Chinese and Japanese Music-Dramas J. I. Crump, William P. Malm, 2020-08-06 Chinese and Japanese Music Dramas is the result of a conference on the relations between Chinese and Japanese music drama held at the University of Michigan Ann Arbor on October 14 1971 In addition to the Association for Asian Studies four U M departments participated in the conference the Center for Japanese Studies the Center for Chinese Studies the School of Music and the Speech Department One important inspiration for the creation of such an interdisciplinary conference was the fact that each participant had found after years of individual research on music drama in East Asia consistent frustration caused by attempts to deal on their own with multiple cultural and technical problems Another motivating force was an awareness among many members of the four disciplines involved that the topic is in fact one of the largest untouched fields of scholarly endeavor in both Asian and theatrical studies The collection opens with J I Crump's exploration of the Ming commentators who began to subject Yuan musical drama to the same critiques as other literature from the past In the second chapter Rulan Chao Pian looks to the structure of arias in Peking Opera for clues about what distinguishes this art form William P Malm turns to three key sources for the performance conventions of Japanese Noh drama to glean any Sino Japanese music relationships that exist in technical terms and practices In the fourth essay Carl Sesar analyzes a Noh play that stages the tension between Chinese influence and Japanese originality Roy E Teele concludes the volume with a formal study of Noh play structure to assess lineages of influence from Chinese dramatic forms After each contribution the editors print a transcript of the conference participants discussion of that paper providing the reader with a detailed and nuanced view of how the contributors understood and responded to each other's work

the artist's lifetime The Semantics of Chinese Music Adrian Tien, 2015-01-14 Music is a widely enjoyed human experience. It is therefore natural that we have wanted to describe, document, analyse and somehow grasp it in language. This book surveys a representative selection of musical concepts in Chinese language, i.e. words that describe or refer to aspects of Chinese music. Important as these musical concepts are in the language, they have been in wide circulation since ancient times without being subjected to any serious semantic analysis. The current study is the first known attempt at analysing these Chinese musical concepts linguistically, adopting the Natural Semantic Metalanguage (NSM) approach to formulate semantically and cognitively rigorous explications. Readers will be able to better understand not only these musical concepts but also significant aspects of the Chinese culture which many of these musical concepts represent. This volume contributes to the fields of cognitive linguistics, semantics, music, musicology and Chinese studies, offering readers a fresh account of Chinese ways of thinking, not least Chinese ways of viewing or appreciating music. Ultimately, this study represents trailblazing research on the relationship between language, culture and cognition Chinese and Tibetan Esoteric Buddhism, 2017-03-27 Bringing together leading authorities in the fields of Chinese and Tibetan Studies, alike Chinese and Tibetan Esoteric Buddhism engages cutting-edge research on the fertile tradition of Esoteric Buddhism, also known as Tantric Buddhism. This state-of-the-art volume unfolds the sweeping impact of esoteric Buddhism on Tibetan and Chinese cultures and the movement's role in forging distinct political, ethnical and religious identities across Asia at large. Deciphering the oftentimes bewildering richness of esoteric Buddhism, this broadly conceived work exposes the common ground it shares with other Buddhist schools as well as its intersection with non-Buddhist faiths. As such, the book is a major contribution to the study of Asian religions and cultures. Contributors are Yael Bentor, Ester Bianchi, Megan Bryson, Jacob P. Dalton, Hou Chong, Hou Haoran, Eran Laish, Li Ling, Lin Peiying, L. Jianfu, Ma De Dan, Martin Charles D. Orzech, Meir Shahrar, Robert H. Sharf, Shen Weirong, Henrik H. China this book is a chronicle of the musical history of Lijiang County in China's southern Yunnan Province. It focuses on Dongjing music, a repertoire borrowed from China's Han ethnic majority by the indigenous Naxi inhabitants of Lijiang County. Used in Confucian worship as well as in secular entertainment, Dongjing music played a key role in the Naxi minority's assimilation of Han culture over the last 200 years. Prized for its complexity and elegance, which set it apart from rough or simpler indigenous Naxi music, Dongjing played an important role in defining social relationships, since proficiency in the music and membership in the Dongjing associations signified high social status and cultural refinement. In addition, there is a strong political component in its examination of the role of indigenous music in the relation of a socialist state to its ethnic minorities. The first in English on this rich musical tradition, this book is also unique in providing a complete history of the music in a single region in China over the twentieth century. It integrates individual local and national histories with musical experience and musical change. Ethnic music in China provides a vivid example of the tremendous cultural changes over the past century, and the tradition continues to evolve as China encourages ethnic diversity within a unified socialist nation. The book includes a case study of China's tourist trade and its policies toward minorities. The Origin of the Chinese John Chalmers, 1866

Culture, Music Education, and the Chinese Dream in Mainland China Wai-Chung Ho, 2018-01-04

This book focuses on the rapidly changing sociology of music as manifested in Chinese society and Chinese education. It examines how social changes and cultural politics affect how music is currently being used in connection with the Chinese dream. While there is a growing trend toward incorporating the Chinese dream into school education and higher education, there has been no scholarly discussion to date. The combination of cultural politics, transformed authority relations, and officially approved songs can provide us with an understanding of the official content on the Chinese dream that is conveyed in today's Chinese society and how these factors have influenced the renewal of values-based education and practices in school music education in China. The Phonology of Standard Chinese San Duanmu, 2002. This is the first comprehensive account of and introduction to Chinese phonology. It covers several areas that were previously thought to be either absent in Chinese or not phonological issues, e.g., stress, the definition of the word, the word length problem, and the word order problem. It also offers new analyses of several traditional topics such as the phonemic inventory, allophonic variation, syllable structure, the r suffix, tone, and Tone 3 Sandhi. Unnecessary jargon is avoided, and relevant theories are introduced in a non-technical way so that the contents are accessible to a broad audience. Music of a Thousand Autumns Robert Garfias, 1975

China in 1918 Min-ch'ien T. Z. Tyau, 1919 Things Chinese James Dyer Ball, 1925 Things of course was intended by the author to include the people their ideas and actions and the results of those ideas and actions and of their interactions Preface The Sounds of Social Space Paul Kendall, 2019-01-31 A giant statue of a six pipe musical instrument stands in the heart of Kaili city Yet despite its prominent placement intended to convey the essence of the city residents hold extremely low opinions of music making in Kaili particularly when compared to the authentic music found in surrounding ethnic minority villages In this engaging accessible work author Paul Kendall investigates this conundrum and comes to terms with conflicting representations of a small southwestern Chinese city branded the homeland of one hundred festivals Drawing on Henri Lefebvre's triad of social space the book explores the relationship between Kaili's branding built environment and everyday life how China's post Mao built environment hinders and hides everyday music making even in a tourist destination for ethnic music how residents themselves deny or downplay the existence of ethnic music in the city despite the government's efforts to promote it how amateur musicians have constructed generational hierarchies of musical practice within a shifting cityscape Kendall argues that increased focus on the small city helps counter a tendency to conceive China as either timeless village or futuristic metropolis and enables a more comprehensive understanding of the urban experience both in China and beyond He shows that many Kaili inhabitants recognize not only a rural urban divide long a dominant geographical notion of China but also a more complex conceptualization of village small city and big city By interweaving theories of authenticity with an innovative interpretation of space Kendall shows how the category of fake minority emerged from this small city as a surprisingly positive form of self identification suggesting that there are ways of not being ethnic even in often exoticized southwest China The Sounds of Social Space makes a distinctive contribution across a range of disciplinary interests including Chinese studies urban studies anthropology and ethnomusicology
