Residential Location Determinants Of The Older Population:

Residential Location Determinants of the Older Population Gundars Ridzitis, Gundars Rudzitis, 1982 Rural Aging in 21st Century America Nina Glasgow, E. Helen Berry, 2012-12-14 This book investigates sociological demographic and geographic aspects of aging in rural and nonmetropolitan areas of the United States Population aging is one of the most important trends of the 20th and 21st centuries and it is occurring worldwide especially in more developed countries such as the United States Population aging is more rapid in rural than urban areas of the U S In 2010 15 percent of the nonmetropolitan compared to 12 percent of the metropolitan population were 65 years of age and older By definition rural communities have smaller sized populations and more limited healthcare transportation and other aging relevant services than do urban areas It is thus especially important to study and understand aging in rural environments Rural Aging in 21st Century America contributes evidence based policy relevant information on rural aging in the U S A primary objective of the book is to improve understanding of what makes the experience of rural aging different from aging in urban areas and to increase understanding of the aged change the nature of rural places The book addresses unique features of rural aging across economic racial ethnic migration and other structures and patterns all with a focus on debunking myths about rural aging and to emphasize opportunities and challenges that rural places and older people experience Wilderness Science in a Time of Change Conference: Wilderness within the context of larger systems, 2000 Proceedings RMRS., 2000

Wilderness Science in a Time of Change Conference, 2000 Patterns of Living and Housing of Middle-aged and Older People, 1966 Rural Development Research Report, 1978 The Politics of Planting Shaul Ephraim Cohen, 1993-06 On the open landscape of Israel and the West Bank where pine and cypress forests grow alongside olive groves tree planting has become symbolic of conflicting claims to the land Palestinians cultivate olive groves as a vital agricultural resource while the Israeli government has made restoration of mixed growth forests a national priority Although both sides plant for a variety of purposes both have used tree planting to assert their presence on and claim to disputed land Shaul Ephraim Cohen has conducted an unprecedented study of planting in the region and the control of land it signifies In The Politics of Planting he provides historical background and examines both the politics behind Israel's afforestation policy its consequences Focusing on the open land surrounding Jerusalem and four Palestinian villages outside the city this study offers a new perspective on the conflict over land use in a region where planting has become a political tool For the valuable data it presents collected from field work previously unpublished documents and interviews and the insight it provides into this political struggle this will be an important book for anyone studying the Israeli Palestinian conflict Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations Leon A Pastalan, 2014-01-09 Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations takes you for an inside look at what policies in Western Europe Canada and the United States have done to meet the housing and service needs of the elderly and the disabled and what policies have yet to accomplish As you learn about a wide range of cost effective and successful housing options such as congregate housing home equity conversions and homesharing you will learn about the challenges of providing responsive high quality housing and living arrangements to meet the needs of different populations As this insightful book reveals the psychosocial needs of elderly and disabled persons have often been neglected in efforts to provide appropriate physical accommodation and services and shelter are seldom coordinated to respond to the changes individuals experience Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations shows you how federal and state provincial governments nonprofit organizations and private groups have all implemented policies to create barrier free housing Yet at the same time most Western countries have not developed comprehensive grant and loan programs to allow the elderly and disabled to modify their homes As this book walks you through the problems that exist it shows you how policymakers architects social work practitioners and academics housing developers and community leaders can work together to improve housing conditions and services Along the way you will learn about the failure of health care systems to cover home modifications the Fair Housing Act Amendment stigmatizing effects of the elderly label in obtaining community accommodation differences between environmental needs of rural and urban seniors current patterns of housing and living arrangements of older Canadians the effects of demographic aging on the urban ecology the Abbeyfield model of congregate housing continuing care retirement communities aging in place Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations looks at the strengths and weaknesses of different approaches to housing and service provision to help housing policy specialists gerontologists social workers community leaders architects and housing developers find stronger more effective solutions for giving people the home environments they need Don't continue to supply inadequate housing to people with special needs Let this book inform you guide you and contribute to the shaping of important new housing and service policies

Deforestation in the Postwar Philippines David M. Kummer, 1992-06 The only quantitative deforestation study to focus on one country this case analysis of the Philippines since 1946 yields more concrete data than previous cross national studies David Kummer's close examination of the interactions among political economic and cultural factors and their environmental consequences sheds light on similar situations in other countries

After a California Earthquake Risa Palm, Michael E. Hodgson, 1992-04-15 Shortly before the Loma Prieta earthquake devastated areas of Northern California in 1989 Risa Palm and her associates had surveyed 2 500 homeowners in the area about their perception of risk from earthquakes After the quake they surveyed the homeowners again and found that their perception of risk had increased but that most respondents were fatalistic and continued to ignore self protective measures those who personally experienced damage were more likely to buy insurance A rare opportunity to analyze behavior change directly before and after a natural disaster this survey has implications for policy makers insurance officials and those concerned with risk management

Location and Environment of Elderly Population Stephen M. Golant, 1979 Economic and Social Factors Affecting the Health of Older Adults Colette Joy Browning, Katherine Henrietta Leith, Shane Andrew Thomas, 2023-12-11 In 2020 over 1 billion of the world's population were over the age of 60 years old and it is expected to double by 2050 according to WHO. Due to the growing population of older adults, there is a focus on healthy aging that will benefit the individuals and the wider communities as older adults will be able to support family members and partake in paid or voluntary work for a longer period of time. Currently, a large number of older adults are unable to work, increasing the likelihood of economic instability with fewer streams of income. Economic instability has been proven to have health impacts including declining mental wellbeing, malnutrition, and the inability to afford prescribed medications. Social isolation proves to be another important factor in the overall health of older adults. The CDC reports that poor social interactions have been linked to a higher risk of developing multiple serious medical conditions.

Social Determinants of Health for the Global Aging Population in Pandemic and Disaster Environments

Lené Levy-Storms, Mary Beth Morrissey, Marcia G. Ory, Camille Castelyn, Soohyoung Rain Lee, 2025-02-18. From a biopsychosocial perspective, physical and to a lesser extent mental health have been a priority for researchers, policymakers, and healthcare providers relative to social health. The hegemony of physical health weakened during the COVID pandemic as mental and social health also emerged as equally important and at risk at the same time. Not since the 1960s has society attended to the social vulnerabilities of older adults, particularly in institutional settings. For the first time, the urgency of providing care for older adults has transcended physical settings as frontline workers in hospitals, prisons, schools, and other community-based settings, as well as families in their own homes, also emerged as vulnerable. The institutional care workforce faces an ongoing crisis at the same time some countries have restricted migration, posing a threat to in-home and community-based long-term care. COVID has forced healthcare policymakers to prioritize both acute and long-term health issues simultaneously as society tries to regain full functionality. COVID and future natural and unnatural disasters associated with climate change threats to democracy, discrimination against societal groups based on age, gender, race, ethnicity, religion, and income status, promise to challenge us all to acknowledge and act such that our well-being is everybody's well-being across the life course. We are all aging, and how different age groups fare affects how other age groups fare.

Research Awards Index, 1984. Spatial Planning, Urban Form and Sustainable Transport. Katie Williams, 2017-03-02. The ways in which we travel have a huge impact on sustainability. This book addresses the relationship between travel patterns and the physical form of cities and considers the role of spatial planning in that relationship. Three sections present empirical research and commentaries from leading academics and practitioners from Europe, the USA, Australia, and Japan. The first section considers the impact of urban form in combination with factors such as lifestyles and socio-demographic change on sustainable transport. The second addresses the impact of different elements of urban form, such as density, configuration, and mix of uses, on mobility. The final section focuses on issues surrounding the implementation of spatial planning policies to support sustainable travel. The book will be of interest to practitioners, academics, and students in the fields of planning, transport, and geography.

Older People: Improving Health and Social Care. Bea L. Dijkman, Irma

Mikkonen, Petrie F. Roodbol, 2018-11-11 This contributed volume is based on the European Core Competences Framework for health and social care professionals working with older people ECCF developed and verified in a unique international cooperation between 26 universities and universities of applied sciences in 25 European countries part of the European Later Life Active Network ELLAN In addition to the framework the book outlines the necessary qualifications and describes the roles of professionals working with older people in health and social services It explores healthy ageing for older people from different perspectives and describes the seven roles of health and social care professionals Expert Communicator Collaborator Organizer Health and Welfare Advocate Scholar and Professional before going on to define 18 related competences and elaborating them in performance indicators Beyond the ECCF the book explains the widely used CanMED role model and puts forward theories to support a client centered and integrated approach on health and social care in order to change attitudes toward older clients and offer better care and support It also provides health and social care professionals for example nurses allied health professionals and social workers with new contextual information and cultural awareness It gives a voice to students by addressing selected perspectives for professional development The book includes questions for reflective learning helping to make the book a vital practical instrument for use in the educational context throughout Europe Europe's ageing populations represent a major challenge for both public health and social care systems 18% of the population is 65 years old and over and this proportion will increase in the coming years As a result more and more health and social care professionals will work with older people in different settings at home in the community in hospitals or in long term care settings Older people and especially the frail face a host of interrelated issues e.g cognitive restrictions functional restrictions psychosocial problems multimorbidity polypharmacy and social isolation These problems call for an integrated approach to health and social care which this book supplies It is intended for health and social care professionals students and educators for a better understanding of Europe's ageing society and of the impact on care and services Furthermore the ECCF offers educational institutes a unique resource for curriculum development education training and assessment
