Understanding Racial and Ethnic Differences in Health in Late Life National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, Panel on Race, Ethnicity, and Health in Later Life, 2004-09-08 As the population of older Americans grows it is becoming more racially and ethnically diverse Differences in health by racial and ethnic status could be increasingly consequential for health policy and programs Such differences are not simply a matter of education or ability to pay for health care For instance Asian Americans and Hispanics appear to be in better health on a number of indicators than White Americans despite on average lower socioeconomic status The reasons are complex including possible roles for such factors as selective migration risk behaviors exposure to various stressors patient attitudes and geographic variation in health care This volume produced by a multidisciplinary panel considers such possible explanations for racial and ethnic health

differentials within an integrated framework It provides a concise summary of available research and lays out a research agenda to address the many uncertainties in current knowledge It recommends for instance looking at health differentials across the life course and deciphering the links between factors presumably producing differentials and biopsychosocial mechanisms that lead to impaired health

Handbook of Sociology of Aging Richard A. Settersten, Jr., Jacqueline L. Angel, 2011-05-11 The Handbook of Sociology of Aging is the most comprehensive engaging and up to date treatment of developments within the field over the past 30 years The volume represents an indispensable source of the freshest and highest standard scholarship for scholars policy makers and aging professionals alike The Handbook of Sociology of Aging contains 45 far reaching chapters authored by nearly 80 of the most renowned experts on the most pressing topics related to aging today With its recurring attention to the social forces that shape human aging and the social consequences and policy implications of it the contents will be of interest to everyone who cares about what aging means for individuals families and societies The chapters of the Handbook of Sociology of Aging illustrate the field s extraordinary breadth and depth which has never before been represented in a single volume Its contributions address topics that range from foundational matters such as classic and contemporary theories and methods to topics of longstanding and emergent interest such as social diversity and inequalities social relationships social institutions economies and governments social vulnerabilities public health and care arrangements The volume closes with a set of personal essays by senior scholars who share their experiences and hopes for the field and an essay by the editors that provides a roadmap for the decade ahead The Handbook of Sociology of Aging showcases the very best that sociology has to offer the study of human aging

Critical Perspectives on Racial and Ethnic Differences in Health in Late Life National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, Panel on Race, Ethnicity, and Health in Later Life, 2004-10-16 In their later years Americans of different racial and ethnic backgrounds are not in equally good or equally poor health There is wide variation but on average older Whites are healthier than older Blacks and tend to outlive them But Whites tend to be in poorer health than Hispanics and Asian Americans This volume documents the differentials and considers possible explanations Selection processes play a role selective migration for instance or selective survival to advanced ages Health differentials originate early in life possibly even before birth and are affected by events and experiences throughout the life course Differences in socioeconomic status risk behavior social relations and health care all play a role Separate chapters consider the contribution of such factors and the biopsychosocial mechanisms that link them to health This volume provides the empirical evidence for the research agenda provided in the separate report of the Panel on Race Ethnicity and Health in Later Life

Learning Race and Ethnicity Anna Everett, 2008 An exploration of how issues of race and ethnicity play out in a digital media landscape that includes MySpace post 9 11 politics MMOGs Internet music distribution and the digital divide It may have been true once that as the famous cartoon of the 1990s put it Nobody knows you're a dog on the Internet and that as an MCI commercial of that era declared on the Internet there is no race gender or infirmity but today with the development of web cams digital photography cell phone cameras streaming video and social networking sites this notion seems quaintly idealistic This volume takes up issues of race and ethnicity in the new digital media landscape The contributors address this topic still difficult to engage honestly clearly empathetically and with informed understanding in twenty first century America with the goal of pushing consideration of a vexing but important subject from margin to center Learning Race and Ethnicity explores the intersection of race and ethnicity with post 9 11 politics online hate speech practices and digital youth and media cultures It examines universal access and the racial and ethnic digital divide from the perspective of digital media learning and youth The chapters treat such subjects as racial identity in the computer mediated public sphere minority technology innovators new methods of music distribution digital artist Judy Baca s work with youth Native American digital media literacy and minority youth technology access and the pervasiveness of online health information Contributors Ambar Basu Graham D Bodie Dara N Byrne Jessie Daniels Mohan J Dutta Raiford Guins Guisela Latorre Antonio L pez Chela Sandoval Tyrone D Taborn Douglas Thomas

Future Directions for the Demography of Aging National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, 2018-06-21 Almost 25 years have passed since the Demography of Aging 1994 was published by the National Research Council Future Directions for the Demography of Aging is in many ways the successor to that original volume The Division of Behavioral and Social Research at the National Institute on Aging NIA asked the National Academies of Sciences Engineering and Medicine to produce an authoritative guide to new directions in demography of aging The papers published in this report were originally presented and discussed at a public workshop held in Washington D C August 17 18 2017 The workshop discussion made evident that major new advances had been made in the last two decades but also that new trends and research directions have emerged that call for innovative conceptual design and measurement approaches The report reviews these recent trends and also discusses future directions for research on a range of topics that are central to current research in the demography of aging Looking back over the past two decades of demography of aging research shows remarkable advances in our understanding of the health and well being of the older population Equally exciting is that this report sets the stage for the next two decades of innovative research a period of rapid growth in the older American population

Recent Advances in Psychology and Aging P. Costa, I.C. Siegler, 2003-12-10 Recent Events in the Psychology of Aging documents the successful integration of aging into the mainstream of psychology Leading psychologists present overviews of the key issues and research findings on mainstream topics These include cognitive neuroscience visual attention learning memory and cognition as well as personality and happiness The intersection of aging content with mainstream psychology is also prominent in the areas of emotions personality and social psychology as seen in the chapters on subjective well being emotional development self esteem and personality trajectories The seven chapters of this book offer information on such topics as the seven sins of memory categorizing the common breakdowns of memory in everyday life and the special breakdown of sins that increase with aging problems with attention and learning and offers answers to questions such as do emotions get blunted with age do older people focus more on positive feelings and the age old question of whether older people are happier than younger people is given in the chapter on the evolving concept of subjective well being and the multifaceted nature of happiness Questions about what occurs to one's self esteem and personality are also masterfully discussed and the answers may be surprising The concluding seventh chapter provides a cultural lens on the biopsychosocial study of aging

Handbook of Aging and the Social Sciences Linda George, 2010-11-26 Handbook of Aging and the Social Sciences Seventh Edition provides extensive reviews and critical evaluations of research on the social aspects of aging. It also makes available major references and identifies high priority topics for future research. The book is organized into four parts. Part 1 reviews developments in the field of age and the life course (ALC) studies and presents guidelines on conducting cohort analysis. Part 2 covers the demographic aspects of aging, longevity, trends, disability, and aging and stratification and inequality research. Part 3 includes chapters that examine socioeconomic position and racial/ethnic disparities in health at older ages, the role of social factors in the distribution, antecedents and consequences of depression, and aspects of private wealth transfers and the changing nature of family gift giving. Part 4 deals with pension reform in Europe, the political activities of older Americans, the future of retirement security, and gender differences in old age. The Handbook is intended for researchers, professional practitioners, and students in the field of aging. It can also serve as a basic reference tool for scholars, professionals, and others who are not presently engaged in research and practice directly focused on aging and the aged. Contains all the main areas of social science/gerontological research in one volume. Begins with a section on theory and methods. Edited by one of the fathers of gerontology, Binstock, and contributors represent top scholars in gerontology.
