idea that political disagreement is so pervasive because of its value ladenness that key political concepts are essentially contested that those who occupy very different political positions fail to understand each other He argues that we need to develop a framework which borrows elements from both schools of thought presupposing some form of moral cognitivism while recognizing that many political disputes cannot be resolved to the satisfaction of every reasonable person Within such a framework he shows how empirical models can be constructed which give an active role not only to the agent's reasons for his or her beliefs but also to other psychological and sociological considerations
