Derderian, 2016-04-30 Derderian looks at the large North African population in France and their attempts for recognition in a country which has long denied its rich immigration past and present He considers how the North African community has developed from the late 1970s to the mid 1990s especially in their political and cultural initiatives Derderian examines the radio station Radio Beur and the television show La Famille Ramdam as well as political initiatives and the role of ethnic minorities in defining prominent French sites of memory such as the working class suburbs or banlieues and the Algerian War Based largely on oral history Derderian draws from a wealth of interviews with North African artists and creators as well as various French cultural actors Expressions of the Body

Charlotte Baker,2009 This book contributes to a growing corpus of writing on the body bringing new perspectives to this fascinating and topical subject Feminist psychoanalytic and queer readings among others have demonstrated the extent of the functions and roles fulfilled by the body as well as the number of critical perspectives it can serve However by and large African representations of the body have been overlooked This coherent volume brings together essays on the portrayal of the body in African art film literature photography and theatre The book includes thematically linked contributions which explore issues of power and representation and reflects current trends in the study of the body and more broadly within the field of African Studies Narrating War and Peace in Africa Solimar Otero,2010

Narrating War and Peace in Africa interrogates conventional representations of Africa and African culture mainly in the twentieth and early twenty first centuries with an emphasis on portrayals of conflict and peace While Africa has experienced political and social turbulence throughout its history more recent conflicts seem to reinforce the myth of barbarism across the continent in Nigeria Rwanda Somalia Sierra Leone Uganda Kenya Mozambique Chad South Africa Zimbabwe and Sudan The essays in this volume address reductive and stereotypical assumptions of postcolonial violence as tribal in nature and offer instead various perspectives across disciplinary boundaries that foster a less fetishized more contextualized understanding of African war peace and memory Through their geographical historical and cultural scope and diversity the chapters in Narrating War and Peace in Africa aim to challenge negative stereotypes that abound in relation to Africa in general and to its wars and conflicts in particular encouraging a shift to more balanced and nuanced representations of the continent and its political and social climates Contributors Ann Albuyeh Zermarie Deacon Alicia C Decker Am na Mo nfar Kayode Omoniyi Ogunfolabi Sabrina Parent Susan Rasmussen Michael Sharp Cheryl Sterling Hetty ter Haar Melissa Tully Pamela Wadende Metasebia Woldemariam Jonathan Zilberg Toyin Falola is the Jacob and Frances Sanger Mossiker Chair in the Humanities and University Distinguished Teaching Professor at the University of Texas at Austin Hetty ter Haar is an independent researcher in England Postcolonialism and Migration in French Comics Mark McKinney,2021-01-14

The author analyzes comics representing a gamut of perspectives on immigration and postcolonial ethnic minorities ranging from staunch defense to violent rejection Individual chapters are dedicated to specific artists artistic collectives comics or themes including avant gardism undocumented migrants in comics and racism in far right comics

The Civilizing Mission in the Metropole Amelia H. Lyons, 2013-11-13 France which has the largest Muslim minority community in Europe has been in the news in recent years because of perceptions that Muslims have not integrated into French society The Civilizing Mission in the Metropole explores the roots of these debates through an examination of the history of social welfare programs for Algerian migrants from the end of World War II until Algeria gained independence in 1962 After its colonization in 1830 Algeria fought a bloody war of decolonization against France as France desperately fought to maintain control over its most prized imperial possession In the midst of this violence some 350 000 Algerians settled in France This study examines the complex and often contradictory goals of a welfare network that sought to provide services and monitor Algerian migrants activities Lyons particularly highlights family settlement and the central place Algerian women held in French efforts to transform the settled community Lyons questions myths about Algerian immigration history and exposes numerous paradoxes surrounding the fraught relationship between France and Algeria many of which echo in French debates about Muslims today

French-speaking Women Documentarians Janis L. Pallister, Ruth A. Hottell, 2005 French Speaking Women Documentarians is a guide for teachers of French and others interested in selecting and researching the work of female French speaking documentarians Represented in this book are filmmakers from Canada various African nations the Antilles Lebanon Switzerland Belgium and several other countries with emphasis on Agn s Varda of France arguably the greatest female documentarian of all The book includes information on each filmmaker classified by country of origin and lists and describes her works giving factual information such as date duration credits and synopses and pointing out critical treatments both in English and in French of her most important films Shorts docudramas and works of animation are also discussed as they too reflect history and culture This guide will lead to the viewing of films that shed understanding on the culture being portrayed and to a greater appreciation of the contribution of French speaking women filmmakers to this important if not always objective film genre

Jews and Gender in Liberation France K. H. Adler, 2003-08-07 This book takes a new look at occupied and liberated France through the dual prism of race specifically Jewishness and gender core components of Vichy ideology The imagining of liberation and the potential post Vichy state lay at the heart of resistance strategy Their transformation into policy at liberation forms the basis of an enquiry that reveals a society which while split deeply at the political level found considerable agreement over questions of race the family and gender This is explained through a new analysis of republican assimilation which insists that gender was as important a factor as nationality or ethnicity A new concept of the long liberation provides a framework for understanding the continuing influence of the liberation in post war France where scientific planning came to the fore but whose exponents were profoundly imbued with reductive beliefs about Jews and women that were familiar during Vichy      Postcolonial Hospitality Mireille Rosello,2001 Hospitality has emerged as a category in recent French thinking for addressing a range of issues associated with immigration Concentrating primarily on France and its former colonies in North and sub Saharan Africa this book considers how hospitality and its dissidence are defined practiced and represented in European and African fictions theories and myths at the end of the 20th century      Postcolonial Images Roy Armes,2005-02-23 A comprehensive introduction to North African film      Hijab and the Republic Bronwyn Winter,2009-01-19 The hijab is arguably the most discussed and controversial item of women s clothing today It has become the primary global symbol of female Muslim identity for Muslims and non Muslims alike and is the focus of much debate in the confrontation between Islam and the West Nowhere has this debate been more acute or complex than in France In Hijab and the Republic Bronwyn Winter provides a riveting account of the controversial 2004 French law to ban Islamic headscarves and other religious signs from public schools While much has been written on the subject Winter offers a unique feminist perspective carefully delineating its political and cultural aspects Drawing on both scholarly literature and popular commentary she examines the headscarf debate from its inception in 1989 through fluctuations in its intensity over the 1990s to its surging significance in the wake of 9 11 and the consequent shift in global politics      Encyclopedia of Arab Women Filmmakers Rebecca Hillauer,2005 Arab women filmmakers Who are they What drives them What are their experiences in a male dominated profession How do they function within the contexts and constraints of patriarchal societies The answers are complex and sometimes surprising as complex and surprising as the vastly different films these women direct In this unprecedented book Rebecca Hillauer assembles a comprehensive and penetrating look into the history of Arab women s filmmaking as well as the political and social background of the countries Egypt Iraq Lebanon Syria Algeria among others from which these artists emerged In addition to the biographies filmographies and discussions of their most important works lively in depth interviews allow us to hear from the filmmakers themselves Collectively these women who hail from a wide range of professional religious and social backgrounds provide a varied and vivid picture of what it means to work in creative and journalistic fields in the modern Arab world For Hillauer the subject of a film its genesis and the personal story of the artist who created it reveal far more than a particular approach to cinematography Arab women filmmakers and their main characters who are often semi autobiographical not only afford us a look at seldom seen facets of Arab societies they personify an alternative women s model one that is far removed from western clichés Broad in scope and rich in insight Arab Women Filmmakers is a must read for cineastes as well as students of film feminism and the Middle East      Muslim Girls and the Other France Trica Danielle Keaton,2006-02-27 Keaton provides the most in depth analysis of the predicament of French Arabs and Africans living in the suburbs of Paris One can read the book through the lens of such great African American writers and activists as Richard Wright James Baldwin and Malcolm X It contains an implicit warning to you France not to repeat the American racism in your country from the foreword by

Manthia Diawara Muslim girls growing up in the outer cities of Paris are portrayed many ways in popular discourse as oppressed submissive foreign kids from the projects even as veil wearing menaces to France's national identity but rarely are they perceived simply as what they say they are French Amid widespread perceptions of heightened urban violence attributed to Muslims and highly publicized struggles over whether Muslim students should be allowed to wear headscarves to school Muslim girls often appear to be the quintessential other In this vivid evocative study Trica Danielle Keaton draws on ethnographic research in schools housing projects and other settings among Muslim teenagers of North and West African origin She finds contradictions between the ideal of universalism and the lived reality of ethnic distinction and racialized discrimination The author's own experiences as an African American woman and non Muslim are key parts of her analysis Keaton makes a powerful statement about identity race and educational politics in contemporary France Creative State Natasha Iskander, 2011-06-15 At the turn of the twenty first century with the amount of money emigrants sent home soaring to new highs governments around the world began searching for ways to capitalize on emigration for economic growth and they looked to nations that already had policies in place Morocco and Mexico featured prominently as sources of best practices in this area with tailor made financial instruments that brought migrants into the banking system captured remittances for national development projects fostered partnerships with emigrants for infrastructure design and provision hosted transnational forums for development planning and emboldened cross border political lobbies In Creative State Natasha Iskander chronicles how these innovative policies emerged and evolved over forty years She reveals that the Moroccan and Mexican policies emulated as models of excellence were not initially devised to link emigration to development but rather were deployed to strengthen both governments domestic hold on power The process of policy design however was so iterative and improvisational that neither the governments nor their migrant constituencies ever predicted much less intended the ways the new initiatives would gradually but fundamentally redefine nationhood development and citizenship Morocco's and Mexico's experiences with migration and development policy demonstrate that far from being a prosaic institution resistant to change the state can be a remarkable site of creativity an essential but often overlooked component of good governance Past Forward Dayna Oscherwitz, 2010-09-15 In Past Forward French Cinema and the Post Colonial Heritage author Dayna Oscherwitz focuses on the world of French films with a new lens Drawing upon a wealth of research and the examination of popular French movies Oscherwitz offers fresh perspectives not only on the unique importance of motion pictures and their indelible influence on French character but on current debates regarding individual and collective memory Past Forward traces the development and ascension of the French heritage film those historical and costume dramas focusing on prestigious French subjects events and settings These motion pictures preeminent during a period of globalization and fear over the affects of immigration in 1980s France quickly came to embody a specific version of French national and collective identity one that idealized the past condemned the present and created an institutional form of memory Oscherwitz presents the intriguing notion that French heritage films are not exclusively expressions of nationalism and nostalgia as has commonly been asserted. On the contrary, although these movies were born out of a perceived loss of French culture, their ambivalence toward traditional hallmarks of nationalism opens them up to new interpretation. Also in contrast to typical conceptions, the author suggests that these heritage films are far from cinematic bastions of multicultural backlash; instead, she argues, popular culture has in its own fashion reinserted the history of colonialism and immigration into the national past, thus reimagining heritage itself. Against this backdrop, Oscherwitz goes on to investigate the multicultural worlds of beur and banlieue movies, cinema seemingly in direct contrast with the heritage film, offering the theory that these films serve as a counter-memory to an institutionalized one and provide alternative models of collective memory and identity. Through careful analysis of several examples, Oscherwitz demonstrates how these two seemingly different realms, heritage and multicultural cinema, are far from mutually exclusive in the construction of French identity. Throughout the volume, numerous well-known French movies are reexamined, inviting new interpretations of and challenging old views through investigations of familiar cinematic works. Past Forward is a revolutionary volume that boldly reimagines our ideas about French film and its role in communicating history and memory. Algeria and France, 1800-2000 Patricia M. E.

Lorcin, 2006-10-19 The relationship between Algeria and France that formed during the 132 years of colonial rule did not end in 1962 when Algeria gained its independence. This long period of occupation left an indelible mark on the social fabric of both societies, one that continues to influence their cultures, identities, and politics. Wide-ranging in scope yet complementary in focus, the essays deftly convey the extent to which the French colonial experience in Algeria resonates on both sides of the Mediterranean. Young and established scholars shed light on the linguistic, cultural, and social mechanisms of violence, remembrance, forgetting, fantasy, nostalgia, prejudice, mythmaking, and fractured identity. Addressing the nature of Franco-Algerian relations through such topics as migration, displacement, settler colonialism, racism, and sexuality, these essays provide an important contribution to postcolonial studies, cultural studies, and North African history. With renewed public debate surrounding the two countries' shared past and their interwoven communities today, this volume will be indispensable for anyone with an interest in the relations between Algeria and France and the literature on memory and nostalgia.

Interculturalism, Society and Education, 2010-01-01 In no part of the world today is the concept of intercultural exchange a novelty, and in many parts of the world it has even been a long tradition. Nevertheless, recent globalization forces have combined to accelerate many aspects of migration and intercultural confrontation. As a result, we see an emerging world society in which intercultural mixing and conflict are salient characteristics rather than being exceptional situations or embryonic phases of societal development. The need for intercultural education and for intercultural dialogue in various forms has become universal. All people have an obligation to participate in and take responsibility for world peace, balanced sustainable development, and democratic dialogue to create the capacity to live together. Persistent and increasingly complex patterns of population movement with all of the societal ramifications that accompany them demand consideration of ways in which different societies respond to issues of intercultural education and dialogue both historically and currently Interculturalism Society and Education contains contributions that explore comparative and international case studies ranging from accounts of educational problems impacting specific immigrant groups in Europe socio educational programs and projects in Africa and Asia comparative analyses of citizenship education issues in selected countries and a global overview of different patterns of the interculturalism society education nexus This volume offers a sampling of the multiplicity of intercultural forms around the world useful for policy makers and educators across the spectrum of institutions and organizations that strive to open paths for positive intercultural exchange through education
