

Respiration in Aquatic Organisms

The evolution of larger, more complicated aquatic organisms capable of high metabolic rates required additional solutions to those already mentioned

- Many of these organisms employ specialized respiratory structures called gills.
 - Gills are basically areas of the body modified for gas exchange by virtue of being either highly evaginated or highly invaginated.
 - The large surface area allows for rapid gas exchange
- the problem that remains is getting that O_2 to the tissues that need it.
- For this, many organisms have evolved circulatory systems
 - pump an internal fluid through the gills to obtain O_2
 - then transport the O_2 to metabolizing tissue.
 - Often pigments, probably derived from pigments used in the electron transport chain, are used to carry the O_2 in the circulatory fluid, or blood.
