D. Goitein, 1967 A Mediterranean Society, Volume VI S. D. Goitein, 1994-03-09 This six volume portrait of a Mediterranean personality is a composite portrait of the individuals who wrote the personal letters contracts and all other manuscript fragments that found their way into the Cairo Geniza Most of the fragments from the Geniza a storeroom for discarded writings that could not be thrown away because they might contain the name of God had been removed to Cambridge University Library and other libraries around the world Professor Goitein devoted the last thirty years of his long and productive life to their study deciphering the language of the documents and organizing what he called a marvelous treasure trove of manuscripts into a coherent fascinating picture of the society that created them It is a rich panoramic view of how people lived traveled worshiped and conducted their economic and social affairs The first and second volumes describe the economic foundations of the society and the institutions and social and political structures that characterized the community The remaining material intended for a single volume describing the particulars of the way people lived blossomed into three volumes devoted respectively to the family daily life and the individual The divisions are arbitrary but helpful because of the wealth of information The author refers throughout to other passages in his monumental work that amplify what is discussed in any particular section. The result is an incomparably clear and immediate impression of how it was in the Mediterranean world of the tenth through the thirteenth century Volume VI prepared by Paula Sanders is a A Mediterranean Society Shelomo Dov Goitein, 2018 This six volume portrait of a volume of cumulative analytical indices Mediterranean personality is a composite portrait of the individuals who wrote the personal letters contracts and all other manuscript fragments that found their way into the Cairo Geniza Most of the fragments from the Geniza a storeroom for discarded writings that could not be thrown away because they might contain the name of God had been removed to Cambridge University Library and other libraries around the world Professor Goitein devoted the last thirty years of his long and productive life to their study deciphering the language of the documents and organizing what he called a marvelous treasure trove of manuscripts into a coherent fascinating picture of the society that created them It is a rich panoramic view of how people lived traveled worshiped and conducted their economic and social affairs The first and second volumes describe the economic foundations of the society and the institutions and social and political structures that characterized the community The remaining material intended for a single volume describing the particulars of the way people lived
