded quotations with first-person narratives contributed from formerly incarcerated students and graduates. This section also includes an honest and gripping analytic auto-ethnography from the book's co-editor who readily reveals his experiences as both a faculty member and formerly incarcerated individual. Other highlighted topics include the issues of stigma, overcoming obstacles in the classroom, and the unique problems for returning citizens when acclimating to college culture. Combining qualitative research and descriptions of successful programs.

Part 3: Counterspaces explores the dynamics of creating places within programs and classrooms that support physical, emotional, spiritual, and intellectual engagement for and with the formerly incarcerated through learner centered culturally sensitive and racially explicit pedagogy This book is designed to be a most welcome addition to any serious academic discussion focusing upon institutionalized racism and education s use as a tool in reversing the mass incarceration of people of color in America
