myself almost longing for the same despite the sadness at the heart of the book

Readings Our Favourite Books of 2016 so far

Subtle and vividly observed Our Magic Hour is a chronicle of early adulthood with all its violent unions and passionate friendships

Down s work is universally important

Overland Down s depiction of modern Melbourne is so familiar and evocative that I felt like I d bumped into her characters at the cafe just the day before

For a book so infused with grief and longing the sheer amount of love and depth of feeling in the novel made me yearn for everything and nothing all at once and has stayed with me throughout the year

2016 Staff Picks Kill Your Darlings If Helen Garner turned her razor sharp eye to a new generation Our Magic Hour might be the result

Down unravels the self obsession and shortsightedness of youth with insight and affection and turns the grit of modern twenty something life breakups breakdowns new jobs and new towns into something profound beautiful and hopeful

Junkee Down writes equally of significant moments and unremarkable days with sparing beauty

Particularly adept at depiction of place Down made me wonder if I hadn t sat across from Audrey on the train to Redfern bumped elbows with her at a bar in Bondi

Down is the kind of writer that you ll be lucky to get on at the ground floor with she is only going up

Concrete Playground A raw novel about growing up in a world that never seems to make any sense this novel manages to neatly capture that universal malaise felt by terrified millennials all over the world

Vice A masterclass in elegant understatement A very fine novel indeed compassionate clear sighted and lovely

A Life in Books Down s prose is sharp and intimate the characters flawed and achingly familiar

For a book about mourning it s not overly sentimental or indulgent

Instead the characters grief is ugly and bewildering

Our Magic Hour is a compelling authentic portrayal of loss dislocation and the unsteadiness of young adult life
