BLUEPRINT PRODUCTION Original drawings are drawn or traced directly on translucent tracing paper or cloth using black waterproof India ink a pencil or computer aided drafting CAD systems The original drawing is a tracing or master copy These copies are rarely if ever sent to a shop or site Instead copies of the tracings are given to persons or offices where needed

Tracings that are properly handled and stored will last indefinitely The term blueprint is used loosely to describe copies of original drawings or tracings One of the first processes developed to duplicate tracings produced white lines on a blue background hence the term blueprint Today however other methods produce prints of different colors The colors may be brown black gray or maroon The differences are in the types of paper and developing processes used A patented paper identified as BW paper produces prints with black lines on a white background The diazo or ammonia process produces prints with either black blue or maroon lines on a white background Another type of duplicating process rarely used to reproduce working drawings is the photostatic process in which a large camera reduces or enlarges a tracing or drawing The photostat has white lines on a dark background Businesses use this process to incorporate reduced size drawings into reports or records The standards and procedures prescribed for military drawings and blueprints are stated in military standards MIL STD and American National Standards Institute ANSI standards The Department of Defense Index of Specifications and Standards lists these standards it is issued on 31 July of each year The following list contains common MIL STD and ANSI standards listed by number and title that concern engineering drawings and blueprints

Demolition Means Progress Andrew R. Highsmith, 2016-12-30 Flint Michigan is widely seen as Detroit's Detroit the perfect embodiment of a ruined industrial economy and a shattered American dream In this deeply researched book Andrew Highsmith gives us the first full scale history of Flint showing that the Vehicle City has always seen demolition as a tool of progress During the 1930s officials hoped to renew the city by remaking its public schools into racially segregated community centers After the war federal officials and developers sought to strengthen the region by building subdivisions in Flint's segregated suburbs while GM executives and municipal officials demolished urban factories and rebuilt them outside the city City leaders later launched a plan to replace black neighborhoods with a freeway and new factories Each of these campaigns Highsmith argues yielded an ever more impoverished city and a more racially divided metropolis By intertwining histories of racial segregation mass suburbanization and industrial decline Highsmith gives us a deeply unsettling look at urban industrial America
