Lure Of The Labrador Wild The Classic Story Of Leonidas Hubbard:

The Lure of the Labrador Wild Dillon Wallace, 1905 Dillon Wallace 1863 1939 was an American lawyer outdoorsman author of non fiction fiction and magazine articles His first book The Lure of the Labrador Wild 1905 was a best seller as were many of his later books In 1900 Dillon Wallace met Leonidas Hubbard an assistant editor with Outing magazine 1 Hubbard asked Wallace to join him on an exploratory trip through Labrador the plan was to follow the Naskaupi River to Lake Michikamau a region that had yet to be explored by Europeans They departed in July 1903 but took the wrong river from the very start following the much smaller and more difficult Susan River Short on supplies with winter coming on Hubbard became ill and died of starvation Wallace made it back alive Wikiped June 2014 The Lure of the Labrador Wild Dillon Wallace, 2014-11-05 were to be draped upon the tablet when erected and left with it in the wilderness Our plan was to ascend and explore the lower Beaver River to the point where Hubbard discovered it and where in 1903 we abandoned our canoe to re cross to the Susan River Valley a few days before his death Here it was our expectation to follow the old Hubbard portage trail to Goose Creek and thence down Goose Creek to the Susan River Of our journey up the Beaver River suffice it to say that we met with many adventures but proceeded without serious accident until one day our canoe was submerged in heavy rapids the lashings gave way and to our consternation the precious tablet together with the flag and pennant was lost in the flood After two days vain effort to recover the tablet and flags we continued on the river until at length further ascent seemed unpractical From this point with packs on our backs we made a difficult foot journey of several days to the Susan River valley I shall not attempt to describe my feelings when at last we came into the valley where Hubbard died and where we had suffered so much Man changes with the fleeting years and a civilized world changes but the untrod wilderness never changes Before us lay the same rushing river I remembered so well the same starved forest of spruce with its pungent odor and there was the clump of spruce trees in which our last camp was pitched just as I had seen it last Malone and Blake remained by the river bank while I approached alone what to me was sacred ground Time fell away and I believe that I expected when I stepped beside the boulder before which his tent was pitched when we said our last farewell on that dismal October morning ten years ago to hear Hubbard s voice welcome me as of The Lure of the Labrador Wild Dillon Wallace, 2016-05-07 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work As a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important

How would you like to go to Labrador Wallace It was a snowy night in late November 1901 that my friend Leonidas Hubbard Jr asked me this question All day he and I had been tramping through the snow among the Shawangunk Mountains in southern New York and when the shades of evening fell we had built a lean to of boughs to shelter us from the storm Now that we had eaten our supper of bread and bacon washed down with tea we lay before our roaring campfire luxuriating in its glow and warmth Hubbard s question was put to me so abruptly that it rather startled me Labrador I exclaimed Now where in the world is Labrador

Paddling the Boreal Forest Max Finkelstein, James Stone, 2004-11-29 The boreal forest of Quebec Labrador some of the most rugged and isolated land in Canada has captivated avid canoeists for generations In the latter 19th and early 20th centuries the intrepid A P Low of the Geological Survey of Canada spent in total more than ten years of his working life surveying the area Employing Aboriginal canoemen and guides he travelled by canoe snowshoe and sailing vessel to map and document much of this vast territory Challenged by the mystique of this extraordinary Canadian canoeists Max Finkelstein and James Stone retraced Low s routes by their admission their toughest canoe trip ever Using archival sources oral history and personal experience they tell the story of A P Low and in the process reveal the environmental issues now facing this much threatened Canadian wilderness Once again Max Finkelstein has blessed us with his incredible ability to make history of exploration come alive Rather than sit behind a desk and try to imagine the misadventures Low would have had he goes out and duplicates them and along the way creates a few tales of his own This is one great read and we should be thankful that people like Max and Jim Stone exist in this world of ours Kevin Callan well known author and canoeist From A P Low s logs and reports Max Finkelstein and Jim Stone give vitality to that great geological surveyor Interspersed are vivid accounts of their own challenging canoe voyages on the same rivers and portages of the boreal forest and rock in the James Bay Ungava Labrador country of the Cree Innu and Inuit What emerges is an eloquent testimonial for the wilderness canoe trip in the Canadian experience Bruce W Hodgins Emeritus Professor of History Trent University President Camp Wanapitei Member Advisory Council Canadian Canoe Museum The Lure of the
