Furthermore higher education research can rely on a relatively stable academic basis if study programmes on higher education exist. Again this is most frequently the case in the United States. Finally governments and other macro societal actors sometimes have their own offices or institutes of policy research and prepare the policies of the actors they report to. In addition research on higher education can be institutionalized in a variety of ways. Often research institutes on higher education are quite visible. They were established as specialized research units within or outside institutions of higher education but no common institutional basis can be observed for this type of institution across the countries. Third the major themes of research on higher education also differ between countries. It has frequently been said that in European countries it was more prone to analyse macro societal issues of higher education whereas in the US it tended to study the inner life of higher education institutions, students and the teaching and learning processes.

The Routledge Handbook of Hospitality Studies Conrad Lashley, 2016-11-10 In recent years there has been a growing interest in the study of hospitality as a social phenomenon. This interest has tended to arrive from two communities. The first comprises hospitality academics interested in exploring the wider meanings of hospitality as a way of better understanding guest and host relations and its implications for commercial settings. The second comprises social scientists using hosts and guests as a metaphor for understanding the relationship between host communities and guests as people from outside the community, migrants, asylum seekers and illegal immigrants. The Routledge Handbook of Hospitality Studies encourages both the study of hospitality as a human phenomenon and the study of hospitality as an industrial activity embracing the service of food, drink and accommodation. Developed from specifically commissioned original contributions from recognised authors in the field, it is the most up to date and definitive resource on the subject. The volume is divided into four parts: the first looks at ways of seeing hospitality from an array of social science disciplines; the second highlights the experiences of hospitality from different guest perspectives; the third explores the need to be hospitable through various time periods and social structures and across the globe; while the final section deals with the notions of sustainability and hospitality. This handbook is interdisciplinary in coverage and is also international in scope through authorship and content. The state of the art orientation of the book is achieved through a critical view of current debates and controversies in the field as well as future research issues and trends. It is designed to be a benchmark for any future assessment of the field and its development. This handbook offers the reader a comprehensive synthesis of this discipline, conveying the latest thinking, issues and research. It will be an invaluable resource for all those with an interest in hospitality, encouraging dialogue across disciplinary boundaries and areas of study. Affirmative Action and Racial Equity Uma M. Jayakumar, Liliana M. Garces, 2015-03-12 The highly anticipated U.S. Supreme Court decision in Fisher v. University of Texas placed a greater onus on higher education institutions to provide evidence supporting the need for affirmative action policies.

on their respective campuses It is now more critical than ever that institutional leaders and scholars understand the evidence in support of race consideration in admissions as well as the challenges of the post Fisher landscape This important volume shares information documented for the Fisher case and provides empirical evidence to help inform scholarly conversation and institutions decisions regarding race conscious practices in higher education With contributions from scholars and experts involved in the Fisher case this edited volume documents and shares lessons learned from the collaborative efforts of the social science educational and legal communities Affirmative Action and Racial Equity is a critical resource for higher education scholars and administrators to understand the nuances of the affirmative action legal debate and to identify the challenges and potential strategies toward racial equity and inclusion moving forward

Black Issues in Higher Education, 2003-09      Higher Education Leadership and Governance in the Development of the Creative and Cultural Industries in Kenya

Emily Akuno, Otoyondieki, 2017-05-05 The role of higher education in establishing structures and procedures in society and industry is clearly articulated in scholarly discussions The narrative has recently taken a new momentum in Kenya with acknowledgement of the creative industry involves many youth as an area that impacts on the economy In unravelling the link between higher education and industry the authors focus on leadership and governance in higher education and its expected and perceived contribution to the shaping of the creative industry Through analysis of cases the authors interrogate the processes and structures that govern the teaching and practice of the creative subjects noting how these affect the creative industry in Kenya This document approaches the creative disciplines from the perspectives of the students lecturers and university administrators The three voices provide a balanced view of what higher creative arts education in Kenya is The multiple authorship of the book further provides a balanced account of the development of these disciplines in higher education and their growth in industry The key concepts here are the development of the creative industry and how higher education should contribute to the same
