Pennies On The Tracks:

KIDS OF THE OLD NEIGHBORHOOD Linda Glenn Purvis-Taylor, 2011-12-06 This book is fifteen chapters of fun reading that any kid could relate to and enjoy Each chapter is full of adventures such as finding treasure and fossils as well as creating things One chapter even tells of a language the girls made up so the boys wouldn't know what they were talking about There is a story of us watching a falling star land not far from the house what it smelled like and what it looked like when we went to find it One story tells of us saving and trying to raise 86 tadpoles in the bedroom and the crazy scene when we had little frogs hopping all over the bedroom and how Mama saved them Once a wild boar chased us down a mountain road One kid accidentally stepped on a nonpoisonous snake and ran wildly through the yard bringing the neighborhood to the rescue There are many other stories in this book that will remind you at times of The Little Rascals antics The kids are all good natured fun loving and just enjoyed playing outside using their imaginations It has inspired many children to get outside and explore
