Responding To Men In Crisis:

Responding to Men in Crisis Brian Taylor, 2004-08-02 Responding to Men in Crisis is based on new research looking at gendered assumptions about rationality and men's mental health. It looks at postmodern theory in relation to masculinities and madness and discusses key contemporary debates in political uses of risk, dangerousness and so on. The author relates this to a discussion of current policy and practice responses to men within the mental health system. It offers the reader a theoretical exploration of a topically and politically sensitive issue and is relevant to service user involvement and survivor movements, making it essential reading for academics and students of sociology and allied disciplines. Engaging East Timorese Men in the Process of Establishing Gender Equality Melanie Lotfali, 2013-09-18 ABSTRACT The equality of women and men is a prerequisite for peace. Social development interventions over recent decades have sought to achieve equality primarily by educating and liberating women from the shackles of customs and paradigms that serve to maintain gender inequality. It is increasingly recognized that due attention must be given to men's essential role in the process to men's education and liberation. In East Timor the latter process has begun albeit on a small scale. This study looks at ways to further advance this process. Three and a half years in East Timor provided the opportunity to engage in applied research using the methodology of ethnography. I gathered data using three main techniques: semi-structured interviews with more gender equitable men and with women and men occupied with the engagement of East Timorese men in gender equality observation and direct participation within a wide range of settings from informal encounters on local beaches to high level meetings with the president and government ministers and analysis of pertinent primary and secondary documents. I identified that a number of interventions are being applied to the issue of engaging East Timorese men in gender equality including use of workshops and trainings, the performing arts, campaigns and the mass media, role modeling and the techniques of popular education with varying levels of success. I found that the Association of Men Against Violence and its members are key players in the advancement of this process and that they work closely with feminist organizations within East Timor. While I drew on much secular theory and practice in the course of this study, my personal beliefs and practices are guided by the teachings of the Baha'i Faith. The Baha'i teachings include much that is relevant to this study and thus I have drawn on and presented Baha'i perspectives and approaches to such things as equality and men's role in its establishment, social and economic development and the culture of contest and have drawn on Baha'i principles in the discussion of results and subsequently in drawing my conclusions. By exploring the implications of interventions implemented in other parts of the world and of theory pertaining to social development, masculinities and a culture of contest, I identified that interventions in East Timor to engage men in gender equality would be strengthened by giving due consideration to the following: developing participants' ability to communicate, providing opportunity for and developing the capacity of participants to critically reflect on their environment, addressing participants as whole human beings and members of one human race and actively engaging participants in the development and ownership of knowledge I concluded that three areas requiring immediate attention include the development of evaluation tools and processes and the systematic documentation and sharing of learning as well as research into masculinities in an East Timorese context

Messages Men Hear Ian M. Harris, 2004-08-02 Why do men behave the way they do The science of gender studies is less than 25 years old and it is only recently that scholars and popular authors interested in gender have started to examine the issues associated with masculinity This text is based on over 10 years research and constructs a comprehensive theory of masculinity by exploring in great detail how men form their gender identities and how those identities influence their behaviour The book examines the influence of 24 male messages or gender norms such as be like your father faithful husband superman and nurturer that represent cultural expectations for masculinity in western societies Drawing on a diverse sample of over 500 men from different classes backgrounds races and ethnic groups the author describes how men learn these messages how individual men respond to them and how their influence changes over the course of a man s life This accessible text presents a general framework for masculinity and breaks new ground in understanding the construction of male gender identity

Politics of Masculinities Michael A. Messner, 1997-09-06 The profound changes wrought by the feminist movement were by no means restricted to women In the years since feminism has taken root the role of men and masculinity has begun to undergo its own redefinition Michael A. Messner provides a sociological framework to understand the responses of men to the changes challenges and crises in the social organization of gender By examining not only what certain groups of men say about gender but what they do Messner helps to illuminate the various social movements engaged with the politics of masculinity Politics of Masculinities is one of the first books in the new Gender Lens series which will look at the social world through the lens of gender The mission of the series is to unpack the assumptions about gender that pervade social life and to examine the centrality of these assumptions to the way we perceive and interpret our world Politics of Masculinities is an ideal introduction to the discussion of gender roles and masculinity This book will be of interest to students and professionals involved in gender studies sociology and mens studies
