Relativism And The Social Sciences:

Relativism and the Social Sciences Ernest Gellner, 1987-02-26 Considers human diversity and change and rejects the usual solutions to problems of relativism Presents a new mode of inquiry in its stead a mixture of philosophy history and anthropology that appears to be more meaningful

Cognitive Relativism and Social Science Diederick Raven, 2020 Modern epistemology has been dominated by an empiricist theory of knowledge that assumes a direct individualistic relationship between the knowing subject and the object of knowledge Truth is held to be universal and non individualistic social and cultural factors are considered sources of distortion of true knowledge Since the late 1950s this view has been challenged by a cognitive relativism asserting that what is true is socially conditioned This volume examines the far reaching implications of this development for the social sciences Recently cognitive relativism has become a key issue of debate in anthropology philosophy and sociology In anthropology this is illustrated by a growing awareness of the similarity of all systems of knowledge In philosophy it is exemplified by the realization that traditional monolithic and absolutist concepts of truth have increasingly lost any power to make sense and to convince In sociology it is visible in a renewal of interest in a general sociology of knowledge Yet in spite of this convergence of interests practitioners of these three disciplines have on the whole shown no inclination to reach a consensus on the terms of reference that could facilitate an interdisciplinary approach Cognitive Relativism and Social Science aims to do just this It is a working assumption of this volume that as far as the subject of cognitive relativism is concerned anthropologists philosophers and sociologists should join forces rather than try to deal with the challenges of cognitive relativism within strictly imposed boundaries that normally separate academic disciplines Only when they work together will it be possible to treat the problems posed by cognitive relativism in an adequate way This volume provides the results of attempts to communicate on cognitive relativism across disciplinary boundaries This is must reading in the philosophy of social science and in social research theory

Cognitive Relativism and Social Science Diederick Raven, Lietteke Van Vucht Tijssen, Jan De Wolf, Modern epistemology has been dominated by an empiricist theory of knowledge that assumes a direct individualistic relationship between the knowing subject and the object of knowledge Truth is held to be universal and non individualistic social and cultural factors are considered sources of distortion of true knowledge Since the late 1950s this view has been challenged by a cognitive relativism asserting that what is true is socially conditioned This volume examines the far reaching implications of this development for the social sciences Recently cognitive relativism has become a key issue of debate in anthropology philosophy and sociology In anthropology this is illustrated by a growing awareness of the similarity of all systems of knowledge In philosophy it is exemplified by the realization that traditional monolithic and absolutist concepts of truth have increasingly lost any power to make sense and to convince In sociology it is visible in a renewal of interest in a general sociology of knowledge Yet in spite of this convergence of interests practitioners of these three disciplines have on the whole shown no inclination to reach a consensus on the terms of reference that could facilitate an interdisciplinary approach Cognitive Relativism and Social Science aims to do just this It is a working assumption of this volume that as far as the subject of cognitive relativism is concerned anthropologists philosophers and sociologists should join forces rather than try to deal with the challenges of cognitive relativism within strictly imposed boundaries that normally separate academic disciplines Only when they work together will it be possible to treat the problems posed by cognitive relativism in an adequate way This volume provides the results of attempts to communicate on cognitive relativism across disciplinary boundaries This is must reading in the philosophy of social science and in social research theory

Copernicus, Darwin, and Freud Friedel Weinert, 2009-03-12 Using Copernicanism Darwinism and Freudianism as examples of scientific traditions Copernicus Darwin and Freud takes a philosophical look at these three revolutions in thought to illustrate the connections between science and philosophy Shows how these revolutions in thought lead to philosophical consequences Provides extended case studies of Copernicanism Darwinism and Freudianism Integrates the history of science and the philosophy of science like no other text Covers both the philosophy of natural and social science in one volume

Masons, Tricksters and Cartographers David Turnbull, 2000 This highly original study puts forward the notion that every culture has its own ways of assembling local knowledge thereby creating space through the linking of people practices and places

The Emergence of Relativism Martin Kusch, Katherina Kinzel, Johannes Steizinger, Niels Wildschut, 2019-03-04 Debates over relativism are as old as philosophy itself Since the late nineteenth century relativism has also been a controversial topic in many of the social and cultural sciences And yet relativism has not been a central topic of research in the history of philosophy or the history of the social sciences This collection seeks to remedy this situation by studying the emergence of modern forms of relativism as they unfolded in the German lands during the long nineteenth century from the Enlightenment to National Socialism It focuses on relativist and anti relativist ideas and arguments in four contexts history science epistemology and politics The Emergence of Relativism will be of interest to those studying nineteenth and twentieth century philosophy German idealism and history and philosophy of science as well as those in related disciplines such as sociology and anthropology

Vol. 2 Lawrence E Hazelrigg,1989 Sociology and Ideology Eliezer Ben Rafael,2003-01-01 Annotation Representing different views on the role of ideology in sociological pursuits and on the sociological study of ideology these seven essays consider the relationship between ideology and relativism modernity economic globalization linguistic pluralism critical reflexivity and identity The authors examine sociological practice as it has varied over time and as it is employed in different geographical locations contrasting sociological work with that of other social sciences Annotation 2004 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com Beyond Objectivism and Relativism Richard J. Bernstein,2011-09-16 Drawing freely and expertly from Continental and analytic traditions Richard Bernstein examines a number of debates and controversies exemplified in the works of Gadamer Habermas Rorty and Arendt He argues that a new conversation is emerging about human rationality a new understanding that emphasizes its practical character and has important ramifications both for thought and action Relativism and Realism in Science Robert Nola,1988-07-31 The institutionalization of History and Philosophy of Science as a distinct field of scholarly endeavour began comparatively early though not always under that name in the Australasian region An initial lecturing appointment was made at the University of Melbourne immediately after the Second World War in 1946 and other appointments followed as the subject underwent an expansion during the 1950s and 1960s similar to that which took place in other parts of the world Today there are major Departments at the University of Melbourne the University of New South Wales and the University of Wollongong and smaller groups active in many other parts of Australia and in New Zealand Australasian Studies in History and Philosophy of Science aims to provide a distinctive publication outlet for Australian and New Zealand scholars working in the general area of history philosophy and social studies of science Each volume comprises a group of essays on a connected theme edited by an Australian or a New Zealander with special expertise in that particular area Papers address general issues however rather than local ones parochial topics are avoided Further more though in each volume a majority of the contributors is from Australia or New Zealand contributions from elsewhere are by no means ruled out Quite the reverse in fact they are actively encouraged wherever appropriate to the balance of the volume in question The Philosophy of Historical Case Studies Tilman

Sauer, Raphael Scholl, 2016-05-24 This volume collects reflections on the role of philosophy in case studies in the history of science Case studies have played a prominent role in recent history and philosophy of science They have been used to illustrate question explore or explicate philosophical points of view Even if not explicitly so historical narratives are always guided by philosophical background assumptions But what happens if different philosophies lead to different narratives of the same historical episodes Can historical case studies decide between competing philosophical viewpoints What are the criteria that a case study has to fulfill in order to be philosophically relevant Bringing together leading practitioners in the fields of history and philosophy of the physical and the life sciences this volume addresses this methodological problem and proposes ways of rendering explicit philosophical assumptions of historical work Adaptive Agents, Intelligence, and Emergent Human Organization

Lawrence E. Hazelrigg, 1900 Understanding the Tacit Stephen P. Turner, 2014-01-21 This book outlines a new account of the tacit meaning tacit knowledge presuppositions practices traditions and so forth It includes essays on topics such as underdetermination and mutual understanding and critical discussions of the major alternative approaches to the tacit including Bourdieu's habitus and various practice theories Oakeshott's account of tradition Quentin Skinner's theory of historical meaning Harry Collins's idea of collective tacit knowledge as well as discussions of relevant cognitive science concepts such as non conceptual content connectionism and mirror neurons The new account of tacit knowledge focuses on the fact that in making the tacit explicit a person is not as many past accounts have supposed reading off the content of some sort of shared and fixed tacit scheme of presuppositions but rather responding to the needs of the Other for understanding

Relativism in the Philosophy of Science Martin Kusch, 2021-01-31 Relativism versus absolutism is one of the fundamental oppositions that have dominated reflections about science for much of its modern history Often these reflections have been inseparable from wider social political concerns regarding the position of science in society Where does this debate stand in the philosophy and sociology of science today And how does the relativism question relate to current concerns with post truth politics In Relativism in the Philosophy of Science Martin Kusch examines some of the most influential relativist proposals of the last fifties years and the controversies they have triggered He argues that defensible forms of relativism all deny that any sense can be made of a scientific result being absolutely true or justified and that they all reject anything goes that is the thought that all scientific results are epistemically on a par Kusch concludes by distinguishing between defensible forms of relativism and post truth thinking
