diverse range of contemporary environmental ethics After describing Emerson's own environmental literacy and ethical aesthetic and creative practices of relating to the natural world Dunston delineates a web of environmental ethics that connects Emerson to contemporary eco feminism living systems theory Native American science Asian philosophy and environmental activism Darwin-Inspired Learning Carolyn J. Boulter, Michael J. Reiss, Dawn L. Sanders, 2015-01-19

Charles Darwin has been extensively analysed and written about as a scientist Victorian father and husband However this is the first book to present a carefully thought out pedagogical approach to learning that is centered on Darwin's life and scientific practice The ways in which Darwin developed his scientific ideas and their far reaching effects continue to challenge and provoke contemporary teachers and learners inspiring them to consider both how scientists work and how individual humans read nature Darwin inspired learning as proposed in this international collection of essays is an enquiry based pedagogy that takes the professional practice of Charles Darwin as its source Without seeking to idealise the man Darwin inspired learning places importance on active learning hands on enquiry critical thinking creativity argumentation interdisciplinarity In an increasingly urbanised world first hand observations of living plants and animals are becoming rarer Indeed some commentators suggest that such encounters are under threat and children are living in a time of nature deficit Darwin inspired learning with its focus on close observation and hands on enquiry seeks to re engage children and young people with the living world through critical and creative thinking modeled on Darwin's life and science Breaking Boundaries Nancy Calvert-Koyzis, Heather Weir, 2010-08-26

Women throughout the centuries have sought to break out of the constraints that their societies deemed appropriate for them Journal of Experimental Pedagogy and Training College Record, 1912 Joint Documents of the State of Michigan Michigan, 1896 Toward Robert Frost Judith Oster, 1994-02-01

Every poem Robert Frost declared is an epitome of the great predicament a figure of the will braving alien entanglements This study considers what Frost meant by those entanglements how he braved them in his poetry and how he invited his readers to do the same In the process it contributes significantly to a new critical awareness of Frost as a complex artist who anticipated postmodernism a poet who invoked literary traditions and conventions frequently to set himself in tension with them Using the insights of reader response theory Judith Oster explains how Frost appeals to readers with his apparent accessibility and then because of the openness of his poetry's possibilities engages them in the process of constructing meaning Frost's poems she demonstrates teach the reader how they should be read at the same time they resist closure and definitive reading The reader's acts of encountering and constructing the poems parallel Frost's own encounters and acts of construction Commenting at length on a number of individual poems Oster ranges in her discussion from the ways in which the poet dramatizes the inadequacy of the self alone to the manner in which he reads the Book of Genesis or the writing of Emerson Oster illuminates finally the central conflict in Frost his need to be read well against his fear of being read his need to share his creation against his fear of its appropriation by others American Impersonal: Essays with Sharon Cameron Branka Arsic,2014-02-27 American Impersonal brings together some of the most influential scholars now working in American literature to explore the impact of one of America's leading literary critics Sharon Cameron. It engages directly with certain arguments that Cameron has articulated throughout her career, most notably her late work on the question of impersonality. In doing so, it provides responses to questions fundamental to literary criticism such as the nature of personhood, the logic of subjectivity in depersonalized communities, the question of the human within the problematic of the impersonal, how impersonality relates to the posthuman. Additionally, some essays respond to the current aesthetic turn in literary scholarship and engage with the lyric, currently much debated, as well as the larger questions of poetics and the logic of genre. These crucial issues are addressed from the perspective of an American literary and philosophical tradition and progress chronologically starting from Melville and Emerson and moving via Dickinson, Thoreau, and Hawthorne to Henry James and Wallace Stevens. This historical perspective adds the appeal of revisiting the American nineteenth-century literary and philosophical tradition and even rewriting it. Victorian Writers and the Environment Laurence W. Mazzeno, Ronald D. Morrison,2016-12-08 Applying ecocritical theory to the work of Victorian writers, this collection explores what a diversity of ecocritical approaches can offer students and scholars of Victorian literature at the same time that it critiques the general effectiveness of ecocritical theory. Interdisciplinary in their approach, the essays take up questions related to the nonhuman, botany, landscape, evolutionary science, and religion. The contributors cast a wide net in terms of genre, analyzing novels, poetry, periodical works, botanical literature, life writing, and essays. Focusing on a wide range of canonical and noncanonical writers, including Charles Dickens, the Brontës, John Ruskin, Christina Rossetti, Jane Webb Loudon, Anna Sewell, and Richard Jefferies, Victorian Writers and the Environment demonstrates the ways in which nineteenth-century authors engaged not only with humans' interaction with the environment during the Victorian period but also how some authors anticipated more recent attitudes toward the environment. The Westminster ..., 1904 Annual Report of the Superintendent of Education on the Public Schools of Nova Scotia for the Year Ending 31st October ... Nova Scotia.
