

A dental procedure is shown in a clinical setting. Two dental professionals, wearing blue scrubs and gloves, are performing a procedure on a patient. The patient is lying down, and their head is positioned on a dental chair. The procedure area is covered with a blue sterile drape. A bright light is focused on the patient's mouth, illuminating the procedure. A dental professional on the left is holding a dental mirror, and another on the right is holding a long, flexible, grey tube (likely for AirFlo technology) that is inserted into the patient's mouth. The background shows a typical dental office environment with white cabinets and a sink.
