Implementing Restorative Justice in Children's Residential Care Dennis Gough,Carol Hayden,2010 With the growth in the use of restorative justice and restorative approaches this book takes an in depth look at their applicability in the environment of children s residential care homes

Challenging the Conventional Wisdom about Residential Care for Children and Youth Bruce B. Henderson,2023-12-01 Is residential care inherently harmful This book argues that this conventional wisdom is wrong and is itself harmful to a significant number of children and youth The presumptive view is based largely on overgeneralizations from research with infants and very young children raised in extremely deprived environments A careful analysis of the available research supports the use of high quality residential care as a treatment of choice with certain groups of needy children and youth not a last resort intervention The nature of high quality care is explored through child development theory and research and two empirically supported models of care are described in detail It will be of interest to all scholars and students of child development child welfare youth work social work and education as well as professionals working within these fields

Continuing Care Renewal or Retreat? BC Residential and Home Health Restructuring 2001-2004 ,2005 It reviews the actual changes in the number of beds and services available to seniors and people with disabilities using sources from the Ministry of Health the Canadian Institute for Health Information other provinces and the regional health authorities themselves The commission argued that by shifting resources from institutional and acute care to the community and by focusing on health promotion and early intervention strategies individual health status could be improved and health care costs controlled 2 The reality of the closer to home strategy has not however always kept pace with the government s rhetoric and the funding has rarely followed the The first section examines the overall context in which the restructuring of residential and home health care services is occurring that is the reduction in the availability of acute care beds and changes in population demographics Access to available long term care beds is lower than the provincial average when measured relative to population and access to available home support From 2001 to December 2004 and home care is the lowest in the province 15 there was a net closure of 26 Similarly the undersupply of residential care and assisted living units residential care facilities in the Capital Regional District i e However the provincial government s decision to promote the substitution of assisted living beds for residential care beds was based on another assumption that the costs of assisted living to the health authorities would be about half as much as Although the discussion is residential care 20 In The Picture of Health 2002 the provincial government framed in terms of the benefits states that its

Rethinking Residential Child Care Mark Smith,2009-02-25 The book provides a broad and critical look at policy and practice in residential child care and the ideas that have shaped the development of the sector Geriatric Residential Care Robert D. Hill, Brian L. Thorn, John Bowling, Anthony Morrison, 2013-06-17 This book's main goal is to examine the concept of residential care from a psychological perspective. The chapter authors espouse a psychological approach to long term residential care and an effort is made throughout the text to present a model of care that encompasses the whole individual. Since psychologists are being increasingly asked to provide consultation to long term residential care facilities, the need for psychologically based care models has become apparent. This text offers assistance in developing and maintaining residential care environments that maximize quality of life and personal well being in the presence of declining physical and emotional resources that are associated with the vicissitudes of living into advanced aging. Geriatric Residential Care is divided into four parts. Part I addresses psychological and social issues facing the frail elderly who are candidates for or are living in residential care settings. Part II addresses issues in the assessment of individuals in residential care. Part III highlights the design and execution of intervention strategies in residential care. Part IV addresses how organizational aspects of residential care contexts can optimize the quality and meaningfulness of care. Residential Child Care Andrew Kendrick, 2008 Draws on recent research to address key issues in residential child care policy and practice in the UK offering guidance for developing best practice and improved outcomes for children and young people. Assisted Living Sheryl Zimmerman, Philip D. Sloane, J. Kevin Eckert, 2001-11-30 This text examines the evolving field of residential care and focuses on national issues of regulation, reimbursement and staffing. The book describes assisted living facilities, those living in them, their needs and how services vary. Residential Care Services for the Elderly Doris K Williams, 2012-10-12 As the elderly population continues to increase, the need for suitable housing will continue to rise as well. This handbook is designed to help individuals and families determine the feasibility of starting a small home business providing residential home services for one or more elderly persons. Persons interested in starting a business of this type will find this unique book a goldmine of important information. Residential Care Services for the Elderly is a valuable decision making tool which helps readers determine if this type of business venture is appropriate and if so, how to start and maintain a residential care service for the elderly. Thorough coverage of background and implementation details provides potential operators with a rationale and necessary information. Numerous self assessment and resource inventories in this practical handbook will guide readers in determining their areas of interests and competencies. Opportunities for networking among state licensing standards agencies, funding agencies and a listing of elder care organizations and advocacy groups adds value to this time saving resource, ensuring a quicker and more likely success. Case studies, detailed guides and the discussion of positive and negative aspects of being the owner of a small residential care business based on interviews with people currently running elder care residential services are also included. All aspects of business operations are covered in Residential Care Services for the Elderly including sources of funding and potential incomes, emotional and financial cost/benefit factors, parameters of organizing the business including personnel.

Children, Schools and Families Committee, 2009 The Care Matters White Paper Cm 7137 2007 ISBN 9780101713726 and the resultant Children and Young Persons Act 2008 ISBN 9780105423089 showed the priority the Government has put on improving outcomes for looked after children But the Committee cautions that success will not flow automatically from new legislation or guidance Previous programmes of substantial reform and investment have left outcomes for looked after children still lagging unacceptably far behind those for other children Inconsistency in practice and underperformance against current standards show that there are significant underlying challenges to implementation of the new raft of measures The report examines the crucial elements of relationships stable reliable bonds with key individuals are fundamental to children's security and development placements are in short supply and local authorities need more support to increase availability the performance framework the quality of decision making of relationships and of children's experiences of care Three themes run through the Committee's conclusions First is the importance of a well trained fairly paid well supported workforce in delivering the care Secondly is how local authorities can come to approximate more closely the care of birth parents Thirdly there is the voice of the child and more independent support is needed for children to express their views The care system should not be seen as a sanction against failing parents nor blight children's future prospects Care must be an integral part of a continuum of effective family support services for families under stress and not functioning well Parents should expect that children in care will have stability and personalised attention rather than a life ruled by uncertainty and bureaucracy and will have access to all the health and therapeutic care that they need to enjoy life and develop into independent adults Children and

Residential Care in Europe Nicola Madge, 1994-05-01 What lessons can be learned from the different ways in which residential care is organised throughout Europe Which countries services meet children's needs most effectively Originally published in 1994 this ebook looks broadly at children and child care services especially residential child care in 13 European Union countries to give an overview of national similarities and differences and identify key areas of change development and concern The European Children's Centre survey on which this report was based was commissioned by The Warner Inquiry into the selection development and management of staff in children's homes Established in the United Kingdom in response to a number of widely publicised scandals in residential care the Inquiry recognised the value of looking to other European countries in order to learn from their successes and failures Small Board-and-care Homes Leslie A. Morgan, J. Kevin Eckert, Stephanie M. Lyon, 1995 Small board and care homes have existed informally for many years as alternative settings for long term care Typical residents have been discharged from another facility with some physical or mental impairment Most are women over the age of 75 with minimal financial or social resources While these homes are often viewed negatively as warehouses for the ill and under privileged they are now growing in numbers and receiving increased attention for their ability to provide a loving environment and customised care at a modest cost
