Co-operative Culture and the Politics of Consumption in England, 1870-1930 Peter Gurney, 1996 This innovative research-based book presents a positive critique of the co-operative alternative to emerging capitalist forms of mass consumption in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. This alternative was embedded in the culture of the movement and Peter Gurney provides a full analysis of that culture, its strategy and ambition, social and educational forms, internationalism, and historical consciousness.

"Imperialists in Broken Boots" Julie Cairnie, 2020-06-01 This book examines writing which is concerned with the period of the poor white problem and the poor white solution, 1870s-1940s in Southern Africa. It argues that poor white is not a narrow economic category but describes those who threaten to collapse boundaries: racial, sexual, and class boundaries. It studies four writers who migrate between Britain and Southern Africa who engage with the problem and the solution and who foreground ambiguity in their ambiguously genred texts. Olive Schreiner and Doris Leasing highlight the problem as they embrace the threat posed by poor whites, while Robert Tressell and Daphne Anderson foreground the solution as they argue for the incorporation of the poor into imperial myths about white homogeneity and upward mobility. Based on an historical approach, this book explores three premises. The first premise is that poor white is a liminal category that it encompasses economic failures and social transgressors. The second premise is that Southern African life writing engages with its historical and political moment. The third premise is that philanthropy is central to the articulation of the problem and the solution. The final concluding chapter reflects upon the re-emergence of poor whiteism since the end of Apartheid and the collapse of Zimbabwe and reflects upon the problem of black poverty.

Narratives of Injury Rosalyn Buckland, 2024-11-29 Narratives of Injury redescribes the history of injury from the perspective of those most at risk rather than medical professionals and other outsiders. Refocusing on the first-hand perspectives found in literary texts and journalistic accounts, it uncovers a self-conscious tradition of mining stories running through nineteenth-century writing. The book examines both non-canonical authors and famous novelists including Charles Dickens, Joseph Skipsey, G. A. Henty, E. H. Burnett, George Eliot, Edward Tireswell, H. G. Wells, and D. H. Lawrence. Their narratives revise our understanding both of injury and of the radical potential of fiction. Sudden physical injuries have often been configured as fundamentally unknowable by the victims themselves, particularly in studies of nineteenth-century literature and culture. Likewise, narratives of psychological trauma have been largely understood in Cathy Caruth's words as the attempt to master what was never fully grasped in the first place. Such readings privilege the reader as a necessary interpreter of physical or psychological injury. By contrast, Narratives of Injury reasserts the significance of patients' own experiences, choices, and actions.

The Busiest Man in England P. Morton, 2005-04-15 This book is a critical biography of Grant Allen, 1848-1899, the first for a century based on all the surviving primary sources Born in Kingston Ontario into a cultured and affluent family Allen was educated in France and England A mysterious marriage while he was an Oxford undergraduate wrecked his academic career and radicalized his views on sexual and marital questions as did a three year teaching stint in Jamaica Despite his lifelong ill health and short life Allen was a writer of extraordinary productivity and range About half more than 30 books and many hundreds of articles reflects interests which ran from Darwinian biology to cultural travel guides His prosperity however was underpinned by fiction more than 30 novels including The Woman Who Did which has attracted much recent attention from feminist critics and historians The Better End of Grub Street uses Allen s career to examine the role and status of the freelance author journalist in the late Victorian period Allen s career delineates what it took to succeed in this notoriously tough profession

Joseph Conrad D C R A Goonetilleke, 1990-11-19 Class Fictions Pamela Fox, 1994-11-21 Many recent discussions of working class culture in literary and cultural studies have tended to present an oversimplified view of resistance In this groundbreaking work Pamela Fox offers a far more complex theory of working class identity particularly as reflected in British novels of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Through the concept of class shame she produces a model of working class subjectivity that understands resistance in a more accurate and useful way as a complicated kind of refusal directed at both dominated and dominant culture With a focus on certain classics in the working class literary canon such as The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists and Love on the Dole as well as lesser known texts by working class women Fox uncovers the anxieties that underlie representations of class and consciousness Shame repeatedly emerges as a powerful counterforce in these works continually unsettling the surface narrative of protest to reveal an ambivalent relation toward the working class identities the novels apparently champion Class Fictions offers an equally rigorous analysis of cultural studies itself which has historically sought to defend and value the radical difference of working class culture Fox also brings to her analysis a strong feminist perspective that devotes considerable attention to the often overlooked role of gender in working class fiction She demonstrates that working class novels not only expose master narratives of middle class culture that must be resisted but that they also reveal to us a need to create counter narratives or formulas of working class life In doing so this book provides a more subtle sense of the role of resistance in working class culture While of interest to scholars of Victorian and working class fiction Pamela Fox's argument has far reaching implications for the way literary and cultural studies will be defined and practiced Making socialists Jane Martin, 2018-04-30 Making Socialists combines a biographical study of a nowadays virtually unknown woman with an original exploration of several major themes in late nineteenth and early twentieth century political and educational history More than a local politician Mary Bridges Adams was among the dynamic late nineteenth century women activists who sought to transform government policy through socialist initiatives with the ultimate utopian aim of creating a social nation The author has assembled a thorough range of sources including new materials that will bring fresh insights to this biography and more generally to Labour Party and socialist historiography well studied topics The people Adams knew and the circles in which she travelled are particularly attractive features of this book Foes thought her an awful woman friends like George Bernard Shaw remembered the power of her oratory Placed against the circumstances in which she lived and presented as part of a militant and anti capitalist tradition within labour history her life story contributes to new ways of seeing both socialist and feminist politics Locating Classed Subjectivities Simon Lee,2022-05-30 Locating Classed Subjectivities explores representations of social class in British fiction through the lens of spatial theory and analysis By analyzing a range of class conscious texts from the nineteenth twentieth and twenty first centuries the collection provides an overview of the way British writers mobilized spatial aesthetics as a means to comment on the intricacies of social class In doing so the collection delineates aesthetic strategies of representation in British writing tracing the development of literary forms while considering how authors mobilized innovative spatial metaphors to better express contingent social and economic realities Ranging in coverage from early nineteenth century narratives of disease to contemporary writing on the working class millennial Locating Classed Subjectivities offers new perspectives on literary techniques and political intentions exploring the way class is parsed and critiqued through British writing across three centuries As such the project responds to Nigel Thrift and Peter Williams s claim that literary and cultural production serves as a particularly rich yet unexamined access point by which to comprehend the way space and social class intersect
