Country Reports on Human Rights Practices ,1997 China and International Human Rights Na Jiang,2013-12-12 This book is designed to introduce law students legal actors and human rights activists particularly participants in human rights dialogues with China to the process and reality of a newly confident China s participation in the international human rights system albeit with inherent challenges From an international and comparative perspective one of the key findings of the author s research is that progress towards human rights depends more on judges than on legislators Chinese legislators have enacted a series of reforms in order to better protect human rights Unfortunately these reforms have not led to greater adherence to China s international human rights obligations in practice The reforms failed because they have generally been misunderstood by Chinese judges who often have a limited understanding of international human rights norms Specifically this book will examine how judicial misunderstandings have blocked reforms in one specific area the use of severe punishments based on international human rights theory and case studies and data analyses This examination has several purposes The first is to suggest that China ratify the ICCPR as the next step for its substantive progress in human rights and as a good preparation for its re applying to be a member of the UN Human Right Council in the future The second is to explain how judges could be better educated in international human rights norms so as to greatly reduce the use of severe punishments and better comply with China s human rights obligations

The third is to demonstrate how the international community could better engage with China in a manner that is more conducive to human rights improvements. The author's ultimate goal is to enhance dialogue on human rights in China between judges and the Chinese government, between Chinese judges and their foreign counterparts, and between China's government and the international community. Another significant aim of this book is to clarify the controversial question of what obligations China should undertake before its ratification of the ICCPR and to re-examine trends in its developing human rights policy after standing down from the Council in late 2012. The tortuous progress of China's criminal law and criminal justice reforms has confirmed that Chinese judges need further instruction on how to apply severe punishments in a manner consistent with international standards. Judges should be encouraged to exercise more discretion when sentencing so that penalties reflect the intent of relevant domestic laws as well as the international human rights standards enumerated in the ICCPR. In order to better educate and train judges, this book contains introductory chapters that examine the severe punishments currently available to Chinese judges from an international human rights perspective. To illustrate how Chinese justice currently falls short of international norms, this paper also examines several cases that are considered to be indicative of China's progress towards greater respect for human rights and the rule of law. These cases demonstrate that China still has a long way to go to achieve its goals at least before abolishing the death penalty, forced labor, and torture.

Serving Library Users from Asia John Hickok, 2019-06-12 Asian populations are among some of the fastest growing cultural groups in the US. While books on serving other target groups in libraries have been published (e.g., disabled, Latino, seniors, etc.), few books on serving library users of Asian heritage have been written. Thus, the timely need for this book. Rather than a generalized overview of Asians as a whole, this book has 24 separate chapters, each on a specific Asian country, cultures of East, Southeast, and South Asia, with a wealth of resources for understanding, interacting with, and serving library users of each culture. Resources include cultural guides, both print and online, language helps with sample library vocabulary, Asian booksellers, nationwide cultural groups, professional literature, and more. Resources and suggestions are given for all three types of libraries: public, school, and academic, making this book valuable for all librarians. The demographics of each Asian culture, numbers, and distribution, plus history of immigration and international student enrollment, is also featured. As a bonus, each chapter spotlights a US public school and academic library providing model outreach to Asian library users. Additionally, this book provides a detailed description and analysis of libraries in each of the 24 Asian countries. The history, development, facilities, conditions, technology, classification systems, and more of public, school, and academic libraries are all discussed with detailed documentation. Country conditions influencing libraries and library use are also described, literacy levels, reading cultures, languages, and writing systems, educational systems, and more. Based on the author's 15 years of research and travels to Asia, this work is a must-have for all librarians.
