Neo-Impressionism and Anarchism in Fin-de-Si?e France Robyn Roslak,2017-07-05 In Neo Impressionism and Anarchism in Fin de Si e France Robyn Roslak examines for the first time the close relationship between neo impressionist landscapes and cityscapes and the anarchist sympathies of the movement s artists She focuses in particular on paintings produced between 1886 and 1905 by Paul Signac and Maximilien Luce the neo impressionists whose fidelity to anarchism to the art of landscape and to a belief in the social potential of art was strongest Although the neo impressionists are best known for their rational and scientific technique they also heeded the era s call for art surpassing the mundane realities of everyday life By tempering their modern subjects with a decorative style they hoped to lead their viewers toward moral and social improvement Roslak s ground breaking analysis shows how the anarchist theories of Elis Reclus Pierre Kropotkin and Jean Grave both inspired and coincided with these ideals Anarchism attracted the neo impressionists because its standards for social justice were grounded like neo impressionism itself in scientific exactitude and aesthetic idealism Anarchists claimed humanity would reach its highest level of social and moral development only in the presence of a decorative variety of nature and called upon progressive thinkers to help create and maintain such environments The neo impressionists who primarily painted decorative landscapes therefore discovered in anarchism a political theory consistent with their belief that decorative harmony should be the basis for socially responsible art

The Mistral Catherine Tatiana Dunlop, 2024-10-14 An in depth look at the hidden power of the mistral wind and its effect on modern French history Every year the chilly mistral wind blows through the Rhone valley of southern France across the Camargue wetlands and into the Mediterranean Sea Most forceful when winter turns to spring the wind knocks over trees sweeps trains off their tracks and destroys crops Yet the mistral turns the sky clear and blue as it often appears in depictions of Provence The legendary wind is central to the area's regional identity and has inspired artists and writers near and far for centuries This force of nature is the focus of Catherine Dunlop's The Mistral a wonderfully written examination of the power of the mistral wind and in particular the ways it challenged central tenets of nineteenth century European society order mastery and predictability As Dunlop shows while the modernizing state sought liberation from environmental realities through scientific advances land modification and other technological solutions the wind blew on literally crushing attempts at control and becoming increasingly integral to regional feelings of place and community Harvard Magazine, 1999

Hindsight: An Autobiography Charlotte Wolff, 2019-08-16 Hindsight is the memoir of an outsider a stateless person a Jew and as Wolff called herself a conscious lesbian Love for women had been her inclination since she could remember and she writes that no one in her family questioned it In Hindsight she describes her girlfriends from Danzig of 1910 with the same candor as adult lovers she meets in Germany France and England She gives a vivid account of the years she spent as a physician and party girl in Weimar Berlin her friendship with Walter and Dora Benjamin and her interest in chiropodology the study of hands and sexology Wolff writes movingly about Jewish identity and history medicine psychotherapy and her life as a 20th century lesbian She is particularly insightful about how statelessness affects the psyche She probes her attraction to glamorous friends such as the fashion journalist Helen Hessel Kathe of Jules and Jim and Baladine Klossowska mother of the painter Balthus in Paris She describes the wartime refugee colony of Sanary France and the Quakers Surrealists Thomas and Heinrich Mann and Maria and Aldous Huxley whom she met there When she moves to London in 1936 her medical degree is not recognized and she reads hands for a living including the hands of Virginia Woolf Sybille Bedford and the Duchess of Windsor before becoming a researcher at University College London Though reluctant to become what she called a professional lesbian Wolff began to join same sex political groups in the 1960s after researching her book Love Between Women published in 1971 Germans invited her to Germany and she ends her book with a detailed account of her triumphant return to Berlin at the age of 80 By turns discursive narrative and confessional this is a unique woman's contribution to the social history of Jews medicine and psychotherapy
