Main Ridge Community At Lost City Virgin Anasazi Architecture Ceramics And Burials:

The Main Ridge Community at Lost City Margaret M. Lyneis, 1992 Focuses on one of the sites investigated by M R Harrington in the 1920s to carve out from the misleading connotations of Lost City a concept of a site that was a community Main Ridge and examines it for indications of its size and its organization as well as evidence of social differentiation among the buried population and its involvement in production and exchange Archaeology in America Linda S. Cordell, Kent Lightfoot, Francis McManamon, George Milner, 2008-12-30 The greatness of America is right under our feet The American past the people battles industry and homes can be found not only in libraries and museums but also in hundreds of archaeological sites that scientists investigate with great care These sites are not in distant lands accessible only by research scientists but nearby almost every locale possesses a parcel of land worthy of archaeological exploration Archaeology in America is the first resource that provides students researchers and anyone interested in their local history with a survey of the most important archaeological discoveries in North America Leading scholars most with an intimate knowledge of the area have written in depth essays on over 300 of the most important archaeological sites that explain the importance of the site the history of the people who left the artifacts and the nature of the ongoing research Archaeology in America divides its coverage into 8 regions the Arctic and Subarctic the Great Basin and Plateau the Great Plains and Rocky Mountains the Midwest the Northeast the Southeast the Southwest and the West Coast Each entry provides readers with an accessible overview of the archaeological site as well as books and articles for further research The Prehistoric Pueblo World, A.D. 1150-1350 Michael A. Adler, 2016-10-15 From the mid twelfth to the mid fourteenth century the world of the ancestral Pueblo people Anasazi was in transition undergoing changes in settlement patterns and community organization that resulted in what scholars now call the Pueblo III period This book synthesizes the archaeology of the ancestral Pueblo world during the Pueblo III period examining twelve regions that embrace nearly the entire range of major topographic features ecological zones and prehistoric Puebloan settlement patterns found in the northern Southwest Drawn from the 1990 Crow Canyon Archaeological Center conference Pueblo Cultures in Transition the book serves as both a data resource and a summary of ideas about prehistoric changes in Puebloan settlement and in regional interaction across nearly 150 000 square miles of the Southwest The volume provides a compilation of settlement data for over 800 large sites occupied between A D 1100 1400 in the Southwest These data provide new perspectives on the geographic scale of culture change in the Southwest during this period Twelve chapters analyze the archaeological record for specific districts and provide a detailed picture of settlement size and distribution community architecture and population trends during the period Additional chapters cover warfare and carrying capacity and provide overviews of change in the region Throughout the chapters the contributors address the unifying issues of the role of large sites in relation to smaller ones changes in settlement patterns from the Pueblo II to Pueblo III periods changes in community organization and population dynamics Although other books have considered various regions or the entire prehistoric area this is the first to provide such a wealth of information on the Pueblo III period and such detailed district by district syntheses By dealing with issues of population aggregation and the archaeology of large settlements it offers readers a much needed synthesis of one of the most crucial periods of culture change in the Southwest

Lower Colorado River Multi-Species Conservation Program: Final programmatic environmental impact statement, 2004 Prehistoric Culture Change on the Colorado Plateau Shirley Powell, Francis E. Smiley, 2016-02 A collection of writings by participants in the Black Mesa Archaeological Project offers a synthesis of Kayenta area archaeology examining the ancestral Puebloan and Navajo occupation of the Four Corners region and analysing faunal lithic ceramic chronometric and human osteological data to construct an account of the prehistory and ethnohistory of northern Arizona that demonstrates how organizational variation and other aspects of culture change are largely a response to a changing natural environment

Proposed Contractor-owned/contractor-operated Detention Facility, Las Vegas, Nevada Area, 2008 Leaving Mesa Verde Timothy A. Kohler, Mark D. Varien, Aaron M. Wright, 2013-11-15 It is one of the great mysteries in the archaeology of the Americas the depopulation of the northern Southwest in the late thirteenth century AD Considering the numbers of people affected the distances moved the permanence of the departures the severity of the surrounding conditions and the human suffering and culture change that accompanied them the abrupt conclusion to the farming way of life in this region is one of the greatest disruptions in recorded history Much new paleoenvironmental data and a great deal of archaeological survey and excavation permit the fifteen scientists represented here much greater precision in determining the timing of the depopulation the number of people affected and the ways in which northern Pueblo peoples coped and failed to cope with the rapidly changing environmental and demographic conditions they encountered throughout the 1200s In addition some of the scientists in this volume use models to provide insights into the processes behind the patterns they find helping to narrow the range of plausible explanations What emerges from these investigations is a highly pertinent story of conflict and disruption as a result of climate change environmental degradation social rigidity and conflict Taken as a whole these contributions recognize this era as having witnessed a competition between differing social and economic organizations in which selective migration was considerably hastened by severe climatic environmental and social upheaval Moreover the chapters show that it is at least as true that emigration led to the collapse of the northern Southwest as it is that collapse led to emigration

Intrigue of the Past ,2006 Project Archaeology in Nevada is sponsored by the U S Department of the Interior Bureau of Land Management as well as other public and private partners The goal is to foster stewardship of Nevada s cultural resources and to promote the educational cultural and scientific awareness to benefit diverse present and future generations By introducing the Project Archaeology program into Nevada we hope to equip Nevada s children with the knowledge to make wise decisions regarding the use and preservation of archaeological resources and an appreciation of Nevada s diverse cultural heritage Intro Lower Colorado River Multi-species Conservation Program ,2004

Life beyond the Boundaries Karen Harry,Sarah A. Herr,2018-04-02 Life beyond the Boundaries explores identity formation on the edges of the ancient Southwest Focusing on some of the more poorly understood regions including the Jornada Mogollon the Gallina and the Pimer a Alta the authors use methods drawn from material culture science anthropology and history to investigate themes related to the construction of social identity along the perimeters of the American Southwest Through an archaeological lens the volume examines the social experiences of people who lived in edge regions Through mobility and the development of extensive social networks people living in these areas were introduced to the ideas and practices of other cultural groups As their spatial distances from core areas increased the degree to which they participated in the economic social political and ritual practices of ancestral core areas increasingly varied As a result the social identities of people living in edge zones were often though not always fluid and situational Drawing on an increase of available information and bringing new attention to understudied areas the book will be of interest to scholars of Southwestern archaeology and other researchers interested in the archaeology of low populated and decentralized regions and identity formation Life beyond the Boundaries considers the various roles that edge regions played in local and regional trajectories of the prehistoric and protohistoric Southwest and how place influenced the development of social identity Contributors Lewis Borck Dale S Brenneman Jeffery J Clark Severin Fowles Patricia A Gilman Lauren E Jelinek Myles R Miller Barbara J Mills Matthew A

All the Water the Law Allows Christian S. Harrison,2021-08-12 As the population of the greater Las Vegas area grows and the climate warms the threat of a water shortage looms over southern Nevada But as Christian S Harrison demonstrates in All the Water the Law Allows the threat of shortage arises not from the local environment but from the American legal system specifically the Law of the River that governs water allocation from the Colorado River In this political and legal history of the Las Vegas water supply Harrison focuses on the creation and actions of the Southern Nevada Water Authority SNWA to tell a story with profound implications and important lessons for water politics and natural resource policy in the twenty first century In the state with the smallest allocation of the Colorado s water supply Las Vegas faces the twin challenges of aridity and federal law to obtain water for its ever expanding population All the Water the Law Allows describes how the impending threat of shortage in the 1980s compelled the five metropolitan water agencies of greater Las Vegas to unify into a single entity Harrison relates the circumstances of the SNWA s evolution and reveals how the unification of local county and state interests allowed the compact to address regional water policy with greater force and focus than any of its peers in the Colorado River Basin Most notably the SNWA has mapped conservation plans that have drastically reduced local water consumption and in the interstate realm it has been at the center of groundbreaking water sharing agreements Yet these achievements do not challenge the fundamental primacy of the Law of the River If current trends continue and the Basin States are compelled to reassess the river s distribution the SNWA will be a force and a model for the Basin as a whole

Bighorn Cave Phil R. Geib,Donald R. Keller,2002 Bighorn Cave located in the Black Mountains of west central Arizona is a large shelter with dry stratified deposits dating from the present back to at least the late Archaic This report presents the findings of an test excavation of the site done to determine the archaeological significance of the cave to understand the extent and nature of intact cultural deposits and to determine their ages The excavation of roughly 15 cu m of undisturbed deposits revealed more than 1 m of complexly stratified deposits and superimposed features from roughly 3000 years of site occupancy

Prehistoric Warfare in the American Southwest Steven A. LeBlanc,1999 Most people today including many archaeologists view the Pueblo people of the Southwest as historically peaceful sedentary corn farmers In Prehistoric Warfare in the American Southwest Steven LeBlanc demonstrates how the prevailing picture of the ancient Pueblos is highly romanticized Taking a pan Southwestern view of the entire prehistoric and early historic time range and considering archaeological and ethnohistorical evidence and oral traditions he presents a different picture Objectively sought evidence of war and its consequences is abundant The people of the region fought for their survival and evolved their societies to meet
