Rights to Nature Susan Hanna, Carl Folke, Karl-Göran Mäler, 1996-09 Understanding how rights to resources are assigned and how they are controlled is critical to designing and implementing effective strategies for environmental management and conservation This book is a nontechnical interdisciplinary introduction to the systems of rights rules and responsibilities that guide and control human use of the environment Environmental Human Rights Jan Hancock, 2019-07-12 This title was first published in 2003 Environmental Human Rights redefines the political ethical and legal relationships between the environment and human rights to claim the human rights to an environment free from toxic pollution and to natural resources Through a focus on the operational dynamics of social power this compelling book details how global capitalism subjugates concerns of human security and environmental protection to the values of allocative efficiency and economic growth The capacity of social power to construct ethical norms and to determine the efficacy of law is examined to explain how ethical and legal concepts have been selectively applied to accommodate existing patterns of production consumption and exchange that cause environmental degradation and human rights violations By looking at how environmental values have been systematically excluded from the human rights discourse the book claims that human rights politics and law has been constructed on double standards to accommodate the destructive forces of capitalism

Environmental Adaptation and Eco-cultural Habitats Johannes Schubert, 2015-10-23 In this challenging and highly original book the author tackles the dynamic relationships between physical nature and societies over time. It is argued that within each eco cultural habitat the relationship between physical nature and society is mediated by specific entanglements between technologies, institutions and cultural values. These habitat specific entanglements are neither ecologically nor culturally predetermined but result from mutual adaptation based on variation, trial and error and selection. It is shown how a variety of eco cultural habitats evolves from this coevolutionary process. The book explores how these varieties come into being and how their specific characteristics affect the capacity to cope with environmental or social problems such as flooding or unemployment. There are two case studies illustrating the potential of a coevolutionary understanding of the society nature nexus. In the first rural and urban settlement structures are conceptualized as distinct paths of eco cultural adaptation. It is shown that each of these paths is characterized by predictable spatial correspondences between dwelling technologies, modes of social reproduction, cultural preferences and related patterns in energy consumption, i.e. social metabolism. The second case study deals with flood protection in liberal and coordinated eco welfare and production regimes drawing on lessons from the Netherlands and Hurricane Katrina in New Orleans. As a contribution to theory in environmental sociology the coevolutionary perspective developed provides deeper insights into the intricate interplay between physical and social nature. Environmental Health Perspectives, 1993 Property Law and Economics Boudewijn

Bouckaert, 2010-01-01 This book contains illuminating and carefully written literature reviews on the central topics of the economics of property rights and institutions. As a bonus it includes two fascinating chapters on topics off the beaten path: slavery and new types of property rights in environmental goods. This book will be indispensable for students and experienced scholars alike. Eric Posner, University of Chicago Law School, US. This study covers property law and property rights providing a full summary and comprehensive bibliography of the existing law together with discussion from an economic perspective on the most important aspects of property law. Leading experts have brought together their knowledge and insight on a full range of issues including comparative property law and the history of property law to create a truly autonomous interdisciplinary resource. This essential reference work will strongly appeal to scholars and students enrolled in academic programmes of law and economics. Academic lawyers involved in research and teaching of private common law, practicing lawyers in the field of real estate law as well as economists involved in researching development economics and transition economics will also find this an invaluable resource. Elinor Ostrom and the Bloomington School of Political Economy Daniel H. Cole, Michael D. McGinnis, 2015-09-04 In addition to winning the 2009 Nobel Prize in Economic Sciences for her path breaking research on economic governance especially the commons Elinor Ostrom also made important contributions to other fields of political economy and public policy This four volume compendium of papers written by Lin often with coauthors most notably her husband Vincent along with papers by others expanding on her work brings together the strands of her entire empirical analytical theoretical and methodological research program Together with Vincent s important theoretical contributions they defined a distinctive Bloomington School of political economic thought Volume 2 examines Lin s work on the commons in which she demonstrated that in many cases local resource users can solve collective action problems through common property management regimes It comprises papers including some that are not well known related to and building on the findings of Governing the Commons 1990 Part I focuses on key attributes of biophysical resources and the institutions human communities have designed to govern them Part II shows how in various social and ecological circumstances different sets of institutions facilitate or impede the long run sustainability of resources Part III highlights Ostrom s first major research project on water resources in Southern California It was a topic she and her students returned to with the specific intention of gathering data more than 50 years worth for longitudinal analyses of combined institutional and ecological change In sum this volume contextualizes what is at present thought to be Lin s greatest legacy to social science the conditions under which resources can be sustainably managed over very long periods of time by the collective action of ordinary people beyond markets and states
