Edited by Meaghan Morris and Brett de Bary

"The idea of an Asian-based series that speaks to the international community of cultural studies, and that would be published simultaneously in multiple languages, is quite simply the most interesting development in cultural studies of the past decade."

globalization and as such it will appeal to social scientists with interests in migration race and ethnicity globalization and Irish studies

Traces 3 Thomas LaMarre, Kang Nae-Hui, 2004-01-01 Impacts of Modernities the third volume of the Traces series explores the problem of modernity with an emphasis on the impact of Western modernity on East Asia While the essays generally acknowledge modernity as a problem or even failure in order to challenge modernization and modernization theory the volume presents a number of different approaches to and evaluations of modernity in historical and contemporary frameworks One group of essays looks at the complex relations between modernity and production of space place and identity Contributors consider the spatializing tendencies of modernity looking at how resistance to modernization has tended to rely on the production of national and local identities which may serve to reproduce and reinforce the logic of modernization in new registers Of particular importance is the legacy of comparativism in our contemporary disciplines Other essays explore the historically specific relations that arise between nation empire and representation Contributors reconsider the alleged particularity of national languages and scripts asking whether the insistence on the particular does not already entail an access to the universal and thus maybe to empire Still other essays question whether the prime characteristics of modern power subjection and sovereignty continue to define power relations within the contemporary world order To what extent is it now possible to think power formations and resistance beyond the modern otherwise than modernity Back cover

Revolutions Gail Hershatter, 2018-09-04 If we place women at the center of our account of China's last two centuries how does this change our understanding of what happened This deeply knowledgeable book illuminates the places where the Big History of recognizable events intersects with the daily lives of ordinary people using gender as its analytic lens Leading scholar Gail Hershatter asks how these events affected women in particular and how women affected the course of these events For instance did women have a 1911 revolution A socialist revolution If so what did those revolutions look like Which women had them Hershatter uses two key themes to frame her analysis The first is the importance of women's visible and invisible labor The labor of women in domestic and public spaces shaped China's move from empire to republic to socialist nation to rising capitalist power The second is the symbolic work performed by gender itself What women should do and be was a constant topic of debate during China's transformation from empire to weak state to partially occupied territory to nascent socialist republic to reform era powerhouse What sorts of concerns did people express through the language of gender How did that language work and why was it so powerful Drawing on decades of Hershatter's groundbreaking scholarship and mastery of a range of literatures this beautifully written book will be essential reading for all students of China's modern history

Muslim solidarity and sensitivity towards Chinese government's concern of external extremism Finally it concludes by investigating Hong Kong's growing awareness of the Muslim minorities demands for Islamic religious education and how this links with the city state's aspiration to become the new gateway for Islamic finance Indeed Wai Yip Ho posits that Hong Kong is now shifting from its role as the broker that bridged East and West during the Cold War to that of a new mediator between China and the Middle East Drawing on extensive ethnographic research this book thoughtfully charts a new area of inquiry and as such will be welcomed by students and scholars of Chinese studies Islamic studies Asian studies and ethnicity studies
