Results that Matter Paul D. Epstein, Paul M. Coates, Lyle D. Wray, David Swain, 2006-02-10 Today s communities whether they are currently strong or struggling to survive face difficult challenges if they want to be tomorrow s healthy vibrant communities The challenge for leaders and citizens of modern communities is not just to solve specific problems today Their real challenge is to keep learning from their experience so they can keep improving their communities tomorrow Results That Matter will provide a new governance framework for using valuable tools of community improvement especially performance measurement and citizen engagement to empower communities to achieve the outcomes their citizens most desire Government and nonprofit managers will learn how to combine these tools in new ways not only to achieve one time improvement of their organizations and communities but to foster continual community renewal and improvement The benefits and practicality of the framework and related practices will be reinforced by case examples from 25 communities across the country The book will offer how to guidance to public and nonprofit managers including promising practices for effective communities and new roles for citizens community leaders and managers Joyce in the Belly of the Big Truck;

Workbook Joyce A. Cascio, 2005-05 Urban Politics Myron Levine, 2015-02-20 This popular text mixes classic theory and research on urban politics with the most recent developments and data in urban and metropolitan affairs Its balanced and realistic approach helps students understand the nature of urban politics and the difficulty of finding effective solutions in a suburban and global age The ninth edition has been thoroughly rewritten and updated with a continued focus on economic development and race plus renewed attention to globalization gentrification and changing demographics Boxed case studies of prominent recent and current urban development efforts provide material for class discussion and concluding material demonstrates the tradeoff between more ideal and more pragmatic urban politics Key changes in this edition include Every chapter has been thoroughly updated and rewritten The Ninth Edition reflects the most current census data and the newest trends in such areas as the new immigration suburbanization gentrification and big city revivals There is coverage of the big city pension crisis and politics in Stockton Detroit and other cities facing possible bankruptcy A brand new opening chapter introduces the concepts of the Global City the Entertainment City and the Bankrupt City New photos and boxes appear throughout the book Increased coverage of policies for sustainable urban development The Age of Direct Citizen Participation Nancy C. Roberts, 2015-01-28 Citizen involvement is considered the cornerstone of democratic theory and practice. Citizens today have the knowledge and ability to participate more fully in the political, technical, and administrative decisions that affect them. On the other hand, direct citizen participation is often viewed with skepticism even wariness. Many argue that citizens do not have the time, preparation, or interest to be directly involved in public affairs and suggest instead that representative democracy or indirect citizen participation is the most effective form of government. Some of the very best writings on this key topic, which is at the root of the entire reinventing government movement, can be found in the journals that ASPA publishes or sponsors. In this collection, Nancy Roberts has brought together the emerging classics on the ongoing debate over citizen involvement. Her detailed introductory essay and section openers frame the key issues, provide historical context, and fill in any gaps not directly covered by the articles. More than just an anthology, The Age of Direct Citizen Participation provides a unique and useful framework for understanding this important subject. It is an ideal resource for any Public Administration course involving citizen engagement and performance management. Collaborative Governance for Local Economic Development Denita Cepiku, So Hee Jeon, David K. Jesuit, 2019-10-31 Although collaborations for local and regional economic development have been popular in recent years, it is not yet wholly clear when or how such efforts bring successful outcomes. Using an integrative conceptual framework for collaborative governance, this innovative collection provides a systematic and interdisciplinary analysis of real-world collaborative networks for local and regional economic development. Focusing on a wide range of collaborative economic development in diverse cities and regions in USA, Canada, Germany, India, Italy, and South Korea, the chapters explore what forces motivate the emergence of collaborative economic development efforts. Each chapter explores the factors which contribute to or hinder collaborative governance efforts for economic development and identifies lessons for overcoming challenges to creating communities that are economically resilient, environmentally sustainable, and politically engaged in the era of globalization. By focusing on collaborative governance and its implications for the ability of policies to meet the challenges of the 21st century, it provides lessons for researchers in public management, urban planning, development, public policy, and political science, as well as practitioners interested in promoting local economic development.

S. 88, the Local Empowerment and Flexibility Act of 1995 United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Governmental Affairs, 1996 State of Empowerment Carolyn Barnes, 2020-02-21 On weekday afternoons, dismissal bells signal not just the end of the school day but also the beginning of another important activity: the federally funded after-school programs that offer tutoring, homework help, and basic supervision to millions of American children. Nearly one in four low-income families enroll a child in an after-school program. Beyond sharpening students' math and reading skills, these programs also have a profound impact on parents. In a surprising turn, especially given the long history of social policies that leave recipients feeling policed, distrusted, and alienated, government-funded after-school programs have quietly become powerful forces for political and civic engagement by shifting power away from bureaucrats and putting it back into the hands of parents In State of Empowerment Carolyn Barnes uses ethnographic accounts of three organizations to reveal how interacting with government funded after school programs can enhance the civic and political lives of low income citizens Journal of the Senate of the United States of America United States.
