explores a century of American representations of Javanese performing arts by North Americans While other Asian cultures made direct impressions on Americans by virtue of firsthand contacts through immigration trade and war the distance between Java and America and the vagueness of Americans imagery enabled a few disenfranchised musicians and dancers to fashion alternative identities through bold and idiosyncratic representations of Javanese music and dance Javaphilia's main subjects Canadian born singer Eva Gauthier 1885 1958 dancer painter Hubert Stowitts 1892 1953 ethnomusicologist Mantle Hood 1918 2005 and composer Lou Harrison 1917 2003 all felt marginalized by the mainstream of Western society Gauthier by her lukewarm reception as an operatic mezzo soprano in Europe Stowitts by his homosexuality Hood by conflicting interests in spirituality and scientific method and Harrison by his predilection for prettiness in a musical milieu that valued more anxious expressions All four parlayed their own direct experiences of Java into a defining essence for their own characters By identifying aspects of Javanese music and dance that were compatible with their own tendencies these individuals could literally perform unconventional yet coherent identities based in Javanese music and dance Although they purported to represent Java to their fellow North Americans they were in fact simply representing themselves In addition to probing the fascinating details of these javaphiles lives Javaphilia presents a novel analysis of North America's first significant encounters with Javanese performing arts at the 1893 World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago An account of the First International Gamelan Festival in Vancouver BC at Expo 86 almost a century later bookends the epoch that is the focus of Javaphilia and sets the stage for a meditation on North Americans ongoing relationships with the music and dance of Java
