The Central Nervous System Control of Respiration

,2014-04-17 Respiration is one of the most basic motor activities crucial for survival of the individual It is under total control of the central nervous system which adjusts respiratory depth and frequency depending on the circumstances the individual finds itself For this reason this volume not only reviews the basic control systems of respiration located in the caudal brainstem but also the higher brain regions that change depth and frequency of respiration Scientific knowledge of these systems is crucial for understanding the problems in the many patients suffering from respiratory failure This well established international series examines major areas of basic and clinical research within neuroscience as well as emerging subfields

Frazier,2021-12-15 Understanding of the respiratory control system has been greatly improved by technological and methodological advances This volume integrates results from many perspectives brings together diverse approaches to the investigations and represents important additions to the field of neural control of breathing Topics include membrane properties of respiratory neurons in vitro studies of respiratory control chemical neuroanatomy central integration of respiratory afferents modulation of respiratory pattern by peripheral afferents respiratory chemoreception development of respiratory control behavioral control of breathing and human ventilatory control Forty seven experts in the field report research and discuss novel issues facing future investigations in this collection of papers from an international conference of nearly two hundred leading scientists held in October 1990 This research is of vital importance to respiratory physiologists and those in neurosciences and neurobiology who work with integrative sensory and motor systems and is pertinent to both basic and clinical investigations Respiratory Control is destined to be widely cited because of the strength of the contributors and the dearth of similar works A Text Book of General Physiology for Colleges Philip Henry Mitchell,1923 The Journal of the New York State Teachers' Association ,1918 Journal of the New York State Teachers' Association ,1918
