Negative Strand RNA Virus Ming Luo, 2011 Negative strand RNA viruses have a unique mechanism of replication. Their genome is a single strand RNA that has to be transcribed as soon as the virus enters the host in order to carry out viral replication. As a result, a viral specific RNA polymerase is packaged in the virion and is ready for transcription after virus entry. This novel replication mechanism dictates the assembly and RNA synthesis of negative strand RNA viruses. In recent years, many discoveries have been made with regard to the entry, replication, and assembly of this class of viruses. This book will present updated coverage of the fundamental knowledge about negative strand RNA viruses.

Convergence and divergence in Ibero-Romance across contact situations and beyond Miriam Bouzouita, Renata Enghels, Clara Vanderschueren, 2021-10-25 This book aims to provide a better understanding of convergence and non convergence phenomena such as divergence from different theoretical perspectives. It brings together nine case studies that deal with contact between languages found in the Iberian Peninsula: Castilian, Catalan, Portuguese, and Basque between Spanish or Portuguese and another language such as English, and between different varieties from Europe and other continents. The volume thus unites views from two fields that rarely interact: contact linguistics and dialectology. It discusses the mechanisms and consequences of language contact within the Ibero-Romance world, a geographical space characterised by a high rate of multilingual speakers and settings. The contributions deal with various combinations of convergence and divergence, for example between different varieties of the same language, language stability despite contact.

as well as less studied aspects such as the relation between language contact and second language acquisition the linguistic landscape perspective of language contact and divergence in linguistic identity construction Physical and Chemical Aspects of Combustion F Dryer,R Sawyer,1997-08-20 This book contains a collection of papers prepared by leading experts on selected areas of particular importance to researchers in combustion science The editors have gathered writings on fundamental physical and chemical aspects of combustion including combustion chemistry soot formation and condensed phase and turbulent combustion intended to be a source of current understanding on the topics covered The materials were originally presented as part of a Colloquium on Combustion held in honor of Professor Irvin Glassman Research in Progress ,1992 Research in Progress United States.
