LUDWIG BACHRICH was born in Austria in 1873 and practically the whole of his professional career was spent in that country. After receiving his general education he commenced in 1891 a four years' course of study at a technical high school, where he was awarded the civil and mechanical engineering diploma. His first appointment was as engineer to the Breyer Filter Company. After holding this position for five years he went into business on his own account, and in 1900 established the firm of Bachrich and Company, general engineers. Eleven years later he became managing director of the Ludwig Bachrich Tattendorfe Maschinenfabrik Company and finally in 1928 founded a private concern for the manufacture of kilns for drying timber. The products of these firms, all of which exploited Mr. Bachrich's patents, were largely exported and included crude oil and Diesel engines, as well as threshing machinery. He also specialized in the design and erection of generating stations and prefabricated timber houses. In addition his services as consultant were in request by numerous industrial firms. After the occupation of Austria by Germany he came to England and established the Bachrich Construction Unit Company at Long Eaton, Nottingham; he also continued to practice as a consulting engineer. He was the chairman of the Long Eaton firm until his death, which occurred on 23rd October 1943. Mr. Bachrich was elected a Member of the Institution in 1942.

ERNEST BACON was educated at Bury Grammar School and at the King's School, Worcester, and served his apprenticeship in the works of the London and North Western Railway at Crewe, from 1900 to 1903, during which period he took a year's course in engineering at Liverpool University. He then began a connexion with the motor industry which lasted to the end of his professional career, his first employment being that of first assistant to the fitting superintendent of the Wolseley Motor Works at Birmingham. Subsequently he was made superintendent of the chassis erecting shops. After holding the position of general manager of Mr. H. F. S. Morgan's garage at Malvern, from 1906 to 1909, he was engaged in a similar capacity for five years with the Cleveland Car Company, Ltd., of Darlington. Shortly after his appointment as branch general manager to Messrs. Mann, Egerton and Company, Ltd., of Bury St. Edmunds, he was commissioned in the R.A.S.C., and served in France as corps workshops officer until his demobilization in 1919 with the rank of captain, when he returned to Messrs. Mann Egerton. Some five years later he was appointed wholesale representative for the Rover Company, Ltd., Coventry, with whom he remained for a similar period; and finally, after holding the position of sales manager to the Cheam Motor Company, Ltd., for a brief period, he went into retirement. Mr. Bacon, whose death occurred at Budleigh Salterton, Devonshire, on 4th December 1943, in his sixty-third year, was elected a Graduate of the Institution in 1902, and was transferred to Associate Membership in 1908.

FREDERICK BAMFORD was the founder, and for over thirty years the managing director, of the Stockport engineering firm bearing his name. He was well known in marine engineering circles as a specialist in the design and manufacture of propellers, particularly of those required for the propulsion of light craft of high speed. He was born in 1873 and served his apprenticeship with Mr. Ellis Butterworth, general engineer, of Rochdale, from 1886 to 1894. After two years' employment as mechanical engineer at the Mersey Rubber Works, Warrington, he joined Lloyds Packing Company of Manchester in 1896, for whom he acted as engineer to various warehouses and took charge of the steam, hydraulic, and electrical plant. Three years later he began to practice on his own account as a consultant, specializing in the design of power plant. In 1904 he became assistant to the general manager of Messrs. Mather and Platt, Ltd., of Manchester, and held this position until 1907, when he accepted an appointment as resident engineer to the Port Madryn Company, Argentina, where his activities included the construction of a new pier, an extension of the railway, the reconstruction of bridges, and the installation of the town's water supply. On relinquishing that appointment in 1910 Mr. Bamford returned to England and in the following year established the marine engineering business in which he continued to take an active part up to the time of his death, which occurred in November 1943. He had been an Associate Member of the Institution since 1910.

ROBERT HENRY BASKERVILLE was the managing director of Messrs. Platt, Levick and Company, Ltd., makers of precision ground steel bars, Chester. He had held that position since his establishment of the firm in 1919. He received his technical education at the Municipal School of Technology, Manchester, subsequently attending further classes in electrical engineering. After the conclusion in 1909 of a five years' apprenticeship with Messrs. Mather and Platt of the same city, he continued in the service of that firm as an outside erector of gas engines and later for a brief period acted as assistant works manager in the gas engine department. From 1915 to 1917 he occupied a similar position at the works of Messrs. Greenwood and Batley, of Leeds. In the latter year he initiated the design of special machinery for continuous grinding of steel bars for armour-piercing bullets, the plant being actually in production in a very few months and turning out work of national importance in the Great War. Two years later he began his long connexion with Messrs. Pratt, Levick and Company, the machinery for which undertaking was made entirely to his own designs. Mr. Baskerville was elected a Graduate of the Institution in 1910 and was transferred Associate Membership in 1912, and to Membership in 1937. His death occurred in November 1943, in his fifty-sixth year.

WILLIAM PRESTON BATES was born in 1887, and after a brief preliminary training at the Wilmington Iron Works, U.S.A., served his apprenticeship with Messrs. Babcock and Wilcox, Ltd., from 1906 to 1910, during which period he received his technical education at the Regent Street Polytechnic. He continued with Messrs. Babcock and Wilcox for a further three years, gaining experience in the drawing office and erecting department, and then proceeded to South America where he was employed as a constructional engineer by the Chile Exploration Company. In 1916 he returned to England and served for three years in the explosives department of the Ministry of Munitions. A year later he was engaged by the Burma Corporation, Ltd., for duties as engineer in Burma and acted as chief engineer from 1927 until 1932, when he returned to this country and went into practice as a consulting engineer, establishing the firm of Knapp and Bates, mechanical and metallurgical engineers, at Harrow. In addition, since 1932 he had been a director of the Denver Equipment Company, Ltd., London, a position which he held up to the time of his death, which occurred on 9th December 1943. Mr. Bates was elected a Graduate of the Institution in 1909 and was transferred to Associate Membership in 1915.

JAMES BLACK was born in 1871 and received his technical education at the Technical College, Glasgow. After serving his apprenticeship with Messrs. James Howden and Company from 1888 to 1891, and with Messrs. William King and Company of the same city from 1891 to 1892, he gained further experience as an improver fitter with Messrs. Laird Brothers of Birkenhead for a brief period. He then went to sea as a marine engineer and sailed for the next ten years in ships of the City Line of Glasgow, obtaining his first-class Board of Trade

Akhmatova: Poems Anna Akhmatova,2006-05-16 A legend in her own time both for her brilliant poetry and for her resistance to oppression Anna Akhmatova denounced by the Soviet regime for her eroticism mysticism and political indifference is one of the greatest Russian poets of the twentieth century Before the revolution Akhmatova was a wildly popular young poet who lived a bohemian life She was one of the leaders of a movement of poets whose ideal was beautiful clarity in her deeply personal work themes of love and mourning are conveyed with passionate intensity and economy her voice by turns tender and fierce A vocal critic of Stalinism she saw her work banned for many years and was expelled from the Writers Union condemned as half nun half harlot Despite this censorship her reputation continued to flourish underground and she is still among Russia's most beloved poets Here are poems from all her major works including the magnificent Requiem commemorating the victims of Stalin's terror and some that have been newly translated for this edition

Избранные Стихи Анна Андреевна Ахматова, Stanley Kunitz, 1997 Witness to the international and domestic chaos of the first half of the twentieth century Anna Akhmatova 1888-1966 chronicled Russia's troubled times in poems of sharp beauty and intensity Her genius is now universally acknowledged and recent biographies attest to a remarkable resurgence of interest in her poetry in this country Here is the essence of Akhmatova a landmark selection and translation including excerpts from Poem with a Hero Anna Akhmatova Anna Andreevna Akhmatova, 1922 My Half Century Anna Andreevna Akhmatova, 1997 Anna Akhmatova is known as one of twentieth century Russia's greatest poets a member of the quartet that included Mandelstam Pasternak and Tsvetaeva This is the first paperback collection of her prose available in English The subjects of her memoirs are extraordinary she describes Modigliani as she knew him in Paris Blok near the end of his days and Mandelstam as a close friend The autobiographical prose section reveals the elusive poet's personality more clearly than any biography could including her thoughts about how difficult it was to be a poet at a time when women writers were rarely taken seriously Book Jacket White Flock Anna Akhmatova, Andrey Kneller, 2013-07-30 Anna Akhmatova June 23 1889 March 5 1966 is considered by many to be one of the greatest Russian poets of the Silver Age Her works range from short lyric love poetry to longer more complex cycles such as Requiem a tragic depiction of the Stalinist terror One of the forefront leaders of the Acmeism movement which focused on rigorous form and directness of words she was a master of conveying raw emotion in her portrayals of everyday situations During the time of heavy censorship and persecution her poetry gave voice to the Russian people Anna Akhmatova published the collection White Flock in 1917 Joseph Brodsky later described this volume as writing of personal lyricism tinged with the note of controlled terror Today it remains among her most celebrated publications It is presented here in full in a dual language book translated by Andrey Kneller
