Extravagant Postcolonialism Brian T. May, 2014-11-03 Brian T May argues that contrary to widely held assumptions of postcolonial literary criticism a distinctive subset of postcolonial novels significantly values and scrupulously explores a healthy individuality These extravagant postcolonial works focus less on collective social reality than on the intimate subjectivity of their characters Their authors most of whom received some portion of a canonical western education do not subordinate the ambitions of their fiction to explicit political causes so much as create a cosmopolitan rhetorical focus suitable to their western educated western trained audiences May pursues this argument by scrutinizing novels composed during the thirty year postindependence postcolonial era of Anglophone fiction a period that began with the Nigerian Chinua Achebe's Things Fall Apart and that ended many would say with the Ayatollah Khomeini's 1989 publication of the Rushdie Fatwa May contends that the postcolonial authors under consideration Naipaul Rushdie Achebe Rhys Gordimer and Coetzee inherited modernism and refashioned it His account of their work demonstrates how it reflects and transfigures modernists such as Conrad Eliot Yeats Proust Joyce and Beckett Tracing the influence of humanistic values and charting the ethical and aesthetic significance of individualism May demonstrates that these works of extravagant postcolonialism represent less a departure from than a continuation and evolution of modernism

Academic Citizenship, Identity, Knowledge, and Vulnerability Nuraan Davids, 2023-10-09 This book brings into contestation the idea of academic citizenship as a homogenous and inclusive space It delves into who academics are and how they come to embody their academic citizenship if at all Even when academics hold similar professional standings their citizenship and implied notions of participation inclusion recognition and belonging are largely pre determined by their personal identity markers rather than what they do professionally As such it is hard to ignore not only the contested and vulnerable terrain of academic citizenship but the necessity of unpacking the agonistic space of the university which both sustains and benefits from these contestations and vulnerabilities The book is influenced by a postcolonial vantage point interested in unblocking and opening spaces thoughts and voices not only of reimagined embodiments and expressions of academic citizenship but of hitherto silenced and discounted forms of knowledge and being It draws on academics stories at various universities located in South Africa USA UK Hong Kong and the Philippines It steps into the unexplored constructions of how knowledge is used in the deployment of valuing some forms of academic citizenship while devaluing others The book argues that different kinds of knowledge are necessary for both the building and questioning of theory the more expansive our immersion into knowledge the greater the capacities and opportunities for unlearning and relearning
