Sidonie Smith, Julia Watson

Memoir Of A Victorian Woman:

Memoir of a Victorian Woman Louise Creighton, 1994 This memoir is an account of the childhood courtship marriage and adult life of a fascinating erudite late Victorian woman Written for her children after the death of her husband Louise Creighton's reflections offer a rare glimpse into the domestic intellectual and social world of late Victorian England Louise met Mandell Creighton then an Oxford don at a John Ruskin lecture in 1871 Their years at Oxford and later in London when Mandell was Bishop brought them into contact with many thinkers and public figures of their day including Ruskin Beatrice Potter Webb Mary Mrs Humphry Ward Edmund Gosse Millicent Garrett Fawcett and T H Huxley Louise Creighton although busy as the wife of an important cleric and the mother of seven children wrote a number of historical works including a Life of Edward the Black Prince 1876 Life of Walter Raleigh 1909 a Social History of England 1887 and Some Famous Women 1909 an early work of women's history

The Private Lives of Victorian Women Valerie Sanders, 1989 Traditions of Victorian Women's Autobiography Linda H. Peterson, 1999 Victorian women's autobiography emerged at a historical moment when the field of life writing was particularly rich Spiritual autobiography was developing interesting variations in the heroic memoirs of pioneering missionary women and in probing intellectual analyses of Nonconformists Anglicans agnostics and other religious thinkers The chroniques scandaleuses of the eighteenth century were giving way to the respectable artist's life of the professional Victorian woman The domestic memoir a Victorian variation on the family histories of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries flourished in a culture that celebrated the joys of home family and private life Perhaps most important Victorian women writers were experimenting with all these forms in various combinations and permutations Arguing that women's autobiography does not represent a singular separate tradition but instead embraces multiple lineages Linda H Peterson explores the poetics and politics of these diverse forms of life writing She carefully analyzes the polemical Autobiography of Harriet Martineau and Personal Recollections of Charlotte Elizabeth Tonna the missionary memoirs that challenge Charlotte Brontë's Jane Eyre the Romantic autobiographies of the poet and poetess that Barrett Browning reconstructs in Aurora Leigh the professional life stories of Margaret Oliphant and her contemporaries and the Brontë and Eliotian bifurcations of Mary Cholmondeley's memoirs The desire to know the details of other women's lives and to use them for one's own purposes underlies much Victorian women's autobiography even as it helps to explain our continuing interest in their accounts

Memoirs of Victorian Working-Class Women Florence S. Boos, 2017-12-02 This volume is the first to identify a significant body of life narratives by working class women and to demonstrate their inherent literary significance Placing each memoir within its generic historical and biographical context this book traces the shifts in such writings over time examines the circumstances which enabled working class women authors to publish their life stories and places these memoirs within a wider autobiographical tradition Additionally Memoirs of Victorian Working Class Women enables readers to appreciate the clear sightedness directness and poignancy of these works

Women, Autobiography, Theory Sidonie

Smith, Julia Watson, 1998 The first comprehensive guide to the burgeoning field of women's autobiography Essays from 39 prominent critics and writers explore narratives across the centuries and from around the globe A list of more than 200 women's autobiographies and a comprehensive bibliography provide invaluable information for scholars teachers and readers

Eighteenth-Century Women's Writing and the 'Scandalous Memoir' Caroline Breashears, 2017-02-06 This book contributes to the literary history of eighteenth century women's life writings particularly those labeled scandalous memoirs It examines how the evolution of this subgenre was shaped partially by several innovative memoirs that have received only modest critical attention Breashears argues that Madame de La Touche's Apologie and her friend Lady Vane's Memoirs contributed to the crystallization of this sub genre at mid century and that Lady Vane's collaboration with Tobias Smollett in The Adventures of Peregrine Pickle resulted in a brilliant experiment in the relationship between gender and genre It demonstrates that the Memoirs of Catherine Jemmat incorporated influential new strategies for self justification in response to changing kinship priorities and that Margaret Coghlan's Memoirs introduced revolutionary themes that created a hybrid the political scandalous memoir This book will therefore appeal to scholars interested in life writing women's history genre theory and eighteenth century British literature

Young in New York Nathalie Dana, 2012-07-01 British Women's Life Writing, 1760-1840 A. Culley, 2014-07-22 British Women's Life Writing 1760-1840 brings together for the first time a wide range of print and manuscript sources to demonstrate women's innovative approach to self representation It examines canonical writers such as Mary Wollstonecraft Mary Robinson and Helen Maria Williams amongst others

The Culture of Autobiography Robert Folkenflik, 1993 Focusing primarily on the period from the eighteenth century to the present this interdisciplinary volume takes a fresh look at the institutions and practices of autobiography and self portraiture in Europe the United States and other cultures

Women and Literature in Britain 1800-1900 Joanne Shattock, 2001-08-30 These new essays by leading scholars explore nineteenth century women's writing across a spectrum of genres The book's focus is on women's role in and access to literary culture in the broadest sense as consumers and interpreters as well as practitioners of that culture Individual chapters consider women as journalists editors translators scholars actresses playwrights autobiographers biographers writers for children and religious writers as well as novelists and poets A unique chronology offers a woman centered perspective on literary and historical events and there is a guide to further reading

Memoirs of an Indian Woman Shudha Mazumdar, Geraldine Hancock Forbes, 1989 Mazumdar was born at the turn of the century to parents whose ideas on child rearing differed greatly her father being a westernized liberal and her mother a traditionalist This memoir relates how under her father's influence she became a writer and a notable figure in the social services

Prepared for the Twentieth-Century? The Life of Emily Bonnycastle Mayne (Aimée) 1872-1958 Michael Armstrong Crouch, 2015-11-25 Aimee Mayne was born into a life of apparent privilege and opportunity However as a woman born in 1872 and living through the first half of the twentieth century these opportunities were severely limited by law culture and tradition This story is of a woman of the British upper middle class whose life was full of colour of living in India of family relationships of travel of the Blitz She kept diaries and wrote an intimate memoir This book explores her emotional conflicts with a revealing analysis that includes revelations about a woman brought up in the late Victorian period encompassing her sex life and the turmoil of an unhappy marriage It is a study of a life that identifies how an upper middle class upbringing that included an attempted tertiary education at a time when this was unheard of for most women induced her into a marriage and life style that was the antithesis of her early aspirations Her life was to engender a sense of grievance that embittered relations with her family While she took advantage of her travels to undertake a successful lecturing career personal fulfilment was only to be found at the end of her life during the London Blitz in World War Two

Aristocratic Women and the Literary Nation, 1832-1867 M. O'Connell, 2015-12-17 Aristocratic women flourished in the Victorian literary world their combination of class privilege and gendered exclusion generating distinctively socialized modes of participation in cultural and political activity Their writing offers an important trope through which to consider the nature of political private and public spheres Women and the Autobiographical Impulse Barbara Caine, 2023-09-07 Forming a critical introduction to the history of women's autobiography from the mid 18th century to the present this book analyses the most important changes in women's autobiography exploring their motivation context style and the role of life experiences Caine effortlessly segues across three centuries of history from the emergence of the modern autobiography in the 18th century which laid bare the scandalous lives of fallen women to the literary and suffragist autobiographies of the 19th century to the establishment of feminist publishers in the 20th century and the taboo shattering autobiographies they produced The result is a much needed history one which provides a different way of thinking about the trajectory of genre information Caine's compelling study fills an important gap in the genre of autobiography by embracing a wide range of women and offering an extensive discussion of the autobiographies of women across the 19th and 20th centuries making it ideal for classroom use Women's Life Writing, 1700-1850 D. Cook, A. Culley, 2016-04-13 This collection discusses

British and Irish life writings by women in the period 1700-1850 It argues for the importance of women's life writing as part of the culture and practice of eighteenth century and Romantic autobiography exploring the complex relationships between constructions of femininity life writing forms and models of authorship Ages and Stages: Glimpses into the Lives of Women in the Academy Terry Novak, 2025-06-24 Ages and Stages: A Glimpse into the Lives of Women in the Academy offers the perspectives of ten women academics mostly but not exclusively from the United States who share both their struggles and their successes in the world of higher education Ranging from graduate students to those nearing retirement the essay authors aim to write in conversation with one another and to bring readers into the conversation Readers will find various perspectives on issues unique to women academics including motherhood societal expectations and institutional assumptions and will discover various methods of navigating the unique challenges of women academics The Women's Suffrage

Movement Elizabeth Crawford, 2003-09-02 This widely acclaimed book has been described by History Today as a landmark in the study of the women's movement. It is the only comprehensive reference work to bring together in one volume the wealth of information available on the women's movement. Drawing on national and local archival sources, the book contains over 400 biographical entries and more than 800 entries on societies in England, Scotland, and Wales. Easily accessible and rigorously cross-referenced, this invaluable resource covers not only the political developments of the campaign but provides insight into its cultural context, listing novels, plays, and films.

Romantic women's life writing Susan Civalé, 2019-03-14 This book explores how the publication of women's life writing influenced the reputation of its writers and of the genre itself during the long nineteenth century. It provides case studies of Frances Burney, Mary Wollstonecraft, Mary Robinson, and Mary Hays, four writers whose names were caught up in debates about the moral and literary respectability of publishing the private. Focusing on gender, genre, and authorship, this study examines key works of life writing by and about these women and the reception of these texts. It argues for the importance of life writing as a crucial site of affective and imaginative identification in shaping authorial reputation and afterlife. The book ultimately constructs a fuller picture of the literary field in the long nineteenth century and the role of women writers and their life writing within it.

Women's Letters as Life Writing 1840-1885 Catherine Delafield, 2019-12-16 Examining letter collections published in the second half of the nineteenth century, Catherine Delafield rereads the life writing of Frances Burney, Charlotte Brontë, Mary Delany, Catherine Winkworth, Jane Austen, and George Eliot, situating these women in their epistolary culture and in relation to one another as exemplary women of the period. She traces the role of their editors in the publishing process and considers how a model of representation in letters emerged from the publication of Burney's Diary and Letters and Elizabeth Gaskell's Life of Brontë. Delafield contends that new correspondences emerge between editors, biographers, and their biographical subjects and that the original epistolary pact was remade in collaboration with family memorials in private and with reviewers in public.

Women's Letters as Life Writing addresses issues of survival and choice when an archive passes into family hands, tracing the means by which women's lives came to be written and rewritten in letters in the nineteenth century.

Biographical Misrepresentations of British Women Writers Brenda Ayres, 2017-11-08 This book is an investigation of the biases, contradictions, errors, ambiguities, gaps, and historical contexts in biographies of controversial British women who published during the long nineteenth century. Many of them left unchecked and perpetuated from publication to publication. Fourteen scholars analyze the agenda, problems, and strengths of biographical material, highlighting the flaws, deficiencies, and influences that have distorted the portraits of women such as Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, Mary Wollstonecraft, Mary Hays, Sydney Owenson, Letitia Elizabeth Landon, Felicia Hemans, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Caroline Norton, Elizabeth Gaskell, Charlotte Brontë, Lady Florence Dixie, George Eliot, and Edith Simcox. Through exposing distortions, this fascinating study demonstrates that biographies are often more about the biographer than they are about the biographee and that they are products of the time in which they are written
