Researching Sexual Violence against Women Martin D. Schwartz,1997-02-24 As the backlash against feminist research continues unabated this important volume signals no retreat Bringing together the foremost international researchers in the area of violence against women Researching Sexual Violence Against Women offers excellent assessments of the dimensions of date rape particularly on college campuses Reasons why this form of violence against women has provoked such intense responses as well as new methodologies are thoroughly explored Finally the work examines the impact this research has on those who do it and calls for more work on women s victimization and the links between it and other forms of discrimination Meda Chesney Lind Women s Studies Program University of Hawaii Manoa A remarkable introduction to research in the field Researching Sexual Violence Against Women provides cutting edge information on the various studies conducted on North American campuses This compelling book not only provides a strong overview of the entire field but also simultaneously offers an answer to backlash critics who claim that feminists exaggerate their statistics Several of the best known researchers describe their own work and that of others to illustrate both large scale and local studies The contributors also take a compelling look into the emotions of sexual assault research by discussing their own emotional experiences of working with rape research including experiences of harassment by subjects or disrespect by colleagues In addition several scholars peruse empirical and epistemological questions and arrive at surprising conclusions on feminist participatory research into lesbian battering reflexivity in studying prostitutes the gendered nature of research interviews and white women studying battered women of color Including chapters on very hot topics and celebrating feminist research methodology Researching Sexual Violence Against Women speaks to a broad audience including researchers academics professionals and students in the areas of interpersonal violence social work sociology criminology women s studies psychology family studies and counseling as well as college administrators and mental health practitioners

Qualitative Research in Criminology (1999) Fiona Brookman, Lesley Noaks, Emma Wincup, 2017-12-15 Published in 1999 this text brings together detailed reflexive accounts of authors experiences of conducting research on a variety of criminological topics The broad aim of the book is to critically review how qualitative methods can be effectively deployed in the area of criminology The conclusions reached in the text are diverse reflecting the range of qualitative methods considered and the particular criminological topics to which they are applied A common theme throughout is that whilst qualitative research can help to provide valid and meaningful information on criminological issues researchers need to carefully reflect upon both the methodological and ethical dimensions of their work The book will appeal to those who wish to understand the experience of conducting qualitative research on aspects of crime and criminal justice This will include undergraduate and postgraduate students undertaking research for the first time as well as experienced researchers and teachers This book was originally published as part of the Cardiff Papers in Qualitative Research series edited by Paul Atkinson Sara Delamont and Amanda Coffey The series publishes original sociological research that reflects the tradition of qualitative and ethnographic inquiry developed at Cardiff The series includes monographs reporting on empirical research edited collections focussing on particular themes and texts discussing methodological developments and issues

Women's Studies Linda Krikos, Cindy Ingold, 2004-08-30 This truly monumental work maps the literature of women s studies covering thousands of titles and Web sites in 19 subject areas published between 1985 and 1999 Intended as a reference and collection development tool this bibliography provides a guide for women s studies information for each title along with a detailed often evaluative review The annotations summarize each work s content its importance or contribution to women s studies and its relationship to other titles on the subject Core titles and titles that are out of print are noted and reviews indicate which titles are appropriate as texts or supplemental texts This definitive guide to the literature of women s studies is a must purchase for academic libraries that support women s studies programs and it is a useful addition to any academic or public library that endeavors to represent the field A team of subject specialists has taken on the immense task of documenting publications in the area of women's studies in the last decades of the 20th century. The result is this truly monumental work which maps the field covering thousands of titles and Web sites in 19 subject areas published between 1985 and 1999. Intended as a reference and collection development tool, this bibliography provides a guide for women's studies information for each title along with a detailed, often evaluative review. The annotations summarize each work's content, its importance or contribution to women's studies, and its relationship to other titles on the subject. Most reviews cite and describe similar and contrasting titles, substantially extending the coverage. Core titles and titles that are out of print are noted, and reviews indicate which titles are appropriate as texts or supplemental texts. Taking up where the previous volume by Loeb, Searing, and Stineman left off, this is the definitive guide to the literature of women's studies. It is a must purchase for academic libraries that support women's studies programs and a welcome addition to any academic or public library that endeavors to represent the field.

Researching Violence Raymond M. Lee, Elizabeth A. Stanko, 2014-06-11 Violence is a research topic that is fraught with difficulties. A notoriously sensitive subject and one that is presumed to be largely hidden, researchers have long struggled with the question of how to measure its impact and how to explore its incidence. Arising from the ESRC's Violence Research Programme, Researching Violence is a practical guide both to these problems and to the obstacles encountered when negotiating this uneasy terrain. Comprising the reflections of researchers who have worked on diverse projects from violence in the home to racial violence and homicide, this book demonstrates the ingenuity and at times courageous actions of researchers having to think on their feet. It also investigates the ethical and emotional issues arising from working with the victims and perpetrators of violence. This book will be indispensable for students and academics doing research projects on violence.

Social Science Research Ethics for a Globalizing World Keerty Nakray, Margaret Alston, Kerri Whittenbury, 2015-10-14 Research in the humanities and social sciences thrives on critical reflections that unfold with each research project, not only in terms of knowledge created but in whether chosen methodologies served their purpose. Ethics forms the bulwark of any social science research methodology, and it requires continuous engagement and reengagement for the greater advancement of knowledge. Each chapter in this book will draw from the empirical knowledge created through intensive fieldwork and provide an account of ethical questions faced by the contributors, placing them in the context of contemporary debates surrounding the theory and practice of ethics. The chapters have been thematically organized into five sections: Feminist Ethics; Cross Cultural Reflections and Its Implications for Change; Researching Physical and Sexual Violence in Non Academic Settings; A Need for Ethical Protocols; Human Agency, Reciprocity, Participation, and Activism; Meanings for Social Science Research Ethics; Emotions, Conflict, and Dangerous Fields; Issues of Safety and Reflective Research; and Social Science Education Training in Ethics or Ethical Training and Ethical Publicizing. This interdisciplinary volume will interest students and researchers in academic and non academic settings in core disciplines of Anthropology, Sociology, Law, Political Science, International Relations, Geography, or interdisciplinary degrees in Development.
