Cultural Ideals of Home Deborah Chambers, 2020-03-18 Spanning the nineteenth to twenty-first centuries, this book investigates how home is imagined, staged, and experienced in western culture. Questions about meanings of home and domestic culture are triggered by dramatic changes in values and ideals about the dwellings we live in and the dwellings we desire or dread. Deborah Chambers explores how home is idealised as a middle-class haven, managed as an investment and signified as a status symbol and expression of personal identity. She addresses a range of public, state, commercial, popular, and expert discourses about home: the heritage industry, design exhibitions, television, social media, home mobilities, and migration; smart technologies and ecological sustainability. Drawing on cross-disciplinary research including cultural history and cultural geography, the book offers a distinctive media and cultural studies approach supported by original, historically informed case studies on interior and domestic design, exhibitions of model homes, TV home interiors, media home imaginaries, multiscreen homes, corporate visions of homes of tomorrow, and digital smart homes. A comprehensive and engaging study, this book is ideal for students and researchers of cultural studies, cultural history, media and communication studies, as well as sociology, gender studies, cultural geography, and design studies. Lifestyle Media in American Culture Maureen E. Ryan, 2018-02-01 This book explores the emergence of lifestyle in the US, first as a term that has become an organizing principle for the self and for the structure of everyday life, and later as a pervasive form of media that encompasses a variety of domestic and self-improvement genres from newspaper columns to design blogs. Drawing on the methodologies of cultural studies and feminist media studies, and built upon a series of case studies from newspapers, books, television programs, and blogs, it tracks the emergence of lifestyle's discursive formation and shows its relevance in contemporary media culture. It is in the broadest sense about the role played by the explosion of lifestyle media texts in changing conceptualizations of selfhood and domestic life. Special Report: Mallorca 2025, As Mallorca undergoes a transformative period defined by sustainable tourism, economic diversification, and social innovation, Special Report Mallorca 2025 offers 200 pages of exclusive insights into the strategies shaping the island's next chapter. The Class Structure of Capitalist Societies, Volume 3 Will Atkinson, 2024-04-01 This book continues the Class Structure of Capitalist Societies series by exploring the place of class among a confluence of factors in shaping people's lives, loves and lifestyles across three nations. Previous volumes in the series examined the shape, history and cultural expressions of class structures. Now grappling with themes usually put under the labels of intersectionality and work-life balance and bridging literatures seldom brought together, this volume uses an innovative mix of statistical techniques to untangle the messy nexus of factors: class, age, gender, race, ethnicity, intimate relations, political context and more underpinning everyday routines, spaces, possessions, practices, possibilities and self-perceptions in the US, Germany and Sweden. In the process, it advances the specific vision of class and social relations developed by Pierre Bourdieu, pursuing the case above all that conceptual and methodological progress is necessary to fully recognise and explore the multiplicity of desires, dispositions and demands at play in people's lives. The volume will be of major interest to scholars of class, culture, gender and family but will appeal to anyone interested in the interplay of identities and pressures implicated in contemporary experiences and inequalities.
