Forsythe, 2017-08-18 This fourth edition of David P. Forsythe's successful textbook provides an authoritative and timely analysis of the place of human rights in an age of upheaval in international politics. Human rights standards are examined at the global, regional and national levels with separate chapters on transnational corporations and advocacy groups. Completely updated and revised, the fourth edition takes account of new sources and recent scholarship as well as recent events such as the Syrian war, the rise of ISIS, refugee flows, South Sudan crises and the resurgence of nationalism. A new chapter has been added on the media and human rights covering both traditional and social media. Examining attempts to protect human rights by various actors such as the United Nations, the European Union, transnational corporations and the media, the book stresses that the open-ended fate of universal human rights depends on human agency in this context. Containing further reading suggestions and discussion questions, this textbook is a vital resource for courses on human rights in an international context.

The Problem of the Passions Cynthia Burack, 1995-03 Women says conventional wisdom are warm nurturing caregivers with an intrinsically enhanced capacity for attachment and compassion. Feminists says the popular image are full of rage devoid of the feelings that are natural to women. How have feminists themselves dealt with this dualism and more specifically with the disagreeable passions? What has too often been missing from discussions of women's psychology in social theory is an account of women as ambivalent both empathic and enraged, loving and hating. The Problem of the Passions fills this void. Examining the work of such feminist theorists as Carol Gilligan, Nancy Chodorow, Jessica Benjamin and Dorothy Dinnerstein in a new light, Burack argues that feminist social theory can be repaired through attention to the pioneering psychoanalytic work of Melanie Klein. Sure to be of interest to feminists, psychoanalysts, political scientists and social theorists, The Problem of the Passions is essential reading for anyone concerned with feminism and questions of identity in social thought.
