Meeting Anthropology Phase To Phase:

Meeting Anthropology Phase to Phase Robert Bates Graber, 2000 In Meeting Anthropology the major phases through which our species has passed provide the structure for a truly coherent encounter with general anthropology biological archaeological cultural and linguistic Part I Growing Up covers the evolution of upright large brained primates Part II Spreading Out details how culture allowed these handy intelligent beings to expand from their tropical homes to fill the world Part III Crowding In focuses on the dramatic cultural reconfigurations wrought by the growth of large societies as humans populated the earth ever more densely Part IV Switching On explores how contemporary culture emerged from and continues to be transformed by the emergence of a world system and the ongoing process of industrialization Throughout the book the imperative we share with all animals to find and use energy sources is a key integrative theme Also highly integrative is the book's consistency in defining and analyzing cultural systems including our own in terms of 1 the means by which societies interface with their physical and social environments 2 the customary ways in which members of society interact with one another and 3 the ideas through which reality is interpreted symbolically The Psychology of Cultural Experience Carmella C. Moore, Holly F. Mathews, 2001-09-06 The essays in this volume first published in 2001 focus upon the relationship of individual experience to culture and chart a research agenda for psychological anthropology in the twenty first century Drawing upon fieldwork in diverse cultural settings the authors use a range of contemporary perspectives in the field including person centred ethnography activity theory attachment theory and cultural schema theory to describe the ways in which people think feel remember and solve problems Fascinating insights emerge from these fine grained accounts of personal experience The research demonstrates that it is possible to identify cross cultural universals in psychological development and mental states and that individual psychology is not determined solely by unique cultural patterns

Unbound Richard L. Currier, 2017-08-08 Like Guns Germs and Steel a work of breathtaking sweep and originality that reinterprets the human story Although we usually think of technology as something unique to modern times our ancestors began to create the first technologies millions of years ago in the form of prehistoric tools and weapons Over time eight key technologies gradually freed us from the limitations of our animal origins The fabrication of weapons the mastery of fire and the technologies of clothing and shelter radically restructured the human body enabling us to walk upright shed our body hair and migrate out of tropical Africa Symbolic communication transformed human evolution from a slow biological process into a fast cultural process The invention of agriculture revolutionized the relationship between humanity and the environment and the technologies of interaction led to the birth of civilization Precision machinery spawned the industrial revolution and the rise of nation states and in the next metamorphosis digital technologies may well unite all of humanity for the benefit of future generations Synthesizing the findings of primatology paleontology archeology history and anthropology Richard Currier reinterprets and retells the modern narrative of human evolution that began with the discovery of Lucy and other Australopithecus fossils But the same forces that allowed us to integrate technology into every aspect of our daily lives have also brought us to the brink of planetary catastrophe Unbound explains both how we got here and how human society must be transformed again to achieve a sustainable future Technology The deliberate modification of any natural object or substance with forethought to achieve a specific end or to serve a specific purpose Anthropological Approaches To Resettlement Michael M. Cernea, 2019-04-08 This book is about people who have been forced to resettle because of development projects It takes stock of recent applied social science research on involuntary resettlement and forms a part of an international discussion on theories of resettlement and what social scientists can do about it Intentional Community Susan Love Brown, 2001-12-20 Although anthropologists have studied intentional communities in the past they have seldom exerted a concerted effort to evaluate the intentional community in terms of the anthropological language of cultural change Drawing from the work of Victor Turner Gregory Bateson and Anthony F C Wallace Intentional Community examines historic and contemporary intentional communities within the United States leading to a better understanding of these communities the larger nation state of which they are a part and the ways in which the two interact Applying classical anthropological theory to elements of western society the contributors discuss how the individuals function the ways in which these communities come into being and disappear the various forms these communities take how their members reinterpret features of the larger culture and the ways in which outsiders relate to people within them Changing Perspectives on the Archaeology of the Central Mississippi Valley Michael J. O'Brien, Robert C. Dunnell, 1998-03-25 Fourteen experts examine the current state of Central Valley prehistoric research and provide an important touchstone for future archaeological study of the region The Mississippi Valley region has long played a critical role in the development of American archaeology and continues to be widely known for the major research of the early 1950s To bring the archaeological record up to date fourteen Central Valley experts address diverse topics including the distribution of artifacts across the landscape internal configurations of large fortified settlements human bone chemistry and ceramic technology The authors demonstrate that much is to be learned from the rich and varied archaeological record of the region and that the methods and techniques used to study the record have changed dramatically over the past half century Operating at the cutting edge of current research strategies these archaeologists provide a fresh look at old problems in central Mississippi Valley research Some Phases of Prehistoric Archaeology George Grant MacCurdy, 1907 Theological Dialogue with Classical Pentecostals Jelle Creemers, 2015-09-24 The last two decades have witnessed the growing participation in theological dialogues of non institutional free church movements This poses a serious challenge to 21st century ecumenism since ecclesial realities and internal diversity of these movements impede fruitful dialogue in the classical manner The present volume addresses fundamental aspects of this challenge by a critical study of an exemplary case of such dialogues the International Roman Catholic Classical Pentecostal Dialogue 1972 2007 This unique study builds both on primary archival sources and on earlier research on the IRCCPD After providing an ecumenical profile of the Classical Pentecostal dialogue partner Creemers demonstrates how fair representation of the Classical Pentecostal movement has been pursued in the course of the dialogue Next he gives attention to the ecumenical method of the IRCCPD First the development of a dialogue method hinging on hard questions is traced which has allowed a balanced theological exchange between the dialogue partners Regarding theological method it is demonstrated that both partners showed a willingness to experiment together by integrating sources of theological knowledge typically distrusted in their own traditions In conclusion the analyses are integrated in an overview of challenges and opportunities for dialogue with the Classical Pentecostal movement in the context of ongoing discussions on ecumenical method

Archaeology on the Great Plains W. Raymond Wood, 1998-07-29 Stretching from the Gulf of Mexico to central Canada North America's great interior grasslands were home to nomadic hunters and semisedentary farmers for almost 11 500 years before the arrival of Euro American settlers Pan continental trade between these hunters and horticulturists helped make the lifeways of Plains Indians among the richest and most colorful of Native Americans This volume is the first attempt to synthesize current knowledge on the cultural history of the Great Plains since Wedel's Prehistoric Man on the Great Plains became the standard reference on the subject almost forty years ago Fourteen authors have undertaken the task of examining archaeological phenomena through time and by region to present a systematic overview of the region's human history Focusing on habitat and cultural diversity and on the changing archaeological record they reconstruct how people responded to the varying environment climate and biota of the grasslands to acquire the resources they needed to survive The contributors have analyzed archaeological artifacts and other evidence to present a systematic overview of human history in each of the five key Plains regions Southern Central Middle Missouri Northeastern and Northwestern They review the Paleo Indian Archaic Woodland and Plains Village peoples and tell how their cultural traditions have continued from ancient to modern times Each essay covers technology diet settlement and adaptive patterns to give readers an understanding of the differences and similarities among groups The story of Plains peoples is brought into historical focus by showing the impacts of Euro American contact notably acquisition of the horse and exposure to new diseases Featuring 85 maps and illustrations Archaeology on the Great Plains is an exceptional introduction to the field for students and an indispensable reference for specialists It enhances our understanding of how the Plains shaped the adaptive strategies of peoples through time and fosters a greater appreciation for their cultures

Making Ancient Cities Andrew T. Creekmore, III, Kevin D. Fisher, 2014-04-28 This volume investigates how the structure and use of space developed and changed in cities and examines the role of different societal groups in shaping urbanism Culturally and chronologically diverse case studies provide a basis to examine recent theoretical and methodological shifts in the archaeology of ancient cities The book's primary goal is to examine how ancient cities were made by the people who lived in them The authors argue that there is a mutually constituting relationship between urban form and the actions and interactions of a plurality of individuals groups and institutions each with their own motivations and identities Space is therefore socially produced as these agents operate in multiple spheres

Arkansas Archaeology Robert C. Mainfort, Marvin D. Jeter, Dan F. Morse, Phyllis A. Morse, 1999-11-01 Arkansas has long been recognized as a state with a rich archaeological heritage that is unsurpassed in North America The Toltec Mounds were made famous by the Smithsonian's research at the turn of the century The Sloan site dated to 8500 B C is the oldest documented burial ground in the New World The alluvial plain of the central Mississippi River valley supported perhaps the greatest prehistoric urban population And the Parkin site has yielded important information about the de Soto incursion into the continent This festschrift recognizes the contributions made in researching this varied heritage by Dan and Phyllis Morse from the inception of the Arkansas Archeological Survey in 1967 to their retirement in 1997 The essays were prepared by thirteen of their colleagues recognized experts in archaeology and related fields and represent state of the art knowledge about Arkansas s archaeology The topics range broadly from prehistoric environments and regional syntheses to specialized studies of specific culture periods and historical archaeology Paul and Hazel Delcourt and Roger Saucier provide a chapter that will serve as a standard reference for many years on Holocene environments Chris Gillam s contribution demonstrates the utility of Geographic Information Systems in broad scale pattern analysis Robert Mainfort uses large collections of ceramics to show that traditional methods for grouping Late Mississippian sites are insufficient Michael Hoffman introduces a new line of evidence from old newspaper accounts and Frank Schambach in reinterpreting the spectacular Spiro site in eastern Oklahoma gives us a powerful classic example of archaeological and ethnohistoric interpretation This volume will of course be of great interest to professional archaeologists and anthropologists but the essays are also accessible to students amateur archaeologists historians and enthusiastic general readers As the new millennium dawns this book celebrates the legacy of two very distinguished careers in archaeology and heralds the proliferation of innovative new approaches and techniques for the continuing study of Arkansas s prehistoric peoples Aging ,1986
